DOINGS IN SOCIETY

Jas. H. Baker, Esq., wife and daughters, were given a delightful surprise at their home near Pomona last Friday evening, previous to their departure for Annapolis. Refreshments were served during the evening and a pleasant time spent in games and social intercourse. Those present were Mr. Bartus Trew, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Trew, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Brown, Mrs. M. A. Wilkins, Mrs. Lizzie Brown, Misses Katie Trew, Fannie and Jennie Wilkins, Nina Brown, Julia and Belle Emory, Mettie Loud, Messrs. Edward Emory and Allie Loud.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Burgess, of Edesville, were given a most delightful surprise by the young folks of the vicinity New Year's night. At ten o'clock a watch-night service was begun and the old year was bade farewell and the new year hailed with song.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Kendall, Fairlee, entertained a few friends on last Tuesday evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Bramble, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Staats, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Todd, and daughter, Nellie, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Keyser, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Smyth, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ward, Misses F. and Minnie M. Smyth, Mr. H. P. Jones and Mr. Dixie A. Smyth.

Dinner was served at 6 o'clock. During the eveing various games were heartily enjoyed. Vocal and instrumental music was an entertaining feature during the evening.

The Wednesday Night Club met at Mrs. W. W. Hubbard's, on Washington avenue, last Wednesday, and presented a play, the name of which we will have to call the "Men not in it," for a better name, as the young men were not allowed to witness the performance. The principal performers were Misses Mary Hurtt, Bertha Hynson, Beulah Hayes.

Miss Morgan Beaston gave a party to a number of friends Thursday evening at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Dodd, on High street. Every guest brought a photograph of himself when a baby and the person identifying the most pictures received a prize. Mrs. J. D. Welch won the first prize, a silver handle finger nail file, and Mr. Rush. Dallam the booby prize, a tin horn. A collation was served during the evening consisting of salads, ices, etc. Those present were Miss Downes, of Caroline, Miss Florence Burgess, of Still Pond, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hynson, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Welch, Mr. and Mrs. George Brice, Mrs. T. S. Dodd, Misses Mary Hurtt, M. Evans Ross, Nannie Brice, Beulah Hayes, Mary Beck, Bertha Hynson, Laura Thomas, Cora Massey, Ellen Fisher, Blanche Constable, Messrs. R. S. Thomas, W. W. Beck, Thos. Massey, Henry Deaver, Allie Thomas, Thos. W. Perkins, Horace Constable, Prof. E. J. Clarke, Spencer Hurtt.

A most pleasant surprise was tendered Miss Fannie Bramble by a few of her friends on Friday evening of last week, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. Spencer Sutton, of Blacks, Md. The amusements of the evening were of varied character, and one of the best relished features was the nicely laden table of cake, lemonade and apples, and you may know ample justice was done. Among those present we noticed Mr. and Mrs. S. Sutton, Mrs. Sylvanus, Misses Fannie Bramble, Mary Edson, Mabel Price, Mary Smith, Ruth Bramble, Lillian Price, Ida Redmile, Carrie Erskine; Messrs. Bramble, Sutton, Edmond Hurtt, Herbert Edson, Carl Price, Clarence Scotten, H. Anthony, Samuel Erskine, John Redmile, Geo. Vandyke, Walter Crow and Harry Kelley. All present reluctantly took their leave at a late hour, hoping soon to meet again under like pleasant circumstances.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Alexander, of Rock Hall, held a reception at the residence of their parents, in Baltimore, in honor of the confirmation of their son, Max, Saturday, Jan. 4. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Scholle and family, Dr. L. Cohen, Mr. M. Kramer and lady, Mr. and Mrs. K. Kramer, Mr. and Mrs. J. Friedman, Miss K. Kramer, Mr. Chor and lady, Mr. and Mrs. S. Goodman and family, Dr. and Mrs. H. Schneeberger, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hartogensis, Mr. and Mrs. Cotton, Mr. and Mrs. Pflannlacher, Mr. R. Davis, Mr. S. Hartogensis, Mr. Max Miller, Mrs. G. Mann, Mrs. J. Newman and son, Mrs. J. Levy; also seventeen schoolmates of Max. Refreshments were served, and Max was the recipient of many handsome presents.

Moody & Lusby's reduction sale of Suits and Overcoats means an increased opportunity offered those in need of such. They have some astonishingly low prices marked on suits in their window. Don't miss the opportunity to secure a bona fide bargain.

Mr. Thos. M. Britton, of Millington, writes to correct an impression made in the NEWS last week. He has moved to the Biggs farm, but it is only seven minutes walk to his shop and he expects to continue the undertaking business.

AT HYMEN'S ALTAR.

