W. L. FOWLER,

BONES AND BAGS.

On account of the war many of our supplies of Bones have been cut off, and in order to get all the nice dry country bones possible, we have determined to pay about twice as much for dry bones as we used to pay. If they are delivered at our factory.
The country boys should pick up all they can and bring them to us instead of selling them to the junk dealers.
We will also pay the highest market price for good second hand

FEED FAT TO THE GUNS WHILE ALLIES USE MAKESHIFTS

All fats are jealously hoarded in Great Britain these days. Butter is a treat to be rarely indulged in. Margarine, once the butter of the poor has become universal in the British Isles. Rich and poor alike spread it on their bread. Both butter and margarine are doled out in very small weekly allowances. Each individual is entitled on his or her food card to one-quarter of a pound of either once a week.

Lard is just as carefully hoarded by the Food Controller. Dripping is naturally more extensively used for cooking than any other form of fat.
In fact, dripping, long used in place of butter on bread by the poor of Great Britain, is now actually served spread on slices of bread at popular London restaurants corresponding to Child's restaurants in American cities.

Every drop of fat which can possibly be spared goes for the manufacture of glycerine for munitions.
Britain's care and frugality in this respect are an example to other countries.

Canadian military camps in England are models in this saving of grease. Every ounce from the slop pots, every drop of the dishwasher is strained and skimmed. The purified fat is used over again for food; the residue sent to munition factories.
So scanty are the allowances that local pig keepers, once delighted to get camp swill for their grunting porkers, now scarcely consider it worth while to call.

And how does Germany compare with Britain in regard to fats? A Canadian soldier just escaped after long imprisonment in Hunland says he has actually seen the German soldiers guarding the prison camp picking up tins which the British and Canadians prisoners of war had thrown away and licking the grease off them.

It is because of the crying need overseas for fat, both for factory and table use, that the Maryland Food Administration keeps urging the reduction in its consumption here. The thrifty housewife who gets her greases, even her soaps, from the savings of her own kitchen, does not have to go for it into the open market, which is having a hard time meeting the tremendous war-time demands upon it. Here is one more way in which the women of Maryland can help win the war, and Food Administrator Baetjer sanguinely hopes that some among them will be slackers.

CAN NOW—SWEETEN LATER.
In view of the further restrictions out upon the use of sugar, the Maryland Food Administration is offering advice on how to get through the can-dying season without it. Here is one idea that will help housewives to tide over the crisis:

Home-made fruit juices take no sugar, and may be used during the winter months in a variety of ways.
One important use for fruit juices is in the making of jellies at a time of fear when sugar or its substitutes may be more plentiful, and when it is more convenient to do the work. In this way freshly made jellies may be available all through the winter.

Fruit juice may be pressed out of fruit by means of a cider press, special fruit press or other improvised presses; then heated in an acid-proof kettle up to 110 degrees F. The fruit pulp may then be poured into ordinary hot jars, hot bottles or tin cans, and handled by the same directions as those for canning of fruit itself.

Trust in God and keep your dish-water free of grease. Nitroglycerine is made of fats.

White beans are the equivalent of meats. It is crowding things to serve the two at the same time.

Never mix two lots of milk.
Salads counteract the tendency to anaemia, scurvy, gout and rheumatism.
If you are threatened with any of these ailments, make the grocer your druggist.

On a wheatless day no grain of wheat should be used. Not more than seven of these days should be observed in any one week.

JELLIED FISH.
(Official Recipes.)
Mix one and one-half cupsful of cooked fish with two tablespoonfuls chopped capers. Chopped celery and hard-boiled eggs may be added. Soak one tablespoonful gelatine in two tablespoons cold water. When the gelatine is dissolved, mix it with one cupful boiling water. Add two tablespoonfuls lemon juice and seasoning of salt and pepper. Stir in the fish mixture, pour in a chilled mold, and set in a cool place to harden. Cut in slices, and serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing. The gelatine and the fish may be arranged in layers if the housekeeper has time to spend in preparing the dish.

CORN COMES INTO ITS OWN.
Corn, highly used, will help materially to win the war; moreover, it is a real American product, and it ought to be our national dish. Not so many years ago corn and cornmeal formed the basis of only a few foods and dishes. Now corn is a breakfast cereal, the basis of nearly 100 sorts of bread and muffins; it's a sugar, a syrup, a salad oil, a cooking oil, a desert material and even a candy, and being such a distinctly American food it should rank with the Thanksgiving turkey and ice cream in our affections.

Among our French, Belgium and Italian Allies salads are rightly regarded as a necessity. She is a poor housewife who looks upon them as a luxury.

IS DISPENSER OF COMFORT

One Englishwoman Does "Her Bit" by Keeping Open House for Wounded
Men's Visitors.

There is a large class of Englishwomen, writes a London correspondent, who have to keep their own homes going, but who manage to take time to help to ease the war strain. She visits soldiers' wives and families in dark and dirty streets, as do most of her friends and hundreds of other women.
She never goes empty-handed. To pay for these luxuries she dispenses with help in the housework, rising earlier in the morning to do her craft. Here is the experience of one:

In the course of her visit to a hospital a tall, sad, young Scotchman won her sympathy. He was grievously wounded, but what he seemed to suffer from most was homesickness and a wild longing for his own people, especially his mother. "She can't afford to visit him," he said when asked why she did not visit him. "She could get a half-penny warrant. I know that, but she's not accustomed to travel, and she'd be lost in a strange town."

This gave her an idea. She would ask the mother to come to Leeds and stay with her! She met her at the station and took her up to the hospital, where the Scotchman was waiting for her.

