LOCAL MATTERS

Joins Auto Ranks.—Mr. Julian Jones, one of Kent county's progressive farmers, has joined the automobile ranks of Kent county and has purchased an Overland car from Mr. Clendaniel, of Kennedyville, which is a beauty.

Farm Work Begins in Kent.—Farm work begun in several parts of Kent this week, when plowing was done and fertilizer put in the ground. Mr. E. R. Anthony plowed up a couple of acres and then spread fertilizer on the ground Saturday last, but the heavy winds that followed shifted the fertilizer to other parts.

Cleaning Up Back Yards.—With the weather warming up this week and every indication pointing toward an early spring, many people in and near Chestertown have been cleaning their yards and getting them in shape for early gardens. New fences are taking the places of old ones and everywhere are evidences of delight in the belief that the hard cold winter of 1917-1918 is about over.

Will Give Free Bulletins.—To help the housewife, the government will give free of charge Farmers' Bulletins, No. 142, on "Principles and Nutritive Value of Food," which contains a chart that ought to be in every home work-shop. Bulletin 121 on beans and peas, etc., as food; 293 on use of Fruit as food; 363 on use of milk as food, all should be carefully read at this critical time. Some of the prices quoted will not be quite correct at this time, but the ratio is about the same in proportion to other things.

Next Draft March 29.—Eight hundred thousand more men will be called to the colors during this next year, beginning March 29. Maryland will furnish 382 of the first draft. Kent will, of course, furnish its quota.

Can Send Live Chickens By Parcel Post.—Postmaster Bowers informs us that live chickens may be sent by parcels post if they are properly prepared for mailing. They cannot be sent C. O. D., cannot be insured nor carried to destinations more than 72 hours' mailing distance.

An Interesting Old Clipping.—The following interesting clipping came from The Transcript of April, 1882, and will be "news" to our readers of the present date: "Chestertown has 2627 inhabitants, 798 dogs, three brass bands and seven young men who wear Paris plug hats, and yet Chestertown is not as proud, and don't put on as many airs as some other peninsula towns that have less claims to being considered a great city."

Entertainment at Rock Hall.—The entertainment by the primary school at the High School building on Thursday evening was to an audience that reached the point of standing room only. One of the cutest presentations was when Robert Morris introduced George Washington to Betsy Ross. The making of the flag and the deep curtsies of the little people were excellent. A couple of students had some lines playing on the names of the teachers. A large minstrel troupe was as interesting as many a one of older people. The songs, recitations and drills were heartily enjoyed and people declared they received their full money's worth. The proceeds are for Rev. Prettyman, who is ever helpful in school matters.
