J. W. STAFFORD WINS FIRST PRIZE, MRS. ROMIE MORRIS SECOND AND REV. W. W. REVELLE, THIRD

SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN WAS A BIG SUCCESS

The Chestertown Transcript subscription campaign closed at 8 p. m. Wednesday night. At that time the judges took complete charge of the ballot box and, after counting the votes, announced the results as given below.

From the vote it will be seen that the results were very close, Mr. Stafford winning first prize by only 428,500 votes over Mrs. Romie Morris. When it is considered that at one time in the campaign each club of $15 in subscriptions counted 60,000 votes, it will be seen just how close the race was.

Rev. W. H. Revelle was also a candidate for the first prize with 4,246,500 votes. In fact, the results showed that the contest was unusually close.

As announced at the campaign,every contestant who turned in five subscriptions per week received compensation. It turned out that every contestant who remained in the campaign to the finish received a prize.

Mr. C. A. Bacon, Miss Mary Caldwell and Miss Gertrude Newnam all received a lrage number of votes. Miss Mary Anderson, Mrs. Eulah Smith, Miss Helen Baxter and Mr. W. C. Dempsey all remained in the contest to the finish and received prizes. We regret very much that we cannot give a Studebaker to every one of the contestants. However, such is impossible, and to the winner of the first prize, Mr. Stafford, goes the beautiful Studebaker car. Mrs. Morris received the $215 Remington Phonograph, Rev. W. H. Revell the $50 watch, Mr. C. A. Bacon the $45 watch and the other contestants each $25 watches. We believe that all of the contestants have worked hard and it gives us great pleasure in awarding them the prizes.

The campaign has been a great success, The Transcript having added hundreds of new subscribers to its already large list and having collected a large amount of money for renewal and back subscriptions.

We wish to thank the judges, Messrs. Allan A. Harris, W. Robert Huey and Don T. Falls for their painstaking care in judging the contest and seeing that the votes were correctly counted.

We wish to congratulate the prize winners and assure each one of them of our appreciation of their efforts and regret that we cannot award each one of them an auto.

We extend our greetings to our many new subscribers this week with the wish that every week as The Transcript reaches them, it will carry with it some message of pleasure or some suggestion for profit, and as the years go by it will become more and more a welcome visitor to their homes.

We publish below the official vote as turned in by the judges.

Chestertown, Md., Aug. 8, 1923

We, the judges of The Transcript Subscription Campaign, do hereby declare the winners as follows:

Name	Votes
Winner of $25 Watch Bracelet, W. C. Dempsey	496,000
Winner of $25 Watch Bracelet, Miss Helen Baxter	576,000
Winner of $25 Watch Bracelet, Mrs. Eulah K. Smith	638,500

CHILD DIES MYSTERIOUSLY

Church Hill Infant Falls From Wagon And Succumbs Shortly Afterward —Believed To Be The Victim Of Poison

Church Hill was the scene of an other tragedy Monday morning, when William Coppage Hall, Jr., 1-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Hall, of that town, died from injuries received in a fall, according to the first announcement. Later reports indicate that the child was poisoned by his 12 year-old colored attendant, who aimed to wipe out the whole family with poison, and who admits that he placed strychnine in the child's milk. He said he was tired of attending the child. The funeral of the child was halted Wednesday afternoon and a coroner's inquest was held, which declared that Frank Benson, a colored boy, had deliberately placed quantities of strychnine in the baby's milk to kill it, and also scattered the poison in salt,sugar, oatmeal and coffee about the Hall home. Mr. Hall said the negro boy had been reprimanded for staying out late last Saturday night and the boy took this as a basis for revenge. The negro is being held by the authorities without bail. He came to Queen Annes county from Delaware three years ago and worked on the various farms throughout the county. A short time ago he was arrested for stealing a bicycle and placed in Centreville jail, but, being somewhat young, was given another chance.

On Monday morning the colored boy took the infant for a ride in a small express wagon and it was supposed that in crossing the street the child fell out and suffered injuries which caused its death. Immediately after the accident, however, the child suffered violent convulsions and fearful that the fall had resulted in concussion of the brain, the parents started with it for Emergency Hospital, Easton, where the baby died.

Upon returning to their home in Church Hill, members of the family were perplexed by a bitter taste in the coffee, sugar, salt and other foods. Mr. Hall shortly after reaching home complained of violent pains in the stomach. Other members of the family also suffered inconvenience.

It is now believed that the poison caused the baby to suffer convulsions and fall out of the wagon. The injury to the child's head, upon later examination, was found to be insufficient to have caused its death. The boy will be given a formal hearing as soon as definite results are obtained from the examination.

SAILOR DROWNS IN CHESTER

Subject To Cramps, He Soon Sank Beneath the Water While In Bathing

Charles Marshall, a young sailor from St. Micahels, was drowned in the Chester river at the basket factory wharf here Monday afternoon while in bathing. The young man had been fishing from a schooner lying at anchor in the harbor here, and finding the sport somewhat slow, he decided to take a swim. He was subject to cramps, but took the precaution to tie a rope around his body before jumping overbeard. A fellow sailor on the vessel saw him go overboard, but, believing that he could swim, paid no attention to him, until he went to look for the rope and not being able to find it, or seeing any trace of the swimmer, he gave the alarm to some people on the nearby pier.

It is believed that the young man was seized with cramps, to which he was subject, and went down almost immediately after striking the water.

The body was recovered not many feet from the place where he was seen to go overboard. Dr. H. L. Dodd, coroner, held an inquest and the jury rendere dthe verdict of accidental drowning.

State's Attorney S. Scott Beck notified the young man's parents in St. Michaels of the tragedy and his body was removed to that town for interment.