For a few days the old Scotch woman stayed with her, and then returned to Scotland full of gratitude and delight at having seen her son. She was the first of many guests entertained by this warm-hearted Englishwoman. Soldiers' wives came, sometimes bringing with them a baby—once or twice it was a baby the father had never seen before, born while he was at the front; soldiers' sisters, sweethearts, mothers, all poor women who could not afford to have come without her offer of hospitality. They arrived tired, anxious and sad, and she comforted them and cheered them, and they went away happier to know that their dear ones had so kind a friend at hand.

CAMELS ARE IN BIG DEMAND

Great Numbers of Beast of the Desert Used by the British in Defense of Egypt.

Along the banks of the Suez canal and thence along the old coast road to the east you will find today between the endless series of British encampments caravans of camels passing to and fro with their burdens or lying patiently at their managers and chewing the cud with their tranquil expression of the beast which no stress of war can disturb, says the Manchester Guardian.

There are more camels gathered here than ever were assembled in the bazaars of Cairo or Damascus. Though the defense of Egypt has been carried forward from the canal itself to the hills and dunes of the Sinai desert and to the Land of Promise beyond, the camel is still an integral part of the defensive scheme. Roads and railways, it is true, run out here, and there eastward from the bank, but there remains a vast hinterland unreclaimed from the desert waste, in which our troops continually move.

The World on Wheels.
According to a report by the office of public roads, which takes notice of such matters, there were 3,512,996 automobiles and motor trucks and 250, 820 motorcycles registered in the United States in 1918. This is an increase of 43 per cent over the registry of cars and trucks for the previous year. The gain was greatest in the Southern states, where it reached 80 per cent. On the estimate of the present population there is now an automobile for every 29 people in the United States. On the basis of comfortable seating capacity, this makes room for one-sixth of the inhabitants, says Thomas F. Logan in Leslie's. Or, in other words, if properly apportioned, every sixth of seventh family would be found supplied. The total license revenue derived from this source for 1918 was $25,895,870, which represents an increase of $7,699,650 over the receipts of the same character for the year before.

For Old Linoleum.
An old linoleum, if not worn into holes, may be refreshed and made almost as good as new with little trouble. First, be sure that it is stretched and tacked as closely as possible.
Then paint it all over with two coats of any good wash paint, letting the first one dry before supplementing it with the second. When this is quite dry, give the floor a coating of orange shellac. After this is dry, go over it with a second coat. This gives an excellent finish to the floor and will make the linoleum not only look well, but add greatly to its wearing qualities.
An oil mop will keep it clean.

Why Cherries Are Red.
It was the theory of Darwin that nature made cherries beautiful to the eye for a definite purpose. Red, he said, was the most prominent and attractive color. Cherries turned to that hue in order to attract birds. Birds, noting the brilliant globules, tasted them, found them to their liking, told other birds and consumed the crop, swallowing seeds and all. In this way the cherry stones were carried far and wide over the country and dropped where they might grow into other cherry trees.

Wouldn't Wait That Long.
"So you're a bill collector, eh?"
"Yes, sir."
"Do you believe in a hereafter?"
"I certainly do but I'm not going to wait until then to collect this bill."

QUESTIONNAIRE FOR THE LIBERTY LOAN

An Oral Examination Which Cannot Be Answered
With "No"

MARYLAND'S FINE START

Great Expectations Of The Start Setting A Warm Pace For Our Whole Nation.

The Fourth Liberty Loan Campaign, which was inaugurated in Maryland with such gratifying enthusiasm last Saturday, today enters the "Questionnaire" stage.

Every man eligible for military service knows all about questionnaires.
The younger boys, the older men, the women and girls, probably know less, but the "questionnaire" is to be something that every one can participate in and every one is expected to lend his hand to.

It is an oral question and is to be used upon every person you meet.
Here it is. Memorize it and get to work.

"I've bought Fourth Liberty Loan bonds; have you?"
"Can't you afford to buy more bonds?"

That's not a very formidable questionnaire, but if the whole population of the state gets down to work with it there will be great results, and the workers will have the satisfaction of having done a great deed toward promoting the success of the campaign.

No county, town or district wants any other to be ahead of it in raising its quota and as much more as possible. No individual can afford to answer the "no" to your Liberty Loan "questionnaire."

With such a running start as the Fourth Liberty Loan made throughout the state last Saturday, and with the force of the drive that has continued since then it is evident that Maryland is not going to be satisfied until she has pushed her subscription up to her quota and beyond, setting a warm pace for her sister commonwealth.

That the patriotic zeal of the folks at home is as unflagging as the devotion of the boys across seas is apparent by the tremendous interest in the present loan.

Cities, towns, counties, communities, organizations, families and individuals are vying with each other in the promotion of the success of the Fourth Government loan for war purposes.

The Central Committee, while recognizing that every section is working hard, has sent out a request that no efforts be relaxed until the state has reached up such a handsome contribution to the nation's war fund as to excite the admiration of the whole land.

of our stocks, for the very good reason that styles change so frequently that it is not practicable to do so.

But, by addressing an inquiry to our Mail Shopping Service, you can get full and accurate descriptions and prices of any merchandise in our store.

For instance, if you are considering the purchase of a new blouse (the approved term for a woman's waist), a postal or letter from you will be answered by us, giving the prices and styles of the blouses of the material you prefer. If there is some hard-to-get shade that you have in mind, it is safe to say that we have it among our stocks.

Perhaps you are wondering of what fabrics the new frocks should be made? We will gladly send samples of the most favored materials, if you state whether you want silk or cotton fabrics.

And so our shoppers by mail find it easy to secure satisfactory service by dealing with Baltimore's Best Store.

May we be of assistance to you in solving your shopping problem?