Matrimonial Events Transpiring in Kent During the Cold Weather.

Christ Church, Chestertown, was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday evening, and the sacred edifice was crowded with witnesses. The contracting parties were Miss Mayme Kirby, daughter of Mr. Wm. Kirby, florist, and Mr. Wm. T. H. Whiteley, an industrious and successful young farmer near Chestertown. At the hour appointed, 7 P. M., the bridal party entered the church and approached the altar to the sweet strains of Mendellssohn's Wedding March rendered by Miss Clara Usilton. The bridal couple were preceded by the ushers, Messrs. George Whiteley, Chas. S. York, Jr., James D. Lucas and Fred. G. Usilton. At the altar they were met by Rev. S. R. Murray, D. D., who performed the solemn ceremony.

The bride was becomingly attired in a brown suit of broadcloth, silk body with changeable silk and irridescent trimmings and carried a lovely bouquet of carnations and smilax. The groom wore the conventional black.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on High street. The reception room was beautifully adorned with ferns and evergreen and refreshments were served during the evening. The presents were useful and appreciative.

The home of E. B. Pennington was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday evening the 8th inst., the contracting parties being Mr. George Sutton and Miss Mary Pennington. Owing to the recent illness of the bride the marriage was solemnized at the home and many friends had gathered to witness it. Shortly after seven o'clock the bridal party, led by the two ushers, Messrs. John Sutton and Edgar Pennington, entered the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, rendered upon the piano by Miss Bertha Murphy. The bride was attired in a delicate shade of green lansdowne, trimmed with velvet and irridescent braid and wore gloves of pale green. Rev. Samuel Edson performed the ceremony, and bride was given away by her father. The happy couple were the recipients of many elegant and useful presents. Among those witnessing the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Pennington, Mrs. Lizzie Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. R. Price, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Pennington, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Numbers, Mr. John Tucker, Mrs. Elizabeth Pierce, Miss Lillian Busick, of Baltimore and many others.

Mr. W. S. Jarman, a young farmer living near town, and Miss Mary L. Thompson, daughter of Mr. Bradley Thompson, successful butcher of Chestertown, were quietly married at the home of the bride Wednesday evening by Rev. W. P. Compton.

The marriage of Jacob B. Crowding, Jr., and Miss Susie W. Jones, was solemnized in Still Pond M. E. Church, Wednesday evening, at 7.30 o'clock, Rev. E. H. Nelson officiating. The ushers were Edward Crowding, Charles Crowding, John Jones and John Scofield. The bride was handsomely gowned in a steel cloth suite.

Marriage licenses have been granted to the following couples during the past ten days: Alcade Porter, and Mamie E. Hall; James H. Glenn and L. Ethelyn Price; Wm. S. Jarman and Mary L. Thompson; Lewis P. Atwell and Elizabeth C. Johnston; W. T. H. Whiteley and Mary A. Kirby; George M. Sutton and Mary Pennington.

A STARTLING EXPERIENCE.

About 11 o'clock Thursday night, Master Ned Harlan, the 10 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harlan, who live on the outskirts of Bel Air, was missed from his bed and from the house, a thorough search failing to discover him. The front door was found to be unlocked and Mr. Harlan was preparing to go forth in search of the missing child, when his uncle Mr. J. Edwin Webster, appeared bearing him in his arms. It appeared that the child had arisen in its sleep, made his way down stairs and out the front door, and started down the lane toward the public road. He was barefooted and clad only in a night slip. About half way between the house and the public road there is a depression in which water was standing. The child was awakened by stepping into this water, and was naturally very much frightened at finding himself alone in the night and storm. Leaving the lane the little fellow climbed the fence and started across the field for the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Webster. Fortunately he did not lose his way, but soon arrived at his destination and Mr. J. Edwin Webster, who was reading in the library, hearing a noise at the door went to see who was there. His surprise at seeing Ned may be imagined. The child was taken in dried and warmed, and after being comfortably wrapped up was taken home to its anxious parents. His ideas of his night's adventure were naturally confused, but the main facts are as above given. The next day the child was found suffering from fever and sore throat, and the family physician was called in. That night it was determined to keep a watch over the child to see if he would have another sleep walking experience, and sure enough he again left his bed and started out of his room but was detected and put back in bed. Later the same night the child made another attempt to leave his bed while asleep, but fell over the footboard to the floor and was badly shocked and frightened. He has made no further attempts at sleep-walking, so far as we have heard, and is getting over the effect of his exposure. It is not known that the child ever walked in its sleep before this night that he left the house.

College Notes.

Dr. C. W. Reid returned from his Southern trip Saturday. He spent several days at the Atlanta Exposition, the remainder of the time being spent in gunning in southern Georgia. The doctor had the misfortune to lose his dog and never found him until about ready to return home. He killed sixty partridges, 19 of which were bagged in one afternoon.

