IN THE naming of the three postmasters for Kent by the President last week, Senator John Walter Smith has proven himself to be a far better loser than many of the Kent county reactionaries, and who knows but that Senator Smith may get a great deal more out of it than the Kent county reactionaries have gotten.

FOURTEEN States in the Union now prohibit the sale of liquor. It will not be long before the State of Maryland will be included in the list. The victory in Cecil, Carroll and Calvert counties in the last election against high license was so great as to leave no doubt in the minds of thinking people as to the trend of public sentiment.

THERE is some talk of Mr. Robert Duer contesting the election of Senator Jesse D. Price to Congress in the recent election on the ground of fraud. The Republicans had control of the election machinery, and they printed the ballots. Why they should seek to discredit their own election machinery by seeking to contest Senator Price's election is among the things unknown.

THE Compensation Act, which compels every oysterman and every employee of labor regarded as extra hazardous to insure the lives of their employees, is about on a par with the infamous gallon-a-month liquor law, which the last Legislature shoved over on the people. The Compensation Act hits the employer as well as the employee, while the gallon-a-month law makes lawbreakers of those who would otherwise obey the law, while the violator has been given a freer hand than ever in the "suit case" trade.

THE next House of Representatives will be Democratic by a majority of 40. There will be 233 Democrats, and 193 Repnblicans. No use for the Republicans to crow about what they did. In the middle of Mr. Taft's term he lost control of the House, as did also Mr. Harrison, because of their tinkering with the tariff. And considering the fact that the Democrats have held on to the house by a majority of 40, when they revised the tariff downward and suffered by the depression caused by the terrible European war, the Democratic victory is a marvelous one judged by the experience of the past. The re-election of President Wilson in 1916 is certain in our judgment after such a Democratic victory in the election of November 3rd.

IN VIEW of the fact that the Kent News so frankly and honorably acknowledged the personal friendship of President Wilson for Hope H. Barroll, Esq., and his son, L. Wethered Barroll, Esq., in naming the three postmasters at Chestertown, Millington and Rock Hall, we would suggest that they hand to Mr. Barroll and his son, Mr. L. Wethered Barroll, the palm of victory, and let's put away all this factional strife, and trust to Mr. Barroll's good judgment to name a local ticket in the next primaries that will be thoroughly and absolutely in harmony with the policies and sound Democracy of the President. If the News and its friends will accord this privelege to Mr. Barroll, there will be an end to all factional strife, as the TRANSCRIPT would trust Mr. Barroll to do his duty to the people as he has always done.

WE are afraid that some of the Organization enthusiasists are not as ardent supporters of President Wilson as they have heretofore declared themselves to be. Before the Chestertown, Rock Hall and Millington postmasters were appointed they were the most ardent kind of advocates of the President and of his progressive policies. But since the postoffice appointments were announced, none of which was agreeable to the Organization claimers, quite a number of President Wilson's quondam advocates in the Organization ranks are saying "Wilson can never be President again," all because President Wilson considers the so-called Barroll wing of the Democratic party in Kent as his real friends. In view of the present attitude of the Organization towards President Wilson, it will be well for them to go into the next campaign openly opposed to the President and not seek to ride to victory on his shoulders.

THOMAS E. JEFFERSON.

Thomas E. Jefferson, Smyrma's oldest citizen, called by many Smyrnians "Grand old Man" died, Thursday morning October 29th at his home on South Main street, after a lingering illness. He was within two days of celebrating his 96th birthday and until his recent breakdown, bid fair to live to reach the century mark. In the death of Thomas E. Jefferson, Smyrna loses its oldest landmark, one who lead an honest and respected life and had been identified with the town ever since he moved to Smyrana some eighty years ago. He was the son of the late Loda and Elmira (Shewell) Jefferson and was born near St. Georges, October 31st, 1818. He was a merchant by occupation but found time for public service. For over twenty years he was on the School Board and in all the public places he gave of his best ability. He was a loyal Democrat and had the rare privilege and distinction of living within the lifetime of all Presidents who had occupied the White House, except George Washington, and of Presidental administrations, all but four. He was never an office-seeker though in 1890 he was elected assessor of Duck Creek Hundred.

Mr. Charles H. Jefferson, of this town, is a distant relative. He and his wife attended the funeral. Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson also attended the same afternoon the funeral of a Mr. Reynolds, a cousin, in Smyrna.

OUR APPRECIATION.

