Honor For Postmaster Bowers

Announcement has been received by Postmaster T. D. Bowers, of Chestertown postoffice, that his name has been placed on the Honor Roll and sent to the Postmaster General at Washington as a mark of special distinction.

The postmaster was an entrant in the postmaster contest which closed Dec. 31 for the sale of Government Savings Securities. He competed with all other postmasters of the same class offices in the Fifth Federal Reserve Dist. and was one of the winners in this state.

A bronze Honor Pin of attractive design, bearing the inscription "Honor Postmaster," has been confrred upon the local postmaster by Howard T. Cree, Director of the Government Savings Organization, Richmond, Va., as a reward for patrotism and faithful service.

While the sale of War Savings Stamps and Thrift Stamps has been discontinued, the new Treasury Savings Certificates offered the public are so attractive that Postmaster Bowers says, "I believe this office will report much larger sales this year than last year as soon as our people recognize what a splendid investment is open to them."

THE GREAT

TRAMP PLAY COMING

WILL APPEAR AT

Comegys' Hall,

Millington, Md.,

Wednesday, Jan. 25, 1922.

The play is built distinctly on comedy lines and there is almost continuous laughter from beginning to end. It is a well written comedy, with an interesting plot and the story told is a happy blending of sunshine and shadows. During the action of the play many pleasant specialties are introduced, and the little details supplied in the stage settings are so perfect that the audience gradually enters into the spirit of the situation and forgets the theatre. The piece is handsomely staged. The scenery all new and bright.

If you don't laugh, don't come, but if you do laugh, don't miss it.
