The Habit of Saving.

The French suffer less from panics and depression than any other people on the globe, and it is because thrift is the basis of their prosperity.

In France nearly every person saves something for a rainy day. The habit is almost universal, and those who earn the least are sure to be found in the great saving class. The French savings banks have more than 8,000,000 depositors, and their deposits amount to about $800,000,000, and this large sum is made up of small amounts.

The French schools teach the children to save money, and the most frequent prize given to a bright pupil is a savings bankbook with a small sum to the credit of the owner. This is given, where, in this country, we would give a medal or a book.

When a community has a lot of money deposited in savings banks it is easy to borrow money without going to outside capitalists. The local banks are prepared to loan to home people at a moderate interest. In the large cities and factory towns of the Eastern States the savings bank are the great safeguards of the poor wage-earners against hard times, and if the saving habit was as general here as it is in France, our people would have passed through the recent financial depression without seriously feeling it.

Every child should be taught the importance of saving without being avaricious and niggardly. We need more thrift. The average American wage-earner wastes enough in his lifetime to make him comfortable in his old age. We should take a lesson from the French in this respect. They know how to enjoy life and at the same time work hard and save money.—Atlanta Constitution.

Black silk muslin and chiffon flowered in soft colors and large patterns make lovely summer gowns for matrons. They are made up over black taffeta and require very little trimming.

Featherstone: Look here, Willie. When I am in the parlor with your sister do you ever peep through the keyhole?

Wille: Sometimes, when mamma isn't there.

Corsets made especially for cycling are fitted out with elastic on the hips and in the fastenings back and front, so that they give perfect freedom to the figure.

Blouse waists of finely striped washing silks, with turn over collars of lawn or white silk edged with lace, are the coolest things possible, and dainty to look upon.

"I want a thermometer," said the old lady, to the clerk, as she mopped her damp brow with a big handkerchief; "and please set in at about sixty degrees."

When women don't know what etiquette would demand, they kiss each other.

Patent leather shoes with black stockings and tan shoes with stockings to match are the reigning styles of the season.

Originators of Low Prices

It is a FACT you can get from us a GOOD SUIT, out and out, size 34 to 42, for the small sum of FIVE ($5.00) DOLLARS? This is the third week we have been running the 14 patterns of Men's Suits at $5, and the nerve of opposition has been touched. Still we have some good ones left, and they will surely go. We often have the question asked, "Is it all wool?" Well, no, but it is Wool Filled and strong cotton chain, which will wear better and hold shape and color longer than a shoddy, so called all wool. Such a suit as will surprise you in appearance and be a decided surprise when wearing qualities are tested. The prices we are quoting, remember, are not such as you have been accustomed to hearing for same qualities, not even at our store. These Men's Suits at $3.50, $4.50, $5, $6.50 and $7.50

sold for more money. We have marked them down from even the former low price in order to reduce stock, and we do this now, right in the season. You will not wait until September to buy, when most dealers reduce prices, when you see these suits.

"STOP AND THINK."

Did you ever see clothing sold in Chestertown as cheap before MOODY & LUSBY inaugurated this small profit, volume of business idea? We know not, and we realize that the discreet buying public see the difference and ARE NOT SLOW TO GET INTO LINE.

Boys' Suits, Children's Suits

all go likewise. We must rid our tables and shelves, don't want to carry a single suit into new building.

Pants and Furnishings.

Separate Pants for Men, Boys and Children, all must move at these prices. Can't help it. Hats, Neckwear and Underwear, all included and plenty to suit you.

Of course we have plenty of finer grades in MEN'S SUITS than we have spoken of, for instance, we can give you a Fine Unfinished Worsted for $9.25, Clay Regent at $9.00, latest cut, either black coat and stripe pants or full black suit. These prices are felt, we know it. Still we move along with plenty to do to attend to our own business, and this is one of the best signs that the public are not slow to grasp the true differences in quotations.

Thankful for the ample appreciation, we promise to continue this mutual benefit system and will give the advantage of our close, cash buying to the consumer every time.

Simply Marvelous

Intense Suffering of a Young Girl Ended

White Swelling Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Gentlemen—Urged by the feeling that some parent might have attention directed to Hood's Sarsaparilla through my statements, as mine was through that Mr. Jno L. McMurray of Ravenswood, W. Va., I give the particulars of my daughter Emma's suffering and cure. In December, 1886, when four years old, she injured her right knee by a fall. The injury culminated in white swelling. The limb commenced to contract, and to enable her to get around I made her a Pair of Crutches.

While using these she had a second fall, the knee grew worse and the limb contracted. The following August the doctors decided to bandage the leg. They pulled the knee-joint apart by main strength and put it in a plaster bandage.

"During the six months the use of the plaster-of-paris bandage was continued, it was renewed three or four times. The limb grew worse instead of better. All sorts of appliances and bandages were resorted to, but there was no improvement, the disease continued its inroads.

Five Abscesses

formed on the limb. We took her to a prominent hospital. The doctor said it would be necessary to open the leg and scrape the bone, and perhaps finally to Amputate the Limb.

She had wasted away to a mere shadow and as I didn't believe she could survive the operation, I made up my mind she might as well die with two legs as one.

"Just at this time, I happened to read a testimonial from West Virginia describing a case so similar to my child's, and in which Hood's Sarsaparilla had effected a cure, and I immediately decided to give that medicine a trial. It took hold

From the First.

Before she had taken two bottles a core or piece of bone came out of one of the abscesses near the ankle. To come to the point, three bottles of Hood Sarsaparilla cured Emma completely. Readers of this can imagine my esteem for Hood's

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Sarsaparilla better than I can express it. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a family medicine with us. We warmly recommend it to everybody." William H. Pedrick, 1414 South Seventeenth St., Philadelphia, Pa.

For Hypnotic Criminals.

A good story is told of a judge who lately had the hypnotic plea raised before him by a burglar. The prisoner claimed that he did not know that he was "burgling;" that he did it automatically and unconsciously, under the direction of a hypnotist. The Judge said that he would give him the full benefit of the law and also of his hypnotic misfortune. He thereupon sentenced the man to ten years in State prison, but told him he could, if he chose, send for the hypnotist and have himself made unconscious for the entire term of his imprisonment.

"The same power," said the Judge, "which enabled you to commit burglary and not know it, ought also to enable you to suffer imprisonment, with hard labor, and not be aware of it. At any rate, this is the best I can do for you."

A Safe Rule.

"I don't know whether you'll like this. It's a peculiar mixture of mine—half English breakfast and half Oolong."

"It certainly ought to be right. One of the first rules I learned in school was that we should always cross our teas."

"Who is this man?" asked the visitor.

"He is the author of a book advocating free coinage," replied the attendant.

"Is he violent?"

"Oh, no. He is perfectly harmless."

"What is the peculiar form of his lunacy, aside from his pocket book?"

"He thinks he's sixteen men. Does the talking for the whole sixteen."

It was at an informal exhibition of water colors.

"Air these fer sale? asked the man from out of town.

"Yes."

"Well," after an examination lasting half a minute, "I'd take a couple of 'em if it didn't cost so binged much fer frames!"

"I fear that Maud is developing 'new woman's tendencies," said the anxious mother.

"What has she been doing?" asked the father, in genuine alarm. "Been wanting bloomers?"

"Oh, not so bad as that. But she used a buttonhook instead of a hairpin this morning to fasten her shoes."
