GENERAL LOCALS.

The "levy list" has its last insertion this week, which will give us much additional space for reading matter.

The Democratic club meeting this evening in Galena will be held at 7½ o'clock, and it is hoped there will be a good attendance of Democrats.

George, the 16-year-old son of Mr. Joshua H. Bryan, of Chestertown, had one of his fingers badly mashed between the rollers at the Strawboard Mill last Tuesday.

Mr. George Burke, brakeman on our railroad, go a hot cinder in his eye last Thursday. Dr. Catlin treated him. He is doing well but has suffered much from it.

A very interesting sketch from the "Tower of London," written by Mrs. Harriet L. W. Hill from personal observations, has been received and will be published in our next issue.

Five hundred people attended the big stock sale at Mr. L. C. Justis, Jr.'s last Wednesday. It was conducted by Marion deK. Smith, Esq., trustee, and the prices realized were very satisfactory. Horses sold from $40 to $90; colts $35 to $76; cows $20 to $72; calves $10 to $18; hogs and shoats 5c. live weight.

Aged 105!—Wm. Munson, one of the oldest inmates of our county almshouse, died last Saturday. He was born a slave to Mr. Dunn, and from his "acquaintanceships" and statements Superintendent Knight believes him entitled to the claim of being one hundred and five years old!

A watermelon thief got a warm reception from Charley Beck last Saturday night, on the "Primrose point" farm. Charley saw the fellow leaving his patch with a melon under each arm, and opened fire. The first load of shot sent the thief yelling from the patch, minus the melons.

The proposition to build an additional dormitory for Washington College to accommodate lady students, has met with much favor among the board of visitors, but will be deferred for a time. It is thought that arrangements can be made for the proper accommodation of all the additional lady students that can be secured for the next term.

Tuberculosis.—Dr. Jarman, our veterinary doctor, has recently had requests from farmers to know terms, &c., for applying the "tuberculosis test." The doctor went to Baltimore this week to consult Dr. Ward, the State veterinary surgeon, on the subject, and is no doubt now prepared to give any information desired upon this important subject. This tuberculosis test, the doctor says, is required to be applied to all dairy cattle in the neighborhood of Philadelphia from which the city secures its milk supply. It is a means by which to determine the health of the cow. The test will expose the existence of consumption in the animal, and many cows are thus afflicted. The milk from such cows must necessarily be very dangerous, as it is likely to convey disease to the human system when used in families. There is no subject of more importance than health, and this matter of pure milk is one of the essentials to the guarding against disease. We have heard of no special diseases in Kent lately, and only call attention to the matter because of the prevalence of disease among cattle in other communities, to put our people on their guard.

"Night Prowlers" seem to be on the increase. Our Morgnec letter notices one, and Mr. B. F. Crew, near Melitota, informs us of a most daring incident at his home. Miss Fulton, of Phila., who has been visiting him for two weeks past retired on Friday night, and as usual with her placed a small pistol near the bed. During the night she heard some one in the room and getting no answer from him when she called out, she seized her pistol and fired at the person, who at once ran out. The daring young lady followed, but fainted at the door, when the danger was over, being overcome by the excitement. Dr. Hessey was sent for and the patient soon recovered. She has now returned home.

Mrs. S. R. Hurlock entertained during the past week at her beautiful home "Wilburton," near Rolph's, the following guests: Miss Jennie Hurlock, Snow Hill; Miss Lottie Evans, Rolph's; Miss Nellie Reed, near Queenstown, and Mr. DeFord Houer, Baltimore.

LOCAL AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

Farm Sales and Farming, Crop Prospects, &c.

Hope H. Barroll, Esq., as trustee, sold last Tuesday the "Clifton farm" in Still Pond, containing 107 acres to Mr. Wm. B. Price for $2,600, subject to widow's dower.

J. A. Pearce, Esq., as trustee, will sell one of the most desirable farms in the county next Tuesday.

Mr. Price, the purchaser of the farm above mentioned, is one of Kent's most intelligent agriculturists. He has tenanted one of Mr. F. H. Harper's farms for the past eleven years and as landlord and tenant there is a "mutual admiration" between the two—that is, Mr. Price thinks Mr. Harper the best landlord in the world and likewise unexcelled for general manly qualities; and Mr. Harper wants no better farmer or honest man about him than Mr. Price. What a happy association of business interest! Would that this spirit of confidence existed with all landlords and tenants.

Mr. Price states that his asparagus crop did not pay this year—there was very little in this crop this year for renters generally. His patch, however, is getting old, and he did not expect much from it.

The drouth will cut short the corn crop in Kent. The prospect was never better up to the time this drouth set in, and much of the early corn will make fairly well. But the late corn will be almost a total failure. The crop in the county at best can hardly be over two-thirds of a fair yield.

Grasses also need rain terribly, and farmers will be put to much inconvenience by shortage in this line also.

