TO INSTALL NEW MACHINERY

Chestertown Electric Light And Power Company To Equal Any Power House On The Shore

With the addition of a 300 K. W. Curtis Turbine, the Chestertown Electric Light and Power Company will be able to meet the power needs of Chestertown and outlying districts.

The lack of necessary power has been a serious handicap to manufacturing interests in Chestertown for some time and they have been compelled to install separate power units, when they would have preferred in a number of cases to use the power from the City Electric Plant.

Since the reorganization of the local power company, which took place about the first of the year, Chestertown has received much better service, such as day and Sunday current, a reduction in lighting rates and the establishing of a power scale.

Since the establishing of day current the demand for power has been greater than the supply, but with the installing of the new K. W. power unit, all the present demands can be readily met and it is understood that a number of other towns in the county will soon be using power generated in Chestertown.

Off For The Races

A number of Chestertown citizens are spending the week-end on the Bay.

The Chesapeake Bay Work Boat Races the largest of the kind ever held in this country, are being held at Claiborne today, and a number of residents of Kent left yesterday in boats of all kinds and will witness the races today.

Messrs. Eben F. Perkins, Thomas Perkins, P. M. Brooks, Harry Clay Brown, Edgar Pennington, of Chestertown, and Bob Cannon, of Baltimore, boarded the 42-foot shipjack, "Dra Brothers," owned and captained by Julius Webster, of Deal's Island, at Rock Hall, Thursday evening and are spending the remainder of the week cruising on the bay. They will take in the races.

Captain Herbert Hartman, of the "Claytonia," R. Hynson Rogers, of the "Harriett L," and W. H. Truslow left last night with parties to be at Claiborne today.

Farm Bureau

Five hundred Kent County farmers and farmers' wives attended the fifteen publicity meetings of the Farm Bureau in all parts of the county. The story of the Farm Bureau was told at these meetings. The large majority were very much enthused and farmers in all communities readily gave days of their time to the organization work.

The membership drive was held last week with very successful results. Four hundred and sixteen Kent County farmers signed up for three years at $10 dues per year. Considering Kent has the largest farms in the state and only 1032 farms of three acres or more, it will be seen that the membership percentage is good. Kent is close to the top of the counties in the state in percentage of members. The "Clean-up campaign may put Kent at the top in percentage.

The organization meeting was held yesterday afternoon. The meeting will be held too late to publish in this edition the officers elected or the plans decided upon. They will appear next week.

Girls Learn Canning Art

The various members of the Girls' Clubs throughout the county have been engaged during the month of July in carrying on home demonstration work in baking and canning. These demonstrations grew out of a recent meeting of the clubs held in Chestertown planned for the purpose of training local leaders who would organize teams throughout the county to assist in getting girls clubs established in other communities. These leaders will assist in the short course in home training at the University of Maryalnd this week by giving a baking demonstration, which will be repeated at the Timonium fair in September.