Prof. Stephens returned from Atlanta Saturday. He was suffering with rheumatism in his foot.

Prof. E. J. Clarke while at his home during the holidays was placed in charge of the local paper of Pocomoke for one week and got out one of the newsiest sheets ever issued in that town.

Student Davis, of Wicomico co., left college this week on account of ill health. He will return in a week or so.

Mrs. J. R. Micou made a trip to Baltimore on Tuesday.

The west building is redolent of sulphur and carbolic acid. The work of disinfection must have been thoroughly done.

The holiday season, on account of its unusual length, caused a number of the students to be afflicted with severe cases of homesickness. They are gradually recovering.

The joint debate between the Mount Vernon and Philomathean Literary societies will take place this Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, in the College chapel. The town hall had been secured, but owing to more profitable engagements the students were compelled to surrender. The same tickets will hold good.

Miss Julia Burchinal has again started in to college.

Miss Hill has been compelled to leave school on account of ill-health.

Mr. E. M. Noble returned to college this week, after having undergone a severe spell of typhoid fever. There were fourteen persons, relatives of Mr. Noble, who were down with this fever, two of whom died.

On account of the week lost through the case of scarlet fever, the fall term will be prolonged one week, closing on Feb. 12 instead of Feb. 5.

The Easter holidays this year will consist of but 2 days, instead of one week as heretofore.

W. C. T. U. MEETING.

Many Persons in Kennedyville Sign the Local Veto Petition.

The Local Veto Bill as explained by Rev. S. R. Murray, of Chestertown, on Friday evening, January 3d, at Kennedyville, was one of marked interest to the W. C. T. U. of Kennedyville. The Union observed "Mother's Day" in honor of the birthday of Madam Willard. After music by the choir a fervent prayer was offered by Mr. M. A. Toulson, of Chestertown. The Scripture reading was given by the president. Miss Nettie Whiteley's selection, "Wear the White Ribbon, was an earnest appeal, after which Mr. George Medders read a very touching poem, entitled "Footprints on the Snow." Miss Acca A. Van Dyke read with fine effect, "Sign the Pledge."

The main feature of the evening, however, that attracted the large audience was the address of Rev. S. R. Murray, D. D., of Chestertown, in which he gave a lucid and highly entertaining explanation of "The Local Veto Bill," to which the assembly gave their undivided attention. At the close of the address the petitions were circulated and signed by nearly every one present. The audience gave expression to their appreciation of the address, and of the presence of Dr. Murray and Mr. Toulson, by a rising vote of thanks. The choir sang "Speed On," after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Jesse Shreeve. The speaker said:

The Local Veto Bill had its origin in New York, as was proper. Its cities are the largest in America, and their morality affects the entire country. New York City has in its midst a foreign element that comprises two thirds of its population. This city is the only one in America where a direct vote has been had on the opening of a Sunday saloon.

But although originating there, the Bill is applicable elsewhere, as well. We know not how soon it may be before we have here in Maryland the question of Sunday opening. Some twenty-five or thirty years ago, the question of running the horse-cars on Sunday, in the city of Baltimore was agitated. The Mayor and City Council, unwilling to assume the responsibility of such an act, submitted the matter to the voters. Owing it is supposed, to the large number of foreign voters in the city, the matter was decided in favor of street-cars on Sunday. The church-going people discountenanced the action at the time, but now, to many of these, in our day of rapid transit to all parts of the city, the street cars seem indispensable, in reaching the respective places of worship.

The reason for forming the Local Veto Bill was because no previous bill had harmonized all classes of Temperance Workers. Some wanted High License tried, as Dr. McArthur, of New York, who preached it from his pulpit, and urged it through the press. Some were desirous of strict prohibition, as the Editor of "The Voice," while others favored Local Option, which we now have. So then, by getting a bill which gave each locality a chance to say that it did not want the Saloon, the way opened for harmony.

The purpose of the bill is to give every locality a chance to get rid of the saloon. Now, many localities have no chance, nor can they get it. The Legislature has refused to pass bills for their relief. While stationed in Carroll Co. Dr. Murray had gone to Annapolis, accompanied by men holding positions of trust and honor in the county. Their object was to have a saloon in their town closed. The petition had been signed by every citizen of the town except the saloonkeeper and the owner of the saloon property. And yet, after spending an entire evening at the capital, and even getting the pledge of the legislators to the bill, they let it die. Politicians are sometimes saloon keepers, or they own saloon property, and influence legislators. This bill proposes to defeat all such schemes, and allow every county town, or ward of a city to shut out the Saloon from their midst.

