Fairlee Notes.

Sunday morning (to-morrow) Evangelist Galloway will be at Salem and will hold one of his special services. There will be apt to be a large congregation. He will have charge of the Sunday-school also.

Some of the sportsmen are having fun shooting squirrels. As high as ten have been brought home in one afternoon. The shores of Fairlee creek are their retreat.

With a nail Mr. S. G. Maslin cut his hand very badly lately, which caused him severe pain and a good deal of anxiety.

With a straw Mr. S. D. Leaverton probed his eye a few days ago, causing inflammation and pain.

A big crowd attended the Fairlee festival; $114 was realized. The supper was sumptuous and nicely served.

Quarterly conference at Union this Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Preaching by P. E. Alfred Smith to-morrow (Sunday) at 3 o'clock P. M.

A gate to be hung was left by Mr. I. R. Leaverton standing against the fence. A colt got his head caught between the slats, ran out on the road down through Lankford and about two miles in all, with the gate hanging on him. He certainly cleared the road.

The next sheriff of Kent county was present at the festival here last Saturday evening. Who? Don't know, but both candidates were here. Which justifies the assertion?

A contribution was sent by one of the candidates for the State Senate, with his regrets at not being able to attend.

Extra services began at Union last Tuesday evening, Rev. Mr. Galloway assisting the pastor. They will likely commence at Salem with the moonlight nights in November.

Mr. C. V. Turner, of the firm of Beaven, Bloxsom & Co., of Baltimore, has been busy in the county managing the sale of cattle. They sell a great many to the farmers.

The U. Y., like other organizations, seems to be declining in interest. We hope that soon their weekly meetings will be resumed.

It was a difficult matter to pass through the village last Saturday evening. So many teams and so dark. Several collisions, but no serious injuries sustained by any one.

Many are losing their poultry around here with cholera.

The tin roof of the town hall has been painted by Mr. Dixie A. Smith.

Bro. Andrew Jackson Griffin lost his overcoat a few days ago; also his umbrella. What is the matter with our friend and brother, anyway?

"West End" is accused of writing the Fairlee jottings in the Enterprise this week. I take this method to inform the people he did not do it. WEST END.

Piney Neck Items.

Farmers have finished seeding wheat mental in arranging the program. She personally trained the children in music and speaking. This was the leading feature of the exercises. Our League is constantly growing in interest and members. We now have 94 members.

Quarterly meeting will be held Saturday, October 26, at 4 o.clock P. M., and preaching by the Presiding Elder, Rev. D. Alfred Smith, Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

A Correction.

KENNEDYVILLE, Oct. 17, 1895.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Will you please allow me the privilege of correcting, through your valuable columns, an impression that has gone abroad through a statement made by "Exeter" in last week's KENT NEWS. He says: "The Prohibitionists are preparing to furnish lunch to voters on election day. A good idea." The lunch that is to be served at the town hall on election day is under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and the ladies will be assisted by some of the leading men of the community—Democrats, Republicans and Prohibitionists. The lunch is not intended for voters only, but for the people. The idea is threefold—to replenish the treasury, to accommodate the public with a good substantial meal for the small amount of twenty-five cents, and to save some poor tempted ones from that which will prove far more harmful than a fragrant cup of coffee or a dish of tempting oysters. MEMBER.