We are very grateful to our many friends, who verbally and by letter, have expressed their gratification at President Wilson's selection of a postmaster for Chestertown. The office is not only one of honor and prestige, but has its responsibilities. Mr. Bowers was in no sense an applicant for the position. The appointment is the result of a chain of circumstances which made it possible, and we trust a pleasure, for the President to recognize the TRANSCRIPT, which was not only the first paper in Maryland to indorse him for President, but which has fought his battles for progressive and sound Democracy since he became the head of the Nation. We simply desire to give public expression to our appreciation of the suggestion of our name to the President, who is personally acquainted with Mr. Bowers, the appointee, Mr. Bowers having been a student of the President at the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, in 1892-5.

At the same time, we are delighted to acknowledge the influence of Hope H. Barroll, Esq., and his son, L. Wethered Barroll, Esq., in the selection of a postmaster for Chestertown. Mr. Bowers would not have been the appointee had not these gentlemen suggested Mr. Bowers' name to the President when it became apparent that because of the bitter fight between the friends of both Mr. Hicks and Mr. Eben F. Perkins, pronounced candidates for the place, neither of these gentlemen could make the appointment. Postmaster-General Burleson asked Mr. Barroll to suggest another name. He did so.

President Wilson did the rest. We shall endeavor to conduct the affairs of the office with fidelity to our constituents—to our friends as well as to those who did not want us to have the job, if there be any such. Our predecessor, Mr. M. Wilbur Thomas, retires from office with a record of fine service rendered. He leaves with the utmost confidence of the public in the full and fearless discharge of great public duties, and we do not hesitate to say that he has made one of the very best postmasters Chestertown has ever had. If we can improve upon his splendid administration we shall consider that we shall have done a worthy public service when the time comes for us to "hand over the reins" to some one else.

Mr. Bowers' commission arrived on Thursday and he will take charge of the office on Monday. Mr. Thomas will assist Mr. Bowers until he becomes familiar with the work.

IT HITS EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE.

Mr. Joseph Downey, of Rock Hall, who runs an oyster packing house in the fall and winter, and a tomato cannery in summer, has been compelled to close down his packing house, we understand, because under the recent Employers' Liability law passed by the last Legislature he is compelled to spend so much money for insuring the lives of his employees against accident that he is unable to conduct the business with profit on account of the increased expense. This will mean considerable loss to the people of Rock Hall, as many hands were employed by Mr. Downey. Besides this, every oysterman who employs a culler, or any other labor on his oysterboat must insure the life of his employees against accident. The oystermen, however, will not get any more money for their oysters. The employer and employee both get hit under this compensation law, which in our judgment was passed in the interest of the bond corporations and insurance companies.

A DEMOCRATIC VICTORY.

The Wilmington Every Evening, in discussing the result of the recent congressional election throughout the country, says:

"While the Democratic party, as the party in power, undoubtedly suffered severely from the industrial depression which was represented by many men out of work, this setback is likely to be repaired as soon as times are good, which they undoubtedly will be before the next political campaign opens. Then every Democrat who voted against the administration in the hope of 'making times better' will be likely to return to former party allegiance.

"In view of this element in the result of the voting, the verdict on Tuesday last is not to be accepted as positive evidence of a condemnation of the new tariff law. If the voters had blamed the new tariff for unpromising industrial conditions, the result would have been a complete repudiation of the administration by the election of a Republican House. The return of a Democratic House must be accepted as a measure of endorsement of the new tariff law. The fate of the party which ventures upon a complete revision of the tariff has almost invariably been political condemnation at the ensuing election, expressed through its failure to continue in control of the popular body of Congress. The only exception was when the Republican Congress enacted the Dingley tariff, and it is conceded that our war flurry with Spain was largely instrumental in saving it from repudiation at the 1898 election, together with the generally demoralizing condition of the Democratic party at that time."

Farm Laborers.

L. Wethered Barroll, 609 Keyser Building, Baltimore, Md., announces that he will be in his office on November 16th and 17th, and on those two days will be prepared to furnish an unlimited quantity of Germans—farm laborers—to the farmers of this county. Mr. Barroll does not make the slightest charge for his services in securing this labor. He suggests that you either call him up over the telephone on these two days or else call at his office in person and select your own laborers and bring them home with you.

RACE HORSE STOLEN BUT RECOVERED.

Great Chase Made for the Thief Who Stole Grace Michael at Newark.

