SHINGLES.

HIS LITTLE SURPRISE.

But He Wouldn't Wait to See How She Liked it.

They had eaten a philopena, and as the result was doubtful they each decided to pay the forfeit, which had been left for the loser's own selection.

They happened to meet on the street that day, and as he turned to walk back with her he said:

"I've just come from your house, Miss Edith, and I hope pou will like what I have left there."

"Oh, I'm sure I shall. You always have such lovely taste. I, too, have just sent you a trifle which I hope you may find to your liking."

"Oh, Miss Edith, you know I couldn't help liking anything you would select."

"Oh, I can hardly wait to go home to see what you have brought me."

"I, too, am curious to know what my present is. But where have you been?"

"I just come from May's. I had intended to remain all the afternoon, but that horrid little dog of hers made me so nervous that I really couldn't stay."

"Don't you like dogs?"

"Oh, yes, some dogs, but this is one of those horrid little pugs. I never could bear a pug."

"Oh, Miss Edith, I thought you"—

"Had too much good sense to like the horrid things? Thank you. I knew you would understand me. You always do."

"I—er—isn't that Dick Brownsmith coming toward us?"

"Why, yes, it is. What a well dressed man he is."

"Rather, yes—that is, barring his ties. I never could think anything of a man who wears red neckties."

"Why, I thought you"—

"Would never be seen wearing such a thing? Thank you for your good opinion. I won't."

"I—ah—well, here we are at home. You will come in won't you?"

"Why, er—no—that is, I really haven't time. I—I must go home and see the loving gift you have sent me."

"Oh, don't be in a hurry about that. You really ought to come in and see my surprise and pleasure when I first see your charming present."

"You are sure to be surprised at any rate, Miss Edith," said the young man, with a sickly smile, as he backed down the steps.

His words were verified, for she found that he had brought her a pug, while on reaching home he opened a perfumed packet to find that she had sent him—a red necktie. And now they are wondering what to say to each other when they meet.—Pittsburg Post.

"It's Breaking My Heart."

The editor of the Catholic News writes in his issue of May 8: "Many a pitiful story is brought out in the police courts of a great city. Perhaps the saddest the newspapers of New York ever reported came from Jefferson Market court last week. A poor mother dropped dead there at the feet of the son who had been a disgrace to her. This son was a young man of thirty or so. Instead of helping his aged mother, he spent what little he earned in drink. At last the poor woman determined to have him committed as a habitual drunkard, hoping that such a step would be for his good. She was called to the witness-stand to swear to the complaint, but the effort was too much for her, and she died with the words on her lips, "It's breaking my heart." Here is a temperance lecture more eloquent than any man ever delivered.

In the Future Novel.

"Adolphus," said the new girl, in tones of strong, vibrant tenderness, "be not afraid, sweet one; look up, and tell me you will share my lot! I cannot offer you fame or fortune at present, but the path to both is opening before me. This very week I have been made attorney for the Maidens' and Matrons' Bank, the Saleladies' Trust Company (limited) and the Shoppers Railroad Association. Rely upon my strong heart and willing hand, dearest, and be mine!

Adolphus, trembling and blushing, toyed with the flower in his buttonhole. It was her gift. She drew nearer to him their eyes met, and with one yielding sigh he dropped his head upon her stalwart shoulder and whispered "Yes!"

DEER PARK.

On the Crest of the Alleghanies.

To those contemplating a trip to the mountains in search of health and pleasure, Deer Park, on the crest of the Alleghany mountains, 3,000 feet above the sea level, offers such varied attractions as a delightful atmosphere during both day and night, pure water, smooth winding roads through the mountains and valleys, and the most picturesque scenery in the Alleghany range. The hotel is equipped with all adjuncts conducive to the entertainment, pleasure and comfort of its guests.

The surrounding grounds, as well as the hotel, are lighted with electricity. Six miles distant, on the same mountain summit, is Oakland, the twin resort of Deer Park, and equally as well equipped for the entertainment and accomodation of its patrons. Both hotels are upon the main line of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, have the advantages of its splendid Vestibuled Limited Express trains between the East and West. Season excursion tickets, good for return passage until October 31, will be placed on sale at greatly reduced rates at all principal ticket offices throughout the country. The season of these popular resorts commences June 22nd. For full information as to hotel rates, rooms, etc. address Geo. D. DeShields, Manager, Deer Park

A Mammoth Potato.

Mr. E. William Randall, of North Easton, Mass., has received a photograph of his brother-in-law, Mr. Howard Talbot, with a mammoth potato said to weigh eighty-six pounds on his shoulders. Mr. Talbot was a former resident of North Easton, and is known as a man of veracity. The Loveland (Col.) reporter says of this potato.

"At last J. B. Swan has succeeded in having his immense potato of the Maggie Murphy variety photographed. This mammoth potato was twenty-eight inches in length, not circumference, and fourteen inches across it, and is claimed to weigh eight-six pounds and ten ounces. Mr. Swan is a grower of great repute, but this last production beats anything of the kind we have yet seen.—Boston Globe.

AN INDIAN GIRL SOLD INTO MATRIMONY.

Traded to an Old Buck Already well Supplied with Wives.

Rosa Whiteface, a pretty young Indian now a pupil of the Caddo Indian School at Wichita, Kansas, has been sold by her father to her sister's husband for fifteen ponies. The Indian whose wife she is to become is seventy years old and has already had other wives. Rosa is but seventeen.

The girl has appealed to Prof. Montgomery of the Caddo Indian School to save her from her impending fate, and he is doing all he can. He has made an appeal to the citizens of Eli Reno, and a popular subscription is being taken up in order to raise a sufficient sum to pay Rosa's traveling expenses to Washington, where she desires to go, that she may make a personal appeal to President Cleveland.

The girl's father is inexorable, and her aged lover insists upon the contract being carried out.

Not the Same Genesis.

A German Hebrew professor had five daughters, whom the students called Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy. One day the professor began his lecture by saying:

"Gentlemen, I wish to speak to you today about the age of Genesis," which remark was greeted with a burst of feet schuffing and a general smile on the part of the class.

The professor, thinking that his subject was being appreciated, continued, with a still firmer note in his voice.

"Genesis is not so old as some of you suppose."

This was greeted with such a burst of merriment that the professor had plenty of time, before it quieted down, to think what should be his next remark. And this, after all, was not so wide of the matter.

"I may not be thinking of the same Genesis that you are."
