STAGE ALL SET FOR BIG WASHINGTON-GALLAUDET FOOTBALL CONTEST TODAY OTHER SPORTS

Washington lost a close game to Mt. St. Mary's football team at Emmitsburg Saturday by the score of 18 to 14. The game abounded in thrills from the start to the conclusion of the contest. The result of the game demonstrated that it is a hard matter to beat the Mountaineers—on their home lot, any way.

At the beginning of the contest Mt. St. Mary's hit the line of Washington for a 45-yard gain through tackle for a touchdown, but missed the goal. A pass, Cronin to Bogue, early in the second half, placed the ball in Washington's five-yard line, and after each side had been penalized once, Cronin carried the ball over for the second touchdown of the game, but again failed at goal.

Washington unloosened an attack in the first quarter of the second half which swept Mt. St. Mary's off their feet and the ball was soon on their 10-yard line. The powerful Crowe was given the ball and hurtled through the Mt. St. Mary's team for the ten yards and a touchdown.

Mt. St. Mary's scored again in this period by a series of passes and line plunges. Cronin again missed goal.

Rieger scored the second touchdown for Washington College in the fourth quarter, when he caught a beautiful forward pass which had been thrown 25 yards and ran 16 yards for the final touchdown of the game. Russell kicked goal, making the count 18-14.

The work of Cronin for Mount St. Mary's and Crowe for Washington College were the features of the game. Both hit the line for good gains. Reiger and Flowers also did good work for Washington College, while Galvin who started at quarter for Cavanaugh, who was incapacitated by injury to his leg in the Lebanon game, handled the team well. The whole eleven played good football, but the large number of cripples in the line-up made a victory almost impossible. Russell, who was in at quarter most of the game, handled the team capably.

One other outstanding feature of the game was the fighting spirit of the W. C. team, which kept that team from losing heart even after two touchdown were made and which sent them back in the second half and literally swept Mt. St. Mary's off their feet. The line-up was as follows:

Washington		Mt. St. Mary's
Reiger	L. E.	Fennell
Duffy	L. T.	Lomona
Monahan	L. G.	Desmond
Kelly	C.	Crosier
Keenan	R. G.	D. Morey
Willis	R. T.	Stephens
Carroll	R. E.	Flynn
Russell	Q. B.	Riley
Gordy	R. H.	Collins
Flowers	L. H.	Naso
Crowe	F. B.	Cronin

Touchdowns: Cronin 2, Crowe, Reiger; goals from touchdowns: Flowers, Russell; referee: Sailor, Johns Hopkins; umpire: Porter, Washingtond and Lee; head linesman: Eichelberger, Calvert Hall. Time of periods, 15 and 12 minutes; attendance, 1000.

With Gallaudet as the opponents of Washington College today on Washington Field, fans of the Eastern Shore of Maryland will have an opportunity of seeing in action the best team representing Washington College on the football field since before the war. The visitors will also have the full strength of Washington against them—the same team which played such wonderful games against St. John's and Catholic University. Monahan will be in good shape at guard; both tackes will fully recovered from numerous battles, while the ends and back field will also be ready for the fray. Cavanaugh, one of the stars of the team, is in good shape. Taken all in all, Washington will present a most formidable array of football men and should win a most decided victory.

The absence of Cavanugh from the line-up Saturday against Mt. St. Mary's weakened the team considerably. Had he been in place Washington would perhaps have won a victory. Russell was in his place the best part of the game and did well, as did also Galvin, who was at quarter for a part of the time, but both lacked the snap and dash which characterizes the playing of Cavanaugh.

Practical horsemen say that it is reasonable to suppose that for the next few years horse breeding will be very much on the increase in this country. Horse-racing and horse-breeding on the Eastern Shore is a topic of continual interest and will not likely wane in this section at least.

Washington College will likely have three men on the All-Maryland elevens—at least there are three men who are eligible. Whether they will be get there is another matter. Crowe, Keenan and Cavanaugh are the ones to whom we have reference. Crowe is one of the very best backs in the state. Powerful, heavy, a terriffic line plunger, we doubt if there is a better backfield man in the state. Cavanaugh is not quite as good a man—all around—as Crowe. Not quite so heavy and powerful, he is more elusive and as good a broken field runner. He is also a good goal kicker, but rather poor at long distance punting. The state does not have a better quarter, outside the Navy team. Keenan gets his place on the All-Maryland eleven more for his defensive than his offensive work. His tremendous weight makes him a most valuable asset to the team.

Even Arthur Brisbane has not succeeded in exterminating all the dogs in this country. We wonder just how many of his readers are in sympathy with the editorials which can see no good in animals, especially dogs. When dogs, generally, are condemned, one is condemning man's best friend and his most useful ally. When one considers just the value of a good dog, we can hardly see how a sensible man can be so narrow as to preach their wholesale extermination.

