Farmers, List Your Repair Needs

It would be hard to find a farmer who at some time or another had not lost valuable time waiting for necessary repair parts. Take this territory and total up the time lost in this way and it will astonish you. And all because repairs are not odered as early as they should be.

There is no better time than right now—just before the busiest season on the farm—to go over your machines carefully, make a list of repairs you are likely to need and send it to us. With this list in our hands, we can order our stock so as to be prepared to meet every call promptly.

Repair part service is a necessary part of our business. We realize what it means to you in time and money to get what you need at once. Help us to help you by making up your list now and sending it in to us.

FAMED CAMEO GIRL AT THE LYCEUM NEXT WEEK

Dolores Cassinelli First To Portray Well Known Social Character For Screen

Dolores Cassinelli, famed as "The Cameo Girl," comes to the Lyceum on next Monday and Tuesday in her latest photo drama "The Challenge."

The Story:

"The Cedars," a popular resort in the Adirondacks, is the rendezvous of society. The attractiveness of the hotel is enhanced by its delightful hostess. She is Barbara (Dolores Cassinelli), daughter of the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Hastings.

Spending a winter holiday there are three guests who are drawn by fate into an adventure. They are Stanley Roberts, an artist (Rod La Roque), Ralph Westley, banker (Warner Rishmond), and an alluring widow, Peggy Royce (De Sacia Moores). The men are rivals for the love of Barbara, and Peggy Royce is attracted to Stanley Roberts.

Westley dares Roberts to join him in a long hike where the snow is is tempted to send him to his death, and when Roberts twists his ankle and lies helpless Westley is on the point of leaving him to his fate. But the banker's better nature finally prevails and he carries his successful rival back to Barbara. Shortly afterward Barbara marries the artist and they leave for New York.

Matters do not go well with them. Roberts is forced to live beyond his means in order to keep up with people from whom he expects orders. Westley calls on Barbara to remind her that he is always ready to help, and Peggy Royce involves Roberts in the hectic life she lives.

Sudden fortune comes with the sale of Robert's big picture to an anonymous purchaser. The artist proceeds to spend lavishly, neglecting Barbara for his lively friends in Peggy Royce's set. When the money is gone there is no purchaser of another picture. Barbara accepts an important position which Westley gets for her while Roberts sinks lower and lower. He has cut himself off from Peggy Royce forever.

Westley again declares his love for Barbara, but she gently points out that her duty is to her husband. "The Cedars" has failed and Barbara's parents are supported by her in the city. She is offered her old place by the corporation which has taken it over. When she accepts it she learns from Westley that he is back of the corporation and that he was the purchaser of her husband's picture. She is grateful, but offers him no hope.

Meanwhile Roberts, on the point of suicide, is dissuaded by a stranger who offers help through an influential friend. The stranger takes him to Westley. The latter knows that Westley stands between himself and Barbara and again is tempted. But he is stronger than temptation. He wires Barbara that a young man is coming to "The Cedars" to help her.
