POULTRY

ITEMS CONCERNING THE CARE AND TREATMENT OF LARGE AND SMALL FLOCKS THAT WILL INTEREST OUR POULTRYMEN

I Call no fight a losing fight
If, fighting, I have gained some straight new strength;
If, fighting, I turned ever toward the light
Not allied with forces of the night;
If, beaten, quivering, I could say at length:
"I did no deed that needs to be unnamed;
I fought—and lost—and I am unashamed."

Close watch must be kept on the poultry flock at all times for the appearance of roup and the sick birds segregated. One sick bird in a flock can and will spread disease to them all in a short time if allowed to stay with them.

The setting hen will be used among the small poultry raisers as long as time goes on. This is well, too. What s the use going to the expense of high-priced equipment for a few chickens. With larger commercial plants the sitting hen is of little account, but with the small raiser, she is indispensible.

We have a couple of fine flocks of S. C. White Leghorns at the Bramble Poultry Farm. The cold weather is hard on them, but we expect to raise a good percentage of them, anyhow, unless something happens. This farm shipped eight hundred Barred Rock chicks down the shore Tuesday, which arrived without the loss of a single one.

The poultry business had, as its origanl excuse for existing, a recompense in cash or its equivalent in certain products of the hen. If, at the end of the year, the accounts show a balance on the profit side, its a "business"; if the balance is on the loss side, its "just a few hens my wife is keeping."

In the morning, when you are feeding your chickens remember this:

The grey-eyed morn smiles on the frowning night,
Checkering the eastern clouds with streaks of light,
And flecked darkness, like a drunken reels,
From forth days' path and Titian's wheels."

In the west the full-orbed moon, mistrees of the night, riding icily and serenely in a fathomless sky, is disputing the sway of the kind of day—but on it comes. A rooster crows, the eastern horizon grows pale and finally the orb of days swings out over the eastern horizon.

Extreme cold weather is now on us. Watch your flock closely. Keep them with plenty of water, not ice-covered pans. They can't break that. Don't forget to keep them warm at night on the bitter nights, when the thermometer hovers around zero. Frost-bitten combs are the result of too much cold.

—Herring have made their appearance in the Nanticoke river. This is nearly a month earlier than usual. The fishing industry, once so profitable along the upper part of the Nanticoke river, has almost been abandoned. The only fishing done now is with pounds and fikes and a few herring seines.

A CHESTEHTOWN INTERVIEW

Mrs. Parrott Tells Her Experience.

The following brief account of an interview with a Chestertown woman many years ago, and its sequel will be read with keen interest by every citizen:

Mrs. Jas. P. Parrott, 200 S. Front St., gave the following statement August 17, 1916: "I had been troubled off and on with kidney disorder and backache. My kidneys were irregular in action and caused annoyance. I had spells of dizziness and saw black spots before my eyes. I was tired and miserable most of the time. I began to use Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me relief."

On January 26, 1921, Mrs. Parrott said: "Doan's Kidney Pills practically cured me of kidney complaint, as it is seldom I have the least trouble now. I resort to Doan's at the first sign of my kidneys being out of order and they give me prompt relief."

Weak Back

Mrs. Mildred Pipkin, of R. F. D. 8, Columbia, Tenn., says: "My experience with Cardui has covered a number of years. Nineteen years ago . . . I got down with weak back. I was run-down and so weak and nervous I had to stay in bed. I read of

CARDUI

and sent for it. I took only one bottle at that time, and it helped me; seemed to strengthen and build me right up. So that is how I first knew of Cardui. After that, . . . when I began to get weak and 'no account', I sent right for Cardui, and it never failed to help me."

If you are weak and suffering from womanly ailments, Cardui may be just what you need. Take Cardui. It has helped thousands, and ought to help you.
