THE SAD REAPER.

MRS. HARRIET M. USILTON died at her home near Fairlee, in this county, on Saturday last, aged 66 years. She was the daughter of the late Major Richard Smythe and widow of Lewin Usilton, who died in 1880. She leaves three sons—Joseph R., Lewin J. and Jessie H.—two married daughters, Mrs. J. Walter Skirven and Mrs. Harry Willis, and one single daughter, Daisy.

Since the death of her husband Mrs Usilton has lived on her own farm where she died; the older children had made homes for themselves, and here this happy family for many years consisted of the mother and the three younger children—Jessie, Hallie and Daisy. Not long ago one of these wedded and went to her new home, and about the same time the dread premonitions of the mother's affliction disturbed the home.

Hoping against hope, Mrs. Usilton bore the pains of the cancerous growth that caused her death rather than submit to an operation, but finally, under the advice and accompanied by Dr. W. F. Hines, she went to the Baltimore City Hospital, where Dr. Chambers performed one of the most difficult and successful operations in his great surgical career. She rallied and after some months' hospital treatment she was able to make the trip home, to the delight of her anxious family and friends. Instead of going to her own home, however, she preferred to stop in Chestertown, and there for many weeks in the home of her near relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Vannort, she had the most loving ministration and every medical attention. The seeds of her dread malady, however, had not been eradicated—could not be—and now began to be manifest. she saw the hopelessness of the conflict notwithstanding all the zeal and patient doing of loving hearts and hands, and so she sought her own home to await the final summons. And all this constant waiting, with pain constant and severe, she endured with wonderful fortitude, illustrating the preciousness of the Christian faith!

The deceased had been from early life a faithful member of St. James' Church, and was recognized far and near as a Christian woman of the highest type—her deeds kept pace with her words, and her sweet spirit and gentle demeanor won the respect and love of all with whom she had to do. The deceased was converted in 1860 during a great revival held by Revs. John Nichols and J. Earle Maloy, and joined St. James' Church at that time with John Gale, Robt. Nicholson, Isaac Parsons and others of sainted memory. She has ever since that time been an active worker in God's vineyard. Her children were jewels to her of inestimable value. She could not do too much for them, and that mother love which prompted so much sacrifice found a response in the faithful watching and nursing of the loving children in her declining years, and especially in the long sad days and nights of her deep affliction.

The death of Lewin Usilton, at "Colly Cove," on that stormy mid-winter night long ago, sent a thrill of sorrow throughout the whole community, and wrapped in gloom that popular homestead, for not many men stood closer to people's hearts than did that man. Now, in midsummer, the death shaft enters the home again—the same home, but in another locality. Now it is the widowed one—the MOTHER—and it is almost under the shadow of her old birthplace that she is taken! Thus two noble souls have passed into "the beyond." Let us all emulate their virtues, and merit the commendation of "Well done" when the life journey is over.

The funeral took place Tuesday, the interment being in Chester cemetery. Rev. J. L. Mills, her pastor, officiated. The pall-bearers were L. Jeff. and Jesse H. Usilton, J. Walter Skirven, Richard S. Diehl, Richard Smyth and Murray Smyth.

Though she has gone from among us and her body lies deep beneath the sod in the silent city of the dead, the balmy breezes sigh in the willows unheeded above her, and the rain falls upon her grave, she is not forgotten. So the years will come and go, but after successive winters' snows have fallen and the summer flowers have bloomed and withered again, the name of Harriet Usilton will be enshrined in many hearts by the recollection of her generous deeds.

E. F. C. Davis, formerly of Chestertown, but recently president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, was killed in Central Park, N. Y., Tuesday by his horse falling on him. "Chip," as we all knew him here, was born in this town about 49 years ago, a bright fellow and beloved by all his playmates. After graduating in the class of '66 with Charles T. Westcott, he left here for Pottsville, Pa., as draughtsman in a locomotive works. From there he went to Richmond, Va., and became president of the Hunt Iron Works, and also president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Mr. Davis left this town with a model of a propeller of his own make—hull, boiler and engine—for Pottsville, which gained him the position of draughtsman at a salary far beyond his expectations, and in a few years arrived at $5,000. He was the grandson of the Hon. Judge E. F. Chambers, of this town, and nephew of the late G. W. T. Perkins.

Mr. Charles Rose and wife came to Piney Neck early in the summer from Baltimore, hoping that the change would restore Mr. Rose to health, but he died Monday and was interred in Wesley Chapel cemetery on Wednesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Baker died at 11 P. M. Monday at the residence of her son, Maxwell Price, near Still Pond, aged 84. She was the widow of the late Frank Baker, and had been in failing health for some time. The deceased was a Methodist of the old school, and was a devoted member of the Still Pond M. E. Church. The funeral took place Wednesday, Rev. E. H. Nelson officiating. She leaves four children, viz., Maxwell Price, Mrs. A. L. Jones, Mrs. S. J. Davis and Mrs. Hepbron.
