HAS GREAT INFLUENCE ON SHORE

Protestant Episcopal Church Has Been Identified With Its Progress And Prosperity

One of the strongest religious influences exerted in the early history of the Eastern Shore was that of the Protestant Episcopal Church, dating back to 1690. One of the earliest of these churches is that of Trinity Church located at Church Creek at the head of the stream bearing the same name.

This is about seven miles southeast of Cambridge, Dorchester county.

This church antedates the oldest in Wicomico county by about forty years, Green Hill, which was built in 1733. The late Bishop Lay, of the Diocese of Easton, made an exhanstive search of the records in England,and found that Dorchester Parish was in exis tance prior to 1690, and this being true the Church at Church Creek was the first church of the Parish, there being no record of any church building of an earlier date in Dorchester county.

Tradition holds that Church Creek is older than Cambridge and while quite a number of famlies had settled there at the time of the erection of the Church, the land records of the county show no evidence of town lots having been sold there before 1700. A large hollow in the church yard was for many years an object of superstition because water would not stand in it.

According to tradition, the bricks of which the church is built were brought from England. The building was a style of architecture common at that period and the shape was cruciform, a very rare construction on the shore. The high-back pews, high pulpet, the sounding-board and the choir gallery, with steps leading up from the outside were attractive features in its orignal construction, but these were removed as was also one of the wings of the church when it was restored and rebuilt in 1850.

Prior to this period there had been long periods of neglect and evidences of decay were seen about the sacred walls, but it was always rescued from the sad fate of destruction by at least a few who endeavored to keep alive this time-honored institution of religious worship, still sacred in the memory of those whose ancestors worshipped here in the years past and gone and whose bodies lay near in the burying ground in which the bodies of all denomminataions have from time to time been interred.

Boy Preacher On Shore

The Baltimore American recently printed the following item concerning the little boy preacher who interested the crowds at Concord camp the past summer: "Newton Hastings, the 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Hastings, of Salisbury, gave two entertainments in he Methodist Episcopal Church, at Sharptown, last Sunday.

He lectured, sang solos and prayed.

He is said to be the most remarkable boy on the Eastern Shore. He has been making addresses for nearly six months. He has a most remarkable memory and can tell Bible stories with almost perfect accuracy. They are read to him and he carries them in his memory. He sings hymns of many verses with perfect accuracy, and his prayers are wonderful appeals to the Heavenly Father to bless and take care of the boys and girls. He started to school only three weeks ago, and can neither read nor write. At the close of the Sunday session, after he had been singing, speaking and praying for nearly an hour, he was given a purse of money by the Sunday School, and his prayer of acceptance was that he might use it to secure an education so that he might grow up and be useful in the world.

ATLAS PORTLAND CEMENT

TOWN and country—our grandfathers would rub their eyes at many of the changes. Permanence, economy, pleasing appearance—all are far more considered than formerly.

Your building material dealer has had much to do with this change. Atlas Portland Cement has done its share in the last quarter century.

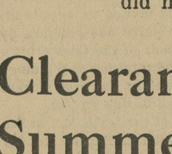

In spite of the tremendous demand for concrete, both manufacturer and dealer accept a smaller margin of profit on it than almost any other building material you can buy. It is today your most economical building material.
