ITEMS CONCERNING MANY BRANCHES OF SPORT CLUSTERED UNDER THIS HEADING

A big crowd of Kent County hunters went to Queenstown on Friday and Saturday to see the northern hounds and the Western Shore hounds hunt. According to a big majority of our local hunters, the dogs were not equal to the occasion and it was not until the local dogs arrived that the fox was made to seek cover. It seems there is a vast difference of opinion regarding hunting of foxes, and it differs greatly, according to the section of the country in which you hunt. Personally, we prefer our type of hound, where the dogs trail and tongue freely. But there are other parts of the country where dogs tongue only when they are on the trail, and not somewhere near it. It seems that Mr. Yandell's Connecticut pack of hounds was of this latter type. Casey, regarded by some as the most remarkable hound ever in this section, was of this type. Casey would tongue only when he was on the trail. As a consequence to our hunters he seemed to be hitting and missing, but in reality he was following his natural course of breeding, tonguing when he was on the trail and then only. He throwed away, however, at a dizzy pace, and our dogs would not hark to him. As a consequence, by our hunters generally he was termed a roamer and was not at all popular. Dogs that tongue when on the trail only, spreading wide apart and making rapid progress over the ground and toward their quarry, keep him incessantly on the move and either soon earth him or lose him or catch him. We did not see the run of Friday or Saturday, but when you consider the fact that about two hundred riders were scurrying over the hunted area, turning the fox from his natural leads into sharp breaks and bends, and that many strange dogs were thrown into the pack of already ambitious dogs on strange grounds and among strange people, it is no wonder to us that an unsuccessful hunt was pulled off. The visitors, however, enjoyed the hunt and that is what they came for. Col. Roosevelt, son of the Ex-President, was with the northern riders, and he saw some fine Eastern Shore dogs and fearless riders—also plenty of Maryland rain—if nothing else. May they come to this section again, and may the weather conditions be more favorable for a fox hunt.

Baseball fans are anxiously awaiting the opening of the season at Washington College. The season will doubtless be an interesting one.

Culver, who played back and forth on the Shore last season, has signed up to play ball this summer with Laurel in the newly organized Eastern Shore League. Sam Frock will manage the Laurel club.

The schedule of the Eastern Shore League is being rapidly arranged, the idea being to divide the best drawing dates, such as holidays and business days, so that each team will gets its fair share; also the cost of transportation of the teams from town to town is being arranged. Every effort is being made to avoid any discrimination among the teams, it being the desire of the directors and managers to have absolute harmony.

Officials of the State Game Department estimate that $500,000 worth of game was killed in the state during the gunning seasons last year. They are now actively replenishing the stock through propagation and distribution at a cost of about $75,000. This indicates the profitable side of the game stocking activities of the department.

Just now 10,000 Mexican quail are coming to the State from the Mexican border in shipment lots ranging from 200 to 500 birds each. Some distributions have already been made. The mortality rate among the birds shipped here has been remarkably low so far as the reports go. Out of the 550 birds shipped to Washington county only four died before they reached the state. Only one out of 100 died in the Worcester county shipment. Game officials say that this is due to the fact that the birds were not held so long in quarantine on the border. The Game Department has received 400 of the 3000 cotton-tail rabbits which they have bought through a Pittsburgh broker from Kansas dealers. This is the first time that the department has ever attempted to distribute rabbits, but there was a big demand for them and the slaughter was rather heavy last season, so the officials decided to restock the covers. The Department will soon receive 7000 Chinese ring-neck pheasant eggs, which they will hatch for distribution at the State Game Farm at Gwynbrook. It is thought that a great many of these birds, which the department has been putting out for the last few years, were killed last year by hunters. There was quite a demand for the tail feathers of the cock, which were fashionable as trimmings for ladies' hats and it is thought that this may have resulted in some unnecessary slaughter.

Due to the fact that St. John's was unable to meet the Washington five recently, the Washington team has completed his schedule. The season has been most successful. The team, after the addition of Dumschott to the line-up, never lost a game, winning thirteen consecutive contests. Carroll has proved the sensation of the year and will go down as the best basketball player that ever represented the college on the oval.

