LOCUST BLOSSOMS

(By Mary Robertine Stokes)

Some things of utter loveliness there be,
Lashed by the wafture of Spring's vanishing hand
Across our sunlit, loved sunlit land—
The whited mist of lightly driven rain,
Rose petals flying past the streaming pane,
These blossoms dripping beauty over me,
Whiter than foam upon the leaping sea,
Sweeter than famed honey of Chamouni.

There are some things of utter loveliness
Beyond the urge of long, long day-dreamed speech,
Beyond the power of mortal rhyme to reach.
These blossoms taunt the singer while they bless,
Whiter than foam upon the leaping sea,
Sweeter than famed honey of Chamouni.

HOLD FINE MEETING

Kent County Women Gather At Washington College June 8

The Kent County Council for Home Demonstration Work met at Washington College on Thursday, June 8. The first half hour was devoted to a "get acquainted period" and during this time each woman was given a card on which she wrote her name. These name cards were worn all through the day.

There was a most attractive exhibit of clothing for wome nand children for the entire day.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Wm. G. Smyth, Miss Susan Hill was elected to act as chairman for the day. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The program committee gave a short report of plans made for Farmers' Picnic in August.

Under new business came the election of officers. The chair appointed a nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. W. B. Copper, Mrs. Wm. T. Brown and Mrs. Julian Jones. The following were nominated and unanimously elected: Pres., Mrs. Wm. Medders, V. P., Mrs. Sewell Lee; Sec., Miss Susan Hill; Treas., Mrs. A. F. T. Raum.

It was moved and seconded that the president appoint one woman from each organization affiliated with the Council to meet with a committee of men from the Agricultural Council to draw up plans for a County Exhibit.

The chairman suggested that every club make a report of club work accomplished and exhibit it with canned goods and other home products at the County Exhibit.

The meeting adjourned then until 2 p. m.

A most prominent feature of the day was a luncheon served at the Maryland Tea Room.

The afternoon session started immediately after the luncheon and was opened with a roll call of clubs. Each club stood as the name was called. Following roll call each club gave a report of the work accomplished. Unusually fine reports were given. Mrs. Copper gave a very interesting report of the Chestertown Club work, mentioning the work in foods that had been done by Mrs. Robert Moffett and Mrs. Thomas Massey.

Mrs. John Clendaniel, of the Kennedyville Club, read a most interesting report which included 14 dress forms, a number of home-made hats, and plans for extensive planting of shrubbery. Mrs. Carroll, of the Flatland Club, reported they had made 8 dress forms and had been helped by the short cuts' demonstration. Mrs. Carroll also reported they had a joint meeting of men and women. Mrs. Medders, of the Still Pond Club, said they had made 14 dress forms and were all very enthusiastic over the work done by the various demonstrators. The Rock Hall report was read by Mrs. Burgess, who reported they had 40 members, made 19 dress forms, and all members were benefited by the short cuts. One member who had never made a dress had made five dresses since having her dress form. She also said that since hearing the demonstration on home conveniences they had learned why so many women could not be pleasant at the evening meal. Mrs. Ingersoll gave a report from the Quaker Neck Club.

Following the reports Miss Helen Baxter sang most effectively, "Little Grey Home in the West."

Tht first speaker of the afternoon was Miss Bertha Knight, District Home Demonstration Agent of the Maryland University, who spoke to the women on the relation of the home to the community. Miss Knight told the women that they should strive to make the home so fine and splendid that the family would rather be home than any other place. Miss Knight also discussed programs of work and club goals.

Following this address Misses Mary and Elizabeth Covey played an instrumental duet which was most beautifully rendered and greatly enjoyed.

A short time was then given up to a discussion of ways and means to increase the club membership. Some suggestions were made along the following lines: programs of work that are broad enough to interest everybory, putting stress on the recreational and the social side, holding community gatherings, and special programs for men and women.

Mrs. Robert V. Moffett, Jr., then gave a most helpful talk on the balanced meal. Mrs. Moffett is a graduate of Drexel Institute and has done considerable work as a dietitian.

The meeting then adjourned to meet again in the early fall.
