Maryland Sunday School State Convention

The publishers' exhibit in the Chapel of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, on the occasion of the Maryland Sunday School State Convention, October 18-20, will be the best ever seen in Maryland. Books of every description within the Sunday School, Church and Missionary field will be on display. Material advertising special days in S. S. work, the best Cradle Roll, Home Department, Adult Class material, etc., will be available.

The great Pageant entitled "The Lamp", to be presented in the Associate Congregational Church Wednesday evening, will be a two-fold revelation: first of the supreme value of Religious Education; secondly, the tremendous teaching value of the Pageant. Pastors parents and teachers should make a special effort to see it.

Rev. Joseph Clark, D. D., State Supt. New York Sunday School Association will conduct conferences on School Administration and Adult Work in the Local School. His great address on "The Pathway to Power" will be given before the entire convention. Dr. Clark is known among writers as "Timothy Standby", under which pseudonym he has written books and pamphlets for many years.

Sunday Schools are requested to elect delegates. All other Sundy School people are also invited. The Convention is free to all-no enrollment fee will be charged. Baltimore is making great preparation for the entertainment of at least 1900 delegates from the counties.

The quota of this county is 25 and the County Sunday School Organization is making special effort to have its whole quota of delegates present and go over the top.

Big Apple Crop

In a report issued recently the United States Department of Agriculture estimates that the apple crop in the State of Deleware, up to September 1st., totaled 191,000 barrels. One barrel is the equivalent of three boxes.

The department estimates that the total apple crop of the United States up to that date was approximately 207,000,000 bushels, as compared with 98,100,000 bushels for the corresponding period in 1921.

The commercial crop of the United States is expected to amount to 32,600,000 barrels against the 1921 crop of 21,200,000 barrels, and 33,905,000 barrels in 1920.

The condition of apples in Maryland on September 1st was repored as 60.

At the same time last year the condition was reported as 15. This would indicates that the total crop this year is four times as large as that of last year. As the ten-year average of condition on September 1st. is given as 63, the crop of 1922 would appear to be about 5 per cent. smaller than the average Maryland crop of the past ten years.

In Deleware condition was reported as 88. Ten-year average of condition on September 1st. is 62, so the crop this year appears to be about 42 per cent. larger than he average Delaware apple crop of he past ten years.
