What Automobile Dealers Have To Say About Automobiles, Trucks and Tractors

Both agricultural and industry are making increasing demands for the Fordson Tractor.

While the use of the Fordson as a farm implement is extending in every agricultural section of the country as farmers come to realize the advantage and economy of power farming, a most noticeable feature ofthe sales is growing of the use of this sturdy and dependable power plant in industrial and commercial activities.

Contractors and builders are everywhere adapting the Fordson to meet their needs for power, either movable of stationary, and road engineers throughout the country are specifying its use with highway construction machinery.

To meet this growing demand for Fordson Tractors ,production is now at capacity and for the first three months of the year reached a total of 27,087 as compared with 8,340 forthe same period a year ago.

Production of Ford Cars and Trucks for domesticuse during the week end-for domestic use during the week end-The highest day's production was 6,558.

Fordson Tractor production for the same period was 2,795.

Under the super-quality schedule in effect at the Lincoln division of the Ford Motor Company, production for the week ending Tuesday, April 24, totaled 139 Lincoln cars

Sales of 41,681 Ford Trucks during the first quarter, setting a new high record, bear out predictions made earlier that the use of the one ton truck in hauling and delivery systems will be greater this year than ever before

Not only is the Ford Truck rapidly coming into more general use in the commercial field, where its dependability, ease of operation and adaptability to all requirements make it the most popular, but throughout the agricultural sections of the country it is fast being adopted by the farmer as the best means of solving his problem for quicker and cheaper transportation of his products from the farm to the city

March sales of Ford Trucks, which reached the new high mark of 18,717, exceeded by more than 1,000 the sales of the first three months of 1922, totalling 17,586,and were 50 per cent. higher than the sales in February of this year.

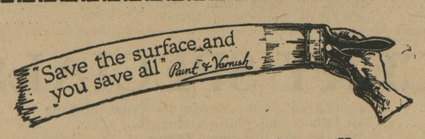

THE .MD. .LEAGUE .OF .WOMEN VOTERS HOLD THIRD ANNUAL MEETING

The Md. League of Women Voters held its Third Annual Convention in Baltimore, May 3 and 4. Kent was represented by Mrs. Wm. T. Brown who gave an interesting account of the meeting to the Chestertown League on May 9.

The League believes in porty government, it urges its members to affiliate with the party of their choice and to be interested and active in their party management, but it does not believe that the interests of the party are paramount to the interests of the county or state. The League is an organization of women of all parties. Do not repeat anything about a candidate that you do not know to be true. Make your decision on your basis of fact and merit and on the candidate's honesty of purpose and ability to carry out his platform pledges. The League has no propaganda to carry on for the next election, but the legislation for the welfare of children, the protection of working women and any social legislative program which should be supported by all men and women working for humanity. The next League meeting will be June 5.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE

The Adelphia Literary Society presented the Adelphia Black-Faced Comedians in William Smith Hall, May 5, at 8 p. m.. Professor W. R. Howell directed the performance. W. J. Stenger was the assistant director. The cast included: C. Armstrong, Bankard, Blake, Byron, Cavanaugh, Cooper, Fiore, Galvin, Keenan, Lohran, Reiger, Stewart, Stenger, Soifer and Yates. The orchestra was composed of R. C. Pippin, piano; C. A. Bacon, cornet and Norman Graves, violin. The program Committee consisted of C. M. Wingate, chairman, David McMenamin and J. K. Stewart. The proceeds went to the athletic association. After the performance a dance was held in the gymnasium.

A dance was given in the gymnasium May 4, for the West Virginia base ball team. The West Virginians were very much impressed with the cordial and hospitable treatment accorded them by the students and expressed their deep appreciation for such treatment.

The Chestertown High School base ball team played a team made up of college students on May 9, and lost by a score of 7 to 0.

On Friday we had a very heavy rain. Saturday the sun came out in all its brilliance, and having gotten rid of its cloudy veil, beamed its refreshing rays down upon the fresh-smelling, dew-laden earth below. Every thing was lovely. Yet the students were dissatisfied. Although they had no lessons to prepare for the coming day, and it was a holiday in every sense of the word, yet they were dissatisfied. Loafing was out of the question. A student does not loaf on a holiday. All his pent up energies, accumulated by inhibiting all his animal spirits during the classes must find expression in various activities. But on this day the students were at a loss as to how to pass their time away. The base ball diamond was covered with a thin sheet of water. The tennis courts were literally inundated. The pleasantness of the day did not permit any in-door sports. And above all they were chagrined by the smiling sun which seemed to mock at their little troubles. But mother necessity just then came along, whispered a few words and immediately the game of hop-la was invented. Like all new undertakings it follows crude methods, but is healthy play never the less. An automobile steering wheel without its spokes and a few sticks are all the implements required for the game. Shin guards and shoulder pads would not be amiss but are not essential. What matter a few bruises received in sport? A team may have any number of players on a side, the more the merrier. One team stands on the upper terrace, near the hall and the other team lines up on the last terrace near the main walk. If the wheel touches the walk it counts as one point scored by the upper team. After the upper team has rolled the wheel down nine times it changes places with the lower team and in turn assumes the defense. These are the methods of hop-le.
