CHIROPRACTIC FOR Nervous Women.

Chiropractic is a God-send to the entire human family, particularly for the ailments peculiar to women.

Nervous trouble is not a disease, but usually a symptom indicating trouble in some organ or part elsewhere. The Chiropractor is really a specialist in dealing with these complaints. His trained and sensitive fingers can locate the cause of the great majority of such complaints in slight deviations of the spinal column, where all the nerves leave to control the functioning of the various organs and parts of the body. Think of it. No medicine to take, no pills, no massage, and, above all, no dread of the cold steel of the surgeon's knife. Chiropractic is the safest and best method to employ when you are sick, run down and nervous.

Your Chiropractor knows that his repuation is dependent strictly on his ability to deliver the goods and get the sick well. I can truthfully say, and defy contradiction, that of the many patients I have had from Kent and Queen Anne Counties, every one has improved in health, who has given me a fair chance to get them well. If you are sick of being sick and have tried all the doctors without relief, try Chiropractic and get well. Consultation without charge.