Mr. J. Leonard Price, a son of Mr. W. B. Price who now tenants the Weathered farm, has been farming for several years and though yet a young man, is almost as good a farmer as his sire.

Mr. Harry L. Redding, a son-in-law, will likely tenant the "Clinton farm."

Mr. Henry W. Knoebel, of Baltimore county, raised 1,000, bushels of potatoes on a four-acre patch, this year. They were of the Burbank variety, and very large.

Mr. James L. Crouch, near Kennedyville, lost a valuable cow last week by getting choked with a pear. The pear became lodged in the windpipe probably by her having her head too high in pulling pears from the tree. Mr. C. valued the animal at over $50. She was giving over twenty pounds of milk daily.

It has been freely predicted of late that there is an approaching scarcity of draft horses, owing to the fact that of late years this country was called upon to supply the darft horses for many European countries. Those who ought to know, say the supply is disappearing and there is nothing coming on to take its place. For several years the breeding of draft horses in this country has been at a practical standstill and in many parts of the country mares have been bred to road or coach horses. The young horses on the market at present are too light for heavy teaming. Electricity has taken the place of thousands of light horses, but it is used very little in place of heavy teams, such as coal wagons, brewer's drays or the heavy vehicles used by wholesale houses to haul goods. There is reason to believe that in a few years good draft teams will command fancy prices and the farmer or dealer who has good draft colts coming on need not fear that he cannot dispose of them.

BOATS AND BOATING.

Capt. T. W. Hyland ran his oyster police ship—the Anna B. Smith—up the Chester river as far as Chestertown last Monday, to see "the face of the waters." The captain has but half a crew during the closed season, in the interest of economy, but manages to keep his boat pretty active. He found no violators of the law in this trip. He is now congratulating himself upon the prospect of a new suit of sails, for which his boat has been measured, and says he expects to be prepared to cope with the most obstinate violaters of the law the coming season.

Capt. Hyland says he tried the oysters on Swan Point bar last week and found them plentiful but very poor in deep wafer. The sea nettles are plentiful and destructive to both fish and oysters. This water pest was very annoying also in Chester river. The nettles drive the fish away.

The oystermen along the Chester are hard at work on their boats preparing them for the oyster season. The season opens Sept. 1st.

A GREAT BIG CIRCUS without an equal! That's the expression of all who have seen Bob Hunting's Circus, Museum and Menagerie. The very best Equestrians, Gymnasts Acrobats, both male and female, are engaged with it, and the old reliable Bob himself, the monarch of all clowns is there to dispense the laughing matter brimming over in measure. There will be a grand street parade at 10 A. M. resplendent with glittering newness and crowded with wonders from all parts of the earth, and 150 horses that have no equal. Elephants, camels, open dens of lions, Tigers, Hyenas and Leopards, fill the Royal Pagent. On Usilton's Lot Friday, Aug. 30, Chestertown.

BICYCLE SPORT.

Mr. W. W. Chapman's Great Achievement at Asbury Park!

A correspondent at Ocean Grove says: Kent county is here in large numbers, viz., Mrs. T. R. Hubbard, Mrs. Jas. A. Shaw, Mrs. James Brice, Mrs. Joseph Guest, Mrs. Avis Vannort, Mrs. C. V. Newman, Mrs. W. W. Hubbard, Misses Clare Vannort, Clara Usilton, Ollie Price, Messrs. W. W. Hubbard, W. W. Chapman, A. M. Culp, Edw. Lambert, J. W. Chapman, James Brice, Mrs. H. Rickey.

Mr. Walter W. Chapman, one of the Chestertown National Bank officers, reached home on Tuesday from Asbury Park. This place adjoins Ocean Grove, and Mr. Chapman had been there a week and gained his great bicycle victory before any of his home friends knew of his presence. His own brother there was ignorant of his whereabouts. He was generally supposed to be in the West, where he intended visiting during his vacation.

In the race twenty-five competitors entered from all parts of the country, and the Chestertown lad was the "great unknown." It was an exciting race, and when Chapman dashed by all his competitors in the home stretch he was greeted by a tremendous outburst of applause from the thousands of spectators, and he was taken bodily from his wheel and carried from the track. At night he was given a splendid ovation at one of the leading hotels. The prize won by Mr. Chapman is a $100 Syracuse bicycle.

Religious Local Notes.

Rev. Ralph T. Coursey, of Snow Hill, formerly a popular young man and noted singer of Centreville, occupied the pulpit of Chestertown M. E. Church Sunday morning and evening, delivering two excellent sermons. In connection with the evening song service he sang a beautiful solo "I shall be satisfied."

Rev. J. H. S. Ewell, the popular young pastor of Georgetown, Del., who has been visiting with his wife at Mrs. S. L. Beeks' in Still Pond, filled the pulpit of Christ M. P. Church, Chestertown, last Sunday morning and evening.

Rev. Dr. S. R. Murray was present at his church services last Sunday though he had not concluded his visit to friends on the Wye, in Queen Anne's. His son Arthur has been quite ill while there.