MARE RACED HERE DURING FAIR

Five members of the Harmony Detective Association of New London, Pa., a farmer's association formed nearly a hundred years ago and now composed of 260 Chester county farmers, made a record for good detective work by recovering the sorrel pacing mare Grace Michael, record 2.14¼, owned by George W. Bills, of Providence, Md., which was stolen from the training barn of Herman Tyson, on the George H. Huber farm at Newark, during Monday night. The thief first took from the stable a valuable stallion that Mr. Tyson had just brought back from Virginia to winter and race next year, but returned the animal to the stable and then led out Grace Michael, also taking a set of brass mounted harness and two blankets. He closed the stable door and went to the barn of the James Wilson estate and stole a road cart and drove down the Elkton road to the farm of George Murray. Here he broke open a carriage house within 50 feet of Mr. Murray's bedroom window and stole a new top-buggy that had cost $165 only a few weeks ago. From here he went to Elkton, where the watchman saw him going across the railroad track at 1 o'clock. From Elkton he was tracked to Chesapeake City, where, on the new concrete highway, the detectives plainly saw the marks of the mare's four-ounce racing shoes with outside spuds.

To get through this piece of new road the thief had torn down a wire fence that the road builders had erected to protect the new concrete from teams. At the other end of this piece of new road a bridge was entirely off and travel was interrupted, so the thief took out a pair of bars and drove the mare through a meadow, knee-deep in mud. He went to Bohemia bridge, where a woman heard a team driving rapidly over the bridge, which is a half mile long, at 2 o'clock. He was traced through Cecilton to Fredericktown, Md., where another woman had heard him go over the bridge. At Galena he broke into the stable of Dr. Latimer and took part of a bale of hay and some corn. There the detective party lost track of him for three hours and searched and scoured the roads for miles around aided by an armed posse of citizens. They had gone back to Galena to telephone to some surrounding towns, when a negro who had heard them, came into the store and informed them that a sorrel mare answering their description was standing down the road about a mile. The party went there at once and found the team, but no trace of the thief.

The negro, who had seen the man hitch the team, said he was a tall white man with black hair. The police here believe he is the man who escaped from the workhouse and had stolen the horse of J. B. Donovan, near Middletown, for which he was sentenced to two years. A negro recently accosted a citizen of this town on the street and said that he had seen two escaped prisoners in this town on two different Saturday nights, and that he had been informed that they were members of a horse stealing gang located in the Millington forest. Three horses have been stolen in three months and all were traced as far as Vandyke's Crossing, below Townsend, where all traces were lost. These stolen horses are taken down to this forest and kept for a while and then sent to Baltimore, where they are disposed of.

This is the first time that the members of this association have had occasion to chase a stolen horse into this part of the country and the way they accomplished their end is regarded as a credit to them and their association. The members of the party were John Strickland, Lewisville, Pa.; A. C. Mearns, Kemblesville; J. C. Vansant, Strickersville, and A. C. Wilkinson, Kemblesville. They are farmers and all left their homes and their work when they were called on and rode nearly 200 miles in their automobile. They composed one of several parties that were out on the same errand.

Sheriff Brown and a posse of men have been scouring the forests for the thief, whose name is known to the authorities, but at the hour of going to press they had not succeeded in capturing him.

NUPTIAL EVENTS.

DOWNEY—WILLIS.

The marriage of Miss May Lee Willis and Dr. Jesse Wright Downey, Jr., took place on Saturday last November 7 at one o'clock in the afternoon. Only the families and close friends of the couple witnessed the ceremony which took place in Allnutt Memorial Methodist Protestant Church and was performed by the Rev. Dr. F. T. Little. The bride wore a going away costume of blue cloth and black velvet, with a hat of black velvet and fur, and a corsage bouquet of Aaron Ward roses. Dr. Downey's only attendant was Dr. J. S. Hopkins, of Belair. A wedding breakfast was served at 12 noon to the bridal party and immediate family at the residence of Rev. and Mrs. F. T. Little. The bride and groom left the church at once for a short visit North and at the old home of Dr. Downey in New Market, Md. Dr. and Mrs. Downey will be at home to their friends after Dec. 1st at 2034 N. The bridal party entered the church to the strains of beautiful music rendered by Miss May Price of Philadelphia. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white satin trimmed with point lace and pearls and carried a beautiful bunch of white roses. The maid of honor, Miss Alta Price, sister of the bride, was attired in a gown of pink satin and shadow lace and carried pink carnations. Pledge to His Wife Alone.

A promise to his wife to stay at home more at might and to prepare for the next world was the only pledge made by Max M. Hunberry, defeated Progressive candidate for Congress from the First Kentucky district. Mr. Hunberry filed his report in Washington on Tuesday, showing he neither received nor spent a cent.

"The only promise I made any living human being during the whole of my campaign," read the affidavit, "was to my wife, whom I did promise that I would be with her at least as much more after the election as I had prior thereto, and I did give her a little friendly advice, which was this: That we both pray earnestly to get to Heaven, as there was absolutely no danger of us having to go to Washington."