A total of 638,800 jack rabbits killed is reported as a result of jack rabbit campaigns this spring in Utah, Oregon and Washington. The figures are based on very close counts by farmers and other interested persons and are considered conservative. Probably a great many more rabbits were killed than were actually reported. Jack rabbits do a great deal of damage in that section and are considered a nuisance.

There was a time when canvas back ducks were so plentiful on the Susquehanna flats that the sun was clouded. Fifteen years ago the ducks vanished. Market gunners drifted into other occupations and sportsmen turned to other kinds of sport. The flats were practically denuded of water fowl. No serious cry was made against the regulation of migratory game by the Federal Government. Many thought no great harm could come of the treaty between Canada and the United States. They were right. The treaty on the part of Canada regulates the taking of eggs, while in this country wild fowl may be killed only from Nov. 1 to Jan. 30, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays of November and December, and Saturdays in January, in all 42 days, with a bag of 25 ducks and 10 geese per day per hunter.

Coach Thomas Healey's Baltimore Professionals were defeated Sunday for the second time this year by the Washington Professionals.

State Game Warden LeCompte recently stated that the following game had been "farmed out" in the state: More 10,000 quail, 1609 cottontail rabbits and 5000 Chinese ring-necked pheasants. Mr. LeCompte created no little stir when he made an open offer that the State Game Department stood ready to pay persons $1 each for all rabbits that may be trapped and held alive until January 1.

Maryland is in the front rank of the states in the conservation of game. It is said that the scheme of the State Game Department in requesting hunters to keep account of the game they killed during the year and to give this information to the department after the close of the season was a splendid plan.

The season for hunting "big game" opened in Kent county yesterday, Friday, and will remain open until January 1. Rabbits are reported especially scarce and some way should be devised of preventing their total extermination.

The Washington College football team is face to face with a most perplexing situation. They stated before the Mt. St. Mary's game that they would not shave until they had won a game. Next Saturday should break the shaving fast. If it does not, look out for some cave men.

Princeton and Harvard meet today in the twenty-fifth game between the two colleges. Princeton has won 14 games, lost 8 and tied 3. The first contest was in 1877. This game was played in the spring. Harvard won. After this game the series ran on until 1889. with the teams evenly matched. During this period the famous game of 1887 was played that was afterward called the "bloody angle." Princeton won and relations were broken off. When Yale and Harvard broke off relations after the game of 1894, the Crimson again scheduled Princeton for the big game of the season. Princeton won both the '95 and '96 games. Relations were then again broken off to be resumed once more in 1911. Then came the years of Percy Haughton, when Harvard reached her football zenith. The war caused another break in the series, which were renewed again in 1919. The game today will be a contest between a football machine from Harvard that has recognized ability and one from Princeton that has a way of winning unexpectedly from supposedly stronger opponents. What this game today will develop is a hard matter to even conjecture. Harvard is supposed to have the best machine. We doubt if today's game will prove this to be so.

Mr. Albert Hartman brought his new boat from Hooper's Island last week and those who have seen the craft are much impressed with her. The boat is somewhat different from the ordinary boat in these waters and is capable of great speed.

Gordy is fast developing into the best punter seen here for some time. At the game at Mt. St. Mary's Saturday he kicked the ball from the kick-off across Mt. St. Mary's goal line well in the air, for a distance of 70 feet.

As we forecasted last week, Navy won from Penn State Friday. The score was 14-0. Navy, playing with full strength, has one of the best teams in the country.

Washington College has been eliminated in the fight for the State Foot ball Championship, leaving Hopkins. St John's and University of Maryland to fight it out. A tangle of considerable degree would be affected if the Methodists should succeed in handing the Johnnies a set-back a week from Saturday, and the Johnnies take a fall out of Hopkins in event the latter wins from Maryland. W. C. is the only Maryland college not on Hopkins' 1922 schedule, but as St. John's and Mt. St. Mary's have both defeated them, they are eliminated. In the event both St. John' and Maryland win from Johns Hopkins, the former would have decidedly the best claim to the honors, as Maryland will not play but one state eleven. Only a most decided triumph of Maryland over Hopkins would make them a serious contender. The question of how the three contenders compare is a rather complicated one. The real contest for championship honors lies between Hopkins and St. John's. St. John's is gaining momentum all the time and Johns Hopkins is too. So look out for a real battle when they meet on the afternoon of Nov. 25. Hopkins has the best line and St. John's the best back field. Which will be the more effective?

We pick the following winners in the important football contests today:

Washington College 20, Gallaudet 0.
Notre Dame 13, Army 7.
Princeton 7, Harvard 6.
