Busy Hours

You may have noticed that telephone service from 9 A. M. to 11 A. M. is occasionally a bit slower than from 7 A. M. to 9 A. M. The difficulty is this: most people, both at home and in business, do much of their telephoning between nine and eleven in the morning. It follows that the switchboard during those two hours is exceptionally busy and the operators exceptionally crowded with work. By distributing your calls throughout the day, you can help to even up the calling rate—and get quicker service.

—Many Delaware farmers are bemoaning the fact that they have acre after acre of small yellow tomatoes, instead of the $30 to $50 per ton ones. They were unlucky in securing the right kind of seed. This should be another lesson for our farmers to select their own seed. This same misfortune befell several farmers in Kent county
