Gravel Roads Still Popular in Wisconsin

A. R. Hirst, State Highway Engineer of Wisconsin, has just issued a quarterly report which indicates that 2,552 miles of road will have been completed in 1921. Of the total mileage, 1,036.9 miles, or approximately 40 per cent., are gravel roads.

With all the agitation in favor of the more expensive types of roads during the past few years, there has been a tendency to overlook the cheaper types such as gravel or to think that they have become back numbers. The fact that such a progressive state as Wisconsin is using gravel on 40 per cent of its improved roads shows that this is far from the case. The day of the gravel road has not passed by any means and it is not likely that it will ever pass so long as local material is available and the volume of traffic does not require a more durable surface.

The desirability of using gravel for the less heavily traveled roads is still further increased by the addition of a bituminous surface which, if properly maintained, makes a road that will last indefinitely and will be in good condition throughout the entire year while the saving in cost over the more expensive type of surface is tremendous.

Eastern Shore Society Meets

The Eastern Shore Society gathered Thursday night at the Hotel Rennert in Baltimore and the meeting was a big success. It was the ninth annual dinner of the Eastern Shore Society of Baltimore City, and it was all Eastern Shore. The speakers for the occasion were George Wharton Pepper, the new United States Senator from Pennsylvania, and Bishop George W. Davenport, of the P. E. Diocese of Easton.

Those present from Kent were: J. Henry Baker, Hope H. Barroll, Jr., James G. Beck, W. W. Beck, Comegys Brown, C. C. Brown, Henry Brown, J. W. Chapman, Jr., J. S. Constable, H. M. Crouch, T. W. DeCorse, Walter U. Dowling, Walter R. Gale, B. Howard Haman, Thomas L. Hines, William D. Hines, D. M. Munroe, R. G. Nicholson, W. T. Nicholson, S. C. Pennington, C. W. Perkins, Eben F. Perkins, Thomas W. Perkins, Dr. Robert C. Rasin, H. O. Redue, Jacob W. Hook, Dr. Irving Miller, Robert R. Ayres, H. H. Gettemuller, Fred H. Gettemuller, Thomas R. Cornelius, Alfred H. Russell, Henry S. Wells, Dr. J. B. Swatka, W. Herdman Schwatka, John D. C. Duncan, Clarence Soper, H. Stockton Startt, James W. Stevens, R. Nelson Stevens, D. B. Stewart, Hyland P. Stewart, W. Melvin Stewart, Nathan Childs, W. H. Stockham, Dr. W. F. Taylor, W. Wilson Taylor, Dr. W. H. Toulson, B.Preston Usilton, C. Everett Wallis, Lewin W. Wickes, Harry C. Willis, Jesse Usilton, W. G. Wilson, Douglas Wilkinson.

No Joke After All

It is stated that an aged colored couple living near Blanco, Del., had retired for the night, and soon thereafter Aunt Georgianna called out in a distressed voice to her husband, "I says, Henry, I'se a-dying!" To which he replied, "I says, dog my cats, Georgianna, if you'se a-dying, drive right on."

After a few moments of silence Aunt Georgianna again called out, "Indeed, I'se a-dying, I'se a-dying for sure!" To which he again replied, "Well, I says dog my cats, Georgianna, if you'se a-dying drive right on and quite your fool talk, or you might wake up in the morning and find you is dead."

But Aunt Georgianna was not joking, after all, for when her husband awoke in the morning he found that while he was tranquilly sleeping she had passed away.
