County Agent's Notes

Ithas been decided by the Kent Co. Agricultural Council and the Woman's Exhibit Committee not to hold the usual County Exhibit this fall. It is the intention of the Council to strengthen the farmers' organizations so as to place the County Exhibit on a more permanent basis. Every farmer will be called upon to join some farmers' organization.

The bed blankets and motor robes manufactured from Kent Co. wool have been shipped from the mill and will arrive soon. All "wool to blanket" co-operators will be notified by mail when to receive their shipment.

Several garlic eradication demonstrations have and will be undertaken by the County Agent this fall. This subject will also be taken up at meetings this fall and winter.

It is the eradication of garlic that is needed to obtain a better price for Kent County wheat and not the changing of the name of garlic in the grading.

Mr. R. D. Hoopes has a fine stand of alfalfa on a patch several years old. In addition to having excellent soil for alfalfa, Mr. Hoopes attributes the success of this stand to the fact that he has exercised care in the time of cutting.

Near East Relief

The ministers of Kent County are invited to meet Mr. Harold F. Pellegrin on Monday evening, Oct. 30, at the home of A. L. Harris, Howell's Point Farm, near Betterton.

Mr. Pellegrin has recently returned from the Near East and has an interesting story to tell of the way in which the money donated has been spent. He will bring with him samples of the clothing and shoes made from the cast off clothing which was sent over last winter.

Each community is urged to have a representative preesnt, as the need is so urgent, and with every one helping just a little bit, Kent can make a tremendous showing in this humanitarian work. Mrs. aHrris will serve supper at 6 p. m., after which all plans for the collection of old clothing and supplies will be made, and Mr. Pellegrin and one of his associates will tell not harrowing things to make you blue, but wonderful things of education, hope and cheer which America is bringing to these poor children.

EVELYN HARRIS.

Grange Notes

Still Pond Grange had their first meeting this fall Tuesday evening in Grange Hall. Notwithstanding the few present a pleasant hour was passed and Worthy Master seemed busy and anxious to gather together the grangers, as he urged all to get alive and busy as Pomona meeting was near. He is desirous to have a full attendance next Tuesday evening, Oct. 24, in order to elect delegates to Pomona meeting.

Bro. Cornelius gave an interesting talk on the real purport of the Grange, and how much has been achieved through the Grange—such as Parcels Post and good roads—and many others. Bro. Cornelius would love to have co-operative buying and selling through the Grange. And, why not? Why not buy cow feed, bran and even coal and save the seven or eight dollars per ton the other fellow makes by this lack of pulling together?

Bro. Jervis wished all members to come and be filled with pep for the year's work. Bring a new member with you and all old ones.