Here's one that may land somebody either in the House of Representatives or the Federal Penitentiary. It is stated that Harry Satterfield, of Rehoboth, well known conductor on the Delaware Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, owns one of the most valuable dogs in Delaware. According to this authority, the dog has been used as a rabbit dog, bird dog, fox hound and coon hound—all within twenty-four hours, by the owner. Mr. Satterfield, it is said, last summer picked up his fishing outfit to try his luck in the waters of Rehoboth bay, but missed the dog, and upon going to search for him, found the animal digging him angle worms for his bait!

Albert C. Outten, Seaford's crack checker player, defeated William Quillen, a crack Bridgeville player, four straight games this week. The games were played over the telephone, using number on the boards for moving purposes.

Animals are not immune to kindness any more than are human beings. The following "Ten Commandments" to prevent cruelty to animals are published with a view toward minimizing useless cruelty and killing:

1. Thou shalt not deal cruelly with the creatures of God's creation, placed under thy dominion, but in kindness, justice and mercy shalt thou administer thy guardianship over beast, bird and cattle seeking to serve in the spirit of thy Creator.

2. Thou shalt not delight thyself in graven images but rather in tender mercies to those who depend upon thy guardianship. Thou shalt not lay blame or punishment unwarranted on animals who have no means of asserting their rights, wherefore thou art to them the adjutor of righteousness in their midst.

3. Thou shalt not curse thine cattle nor inflict vengeance upon any of God's creatures, for the Lord will not hold him guiltless who disregards his creation.

4. Remember the Sabbatical rights of God's creatures and practice them sacredly. Every beast of burden and every animal in thy service shall have its day and fitting seasons of rest whereby the drudge of toil in thy service may be comfortably mingled with the joy of living. With reason and consideration thou shalt assign their tasks and with equal care thou shalt provide food, rest, succor, merey and those things which make for the natural joy of living.

5. Honor and request thy guardianship over the animals which have been thy faithful servants and desert them not in an evil day.

6. Thou shalt not kill for the joy of killing; for the sport of killing; for the contest in skill; or for selfish gain. For the righteous man regardeth the life of the beast.

7. Thou shalt not commit thyself to the lusts of bloody contests nor seek to look upon the cock-fight, the live pigeon shoot, the bull-fight and all such atrocious acts.

8. Thou shalt not steal, destroy, nor take unto thyself selfishly or wantonly that which belongs to the comfort and needs of thy animals.

9. Thou shalt not bear false witness for paltry gain to thyself whereby God's creatures suffer hunger, anguish or torture. Let the testimony of thy guardianship be above thy lust for gain.

10. Thou shalt not covet the bird's plumage, nor the animal's fur; thou shalt not covet the robin's nest nor her young by her side, nor the pigeon the freedom of the air, nor the deer the joy of the lair.

Tom Gibbons, who has been pushed forward as a contender for Dempsey's crown for a year or so, could not even hold his own with Harry Greb, on last Monday night, in New York, notwithstanding the fact that he outweighed his opponent many pounds.

A big race between fox hounds was held over in Queen Anne's county on Monday, in Tilghman's Neck, between Kent county and Queen Anne's county hounds. There were over a hundred hounds in the race, with all of them practically from Queen Anne's with the exception of four owned by Mr. Harvey Brice, of near Rock Hall, son of Capt. John Brice, and nephew of Mr. George Brice. Mr. Brice's hounds consisted of a big black and tan and white hound and three blues, strictly speaking, being blue and white marked. Mr. Brice's hounds soon set a dizzy pace for the Queen Anne's dogs and they were unable to stay with the three blues, who contented themselves with staying about a field ahead of the pack. This is not the first time lately that these three dogs have proved their worth, that they are three of the best on the Eastern Shore. Fast, true and sensible, they stand as perfect types of what a Kent County hound can do when trained properly. The father of these three wonderful dogs is "Buck," the big blue owned by James Jones, of Chestertown, and sold to parties in the north about a year ago. Mr. Brice is an ideal hunter of foxes, in our opinion and in the opinion of all who have seen him hunt. He knows how to handle hounds and how to train them to run a fox and to stay there, and has developed some of the best dogs in this section of the country during the past few years. He comes from parentage that hunted before him, his father, Captain John Brice, being a great hunter when several years younger and still follows the hounds quite frequently.

—Charles M. Schwab, preisdent of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, in a recent address declared that America has come through the worst steel depression experienced in his 41 years in the business. He predicted an early return to prosperity, equal to that of normal times.
