AFTER WINTER

It's a lovely world this morning, with the blue skies overhead
And the graceful tulips nodding all around us, white and red.
It's a kindly world this morning, with the orchards dressed in bloom
And the breezes stealing from them all their delicate perfume.

Skies have worn their garb or sorrow, and the winds have chilled us through,
We have braved the snows of winter and our faith has faltered too;
But the sun shines out this morning, and the world is fair to see,
And there glows a touch of beauty on the humblest maple tree.

Once my little yard was ugly, bleak and desolate and bare
And the elm tree at my doorway seemed a symbol of despair;
But today it glows with color and the tree in green is dressed,
And a pair of merry robins in its branches have their nest.

Through the wintertime of sorrow every man of us must go,
There must come to all the season when the clouds are hanging low;
But there is no death to beauty and there is no death to peace,
Life shall bring us lovely mornings when the cruel storms shall sease.

Edgar A. Guest.

W. F. M. S. Meeting Held

The third quarterly meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Middletown Dist. was held at the Still Pond M. E. Church Tuesday, June 5.

The morning session was opened by Rev. J. A. Buckson at 10.30. Rev. E. M. Shockley, of the Still Pond Church, gave the delegates and visitors a most cordial welcome and in his address gave a very concise history of the foreign misionary movement and a brief survey of its future possibilities. This address was responded to by Mrs. Harvey Moore, of Betterton.

After a very enjoyable duet, rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Connelly, of Townsend, Del., the rest of the morning was devoted to routine business. This was brought to a close by the announcement of luncheon which was served in the Sunday School room of the church. To the picnic lunches of the delegates and visitors were added ice cream and coffee, served by the ladies of the church.

The afternoon session was opened by a very strong and inspiring address by Mrs. Charles Walters, of Still Pond. This address dealt mainly with the ideals of the society, the opportunities for larger service and the need for greater consecration and determination in the work. Miss Florence Hooper, General Treasurer of the Society, gave a most interesting talk on the general purposes of the Society and its increasing field for work.

The entire day was one of inspiration, both through the talks given and through the association with others in the same work and in larger fields of service.

STILL POND

Mrs. Charles Jewell and daughter, Miss Hilda, and Mrs. Wallace Ford spent several days this week in Baltimore.

Mrs. W. T. Stanley, of Kennedyville, spent this week with her friend, Mrs. Wm. B. Price.
