YOU can own your own home. It's just a matter of arithmetic. In ten years or so you pay for a home whether or not it's yours.

Say, for instance, that the home pictured here cost $6500. Figure out how much rent you pay and you'll find that it'll amount to the cost of this home in ten or twelve years.

Why, then, continue to fatten the landlord's purse. You owe your family a home—every man does.

Let's talk it over.

THE HEAVENLY HOST
From The Boston Transcript

In ages when earth's hero deeds were done
A starry host rode forth to fight despair,
The mailed archangels, terrible and fair,
That hold the long-lost Garden of the Sun;
Then wild with battle light, the triumph won
Against the dragon-armies of the air,
Men saw winged Michael and his warriors where
The lonely mountains flamed with day begun.

Now only they who dare to fail behold
Those mighty shapes foreshadowing man to be—
Dominions, powers, bright-crested Seraphim;
And only, because faith has grown too cold
The broken-hearted through their tears still see
Love throned between the snow-white Cherubim.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE

Residents of Chetsertown were awakened from their sleep about 10.30 Monday night by what seemed to be a Bolsheviki uprising. However, it was merely the Washington College student body celebrating their victory over P. M. C. last Saturday. The parade under the leadership of the Senior class and accompanied by a very brassy band, consisting of a saxaphone, trombone, two cornets and two drums, started in front of Middle Hall at the college and wended its way down through the streets of Chestertown. At varied intervals college songs and yells were given. After making a circuit through the town, the parade stopped in the public park and rats were sent to get boxes. The parade then continued to the foot of the college campus where a big bon fire was held. After the bon fire each class held a meeting with the exception of the Freshmen, who were then unorganized. It was decided by the three upper classes that each class as a body should wear something unusual all the following day, Tuesday, to celebrate the football victory. The Seniors wore white pants, bow ties and blue coats. The Juniors a Washington pennant pinned on their backs. The Sophomores wore shoe strings for neckties and parted their hair in the middle.

Washington has an open date this Saturday. The eleven will get into shape for the Mt. St. Mary's game to be played here Saturday, Nov. 3. This game will have a direct bearing upon the state championship and Kibler's men are out to win.

The rat caps are here. After many delays the much loved (by the Freshmen) rat caps have arrived. The crown of the cap is composed of alternate sections of maroon and black felt, topped off with a green button, while a long green tip protrudes from the front. Each freshmen is required to wear one as a mark of distinction.

Dr. P. E. Titsworth, president of Washington College, attended Dr. E. Gary's inauguration to the presidency of St. John's College on Oct. 25.

A Freshman-Sophomore football game is being planned to take place in the near future. These games, established three years ago, have proven so popular that they have become an annual affair. The games are played on Washington Field and any one may attend.

Chorus girls at Washington College? Yes, we had them in the Mt. Vernon Literary Society. Those attending the weekly meeting of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society on Oct. 24 in William Smith Hall were surprised when instead of someone getting up to read the "Auguan" (society weekly newspaper) seven pretty girls from Reid Hall stepped forward, led by Miss Dorothy Shriver, Mises Virginia Owens, Caroline Lapham, Mildred Nicols and Margaret Cherrix, emerged from the wings of the stage daintily attired in evening gowns, tripping and swaying lightly to the tune of modern jazz music played on the piano by Miss Hall. Then, with these girls as a background, came Miss Sarah Herman from the other side of the stage and gave a light, fanciful esthetic dance. Several encores were given. Miss Shriver, in one encore, stepped forward and sang, "I love her in the moonlight," the chorus girls joining in on the chorus of the song. Prior to this a "practice debate" was held. The subject, "Resolved that the government should regulate the price of wheat," was debated by affirmative, Miss Covey, negative, Calvin Copper. The subject, "Resolved, that all colleges should adopt the one year rule regarding football," was debated by A. Culver, affirmative, and Chandler, negative.

At its weekly meeting, Oct. 25, the Adelphia Literary Society gave the following program: Scriptures, chaplain; orchestra selections by an orchestra composed of Messrs. Kelly, Negi, Soifer and Levinsky; humorous reading, Jeppi; impromptus; short talk, Nuttle; Moonbeam, Bounds; critic's report.

The Halloween Mask Ball, held under the auspices of the Washington College Cotilion Club in the College gym on Friday, Oct. 26, was well attended. Kelley's Kollegians furnished the music. The first of the series of Cotillion Club Balls will be held here November 30.

WOMEN GIVE OUT

Housework is hard enough when healthy. Every Chestertown woman who is having backache, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder troubles, should be glad to heed this Chestertown woman's experience:

Mrs. J. E. Allen, 511 W. High street, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are the best remedy I have ever found for kidney complaint. My kidneys were weak and in a disordered condition. I became run down and had no energy. My back often ached and pained so it was all I could do to keep going. Headaches were frequent, which kept me feeling miserable and the action of my kidneys was never regular. I used Doan's Kidney Pills from Toulson's Drug Store and they just suited my case. I have never had anything act as quickly as Doan's. My energy was restored and my kidneys didn't trouble me."

POULTRY NOTES

Items That Will Interest Our Chicken Raisers Gathered Here And There

The time is rapidly approaching when it will be necessary to keep your hens a little closer as the frost king begins to whiten the earth and locks the streams in a close embrace. Bear this in mind: The entirely open front house at all times may be all right in warmer climates, but we don't believe it practical here. The chief danger lies not so much from the cold as from the fact that snow beats in and makes the litter damp and untenable. Put curtains on your houses so that you can close them when the bitter nights come and when the snow begins to pile in your houses.

We admit there are some unsolved problems in the business of incubation that we don't absolutely know, but we feel sure that the average owner of a mammoth incubator, who understands his business, will get good results if the eggs are right. Proper heat, the proper moisture, and, above all, plenty of fresh air in a properly ventilated building will usually hatch good, healthy chickens.

Talking with Mr. John Moffett and Mr. Purnell Newcomb the other day, they told us they sure had some fine birds. And we beileve them. Mr. Newcomb is preparing to show at the Baltimore show in December and Mr. Moffett will show at the Philadelphia show. Here's luck to both of them!

Arthur Capper, in a recent editorial commenting on the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court upholding the Capper-Tincher Law, says: "With the gambling situation in the grain markets in the way of being cleaned up we must purge the cotton and the sugar exchanges of the rank speculation and manipulation practiced at the expense of producers and consumers. . . . The way to stablization of markets and fair prices for agricultural products is to kick the gamblers out and establish co-operative marketing organizations whereby the producers may have a voice in the sale of the products of their labor. The Farm Bloc irrevocably is behind such a program."

Not only the State Experiment Stations but also the Agricultural Department at Washington pass on to the public their valuable findings so belatedly that much of their seasonable value is lost.

One of the questions that a we are frequently asked at Bramble Poultry Farm is "How much feed will I have to buy to keep one hundred birds a year?" Here are some figures from an authoritative source: "For twelve months the birds in the Southern California Farm Bureau Egg-Laying Contest consumed an average of 34.27 pounds of grain, 35.25 pounds of mash, 3.63 pounds of shell, and 20.3 pounds of green feed. They averaged 170.3 eggs per hen in the year. Multiply these figures by 100 and you have an answer approximately correct, or sufficiently so to figure your profit on paper. It is quite possible that your flock may not overage 170 eggs per hen, but don't scale the amount of feed required because of possibly fewer eggs.