The features in which the Local Veto Bill differs from the Local Option Bill are of the very first importance. The Local Veto Bill saves the expense and debauchery of an election. Voting always calls out bribery and slander of one kind and another. This bill calls for quiet house to house work.

Local Option means that the Saloon shall stay or go, as the majority vote, and only males vote. But Local Veto means that the Saloon shall go—not stay or go, and it is allowed the wife, and the mother, and sister, whose lives are rum-cursed to help say it shall go, and when it goes, it will never come back. There is the beauty of it. By Local Option there may be a vote in the future for the Saloon, but by Local Veto it cannot unless all these wives and mothers, and sisters of legal age, say it may, and they never will!

Of course, male voters may sign a petition for the return of the Saloon, but they will have to get not only a majority of male voters, but a majority of citizens representing a majority of taxable property in their locality to assist them in the petition, or they will fail. This, in any self-respecting community, they are not likely to get.

Local Veto gives no chance for a return of the Saloon where local option now prevails. It is not a question of the Saloon's existence, but of its death everywhere.

The people of Kent, in signing the Local Veto petition, send up a prayer to the Legislature, asking them to grant to every locality in Maryland a chance to destroy the Saloon. They are not signing for something in Kent (except in strengthening their present privileges), but something for the State. They say by their signature, "Give every place in Maryland privilege to be sober, orderly and God-fearing." NINA.

MR. PEARCE'S MEMORIAL.

At the organization of the Senate on New Year's day Senator Crothers, of Cecil, presented the following memorial of Mr. James A. Pearce, contesting the election of Senator Chas. T. Westcott. The memorial was not read but will be considered by the contest committee:

To the Honorable, the Senate of Maryland:

1. The memorial of James A. Pearce respectfully shows, that at the general election held in this State, Tuesday, November 5th, 1895, Chas. T. Westcott, of Kent county, was the candidate of the Republican party for State Senator, for Kent county, and your memorialist also of Kent county, was the candidate of the Democratic party for State Senator from Kent county.

2. That it appears from the official returns of the said election in Kent county, as made and certified to the Governor of Maryland, that said Chas. T. Westcott received at said election 2,163 votes and that your memorialist received at said election 2,160 votes, and that R. T. Turner, Jr., the candidate of the Prohibition party, received at said election 100 votes, and that Chas. T. Westcott was returned elected as State Senator from Kent county by a plurality of 3 votes.

3. That your memorialist is informed and believes and therefore charges, that the said returns of said election for State Senator from Kent as made and certified to the Governor of Maryland are inaccurate and erroneous and that it will be found so to appear upon a recount of said ballots at said election for State Senator for Kent county, and your memorialist specifically charges:

A. That in the second election district of Kent county, the result was taken from the tally sheets and that from ten to twelve more votes were cast for your memorialist than were tallied and counted for him and that this fact will appear by a recount of said ballots in said second election district and a comparison thereof with the tally sheets which were immediately locked in the ballot box and are inaccessible to your memorialist except upon the order of your Honorable body:

B. That in the third election district of Kent county, sundry ballots were erroneously counted for Chas. T. Westcott, as full Republican tickets, which should have been counted as full Democratic tickets and therefore for your memorialist.

C. That in the second precinct of the fourth election district, of Kent county, at least one ballot was erroneously counted for said Chas. T. Westcott, which could not be legally counted for any candidate for State Senator.

D. That in the fifth election district of Kent county, at least one ballot was received and counted for Chas. T. Westcott which was by one who was not legally entitled to vote at said election, and that sundry other ballots in said fifth election district which should have been counted for your memorialist which were not counted for any candidate for State Senator.

4th. That in all districts of said county sundry ballot were counted for Chas. T. Westcott which should not have been counted for him, and sundry ballots which should have counted for your memorialist, were erroneously excluded from the votes cast for him and that upon a recount of all the ballots cast at said election for State Senator from Kent county, it will appear that your memorialist and not the said Chas. T. Westcott was duly elected State Senator from Kent county.

5th. Your memorialist does not charge any fraud or intentional wrong, on the part of any of the election officials of Kent county, but he does charge errors and inaccuracy in tallying and counting the ballots cast is a result of which your memorialist is returned as defeated when he should have been returned elected.

6th. That your memorialist on the 6th day of December, 1895, duly served upon said Chas. T. Westcott, written notice of his intention to contest his election as State Senator from Kent county.

7th. That testimony will be submitted to sustain the charge of receiving and counting one illegal vote for Chas. T. Westcott, but that except as to this specification, your memorialist relies on and will cheerfully submit to whatever result shall appear from a recount of said ballots by your Honorable body.

8th. That your memorialist recognizes the duty of exerting and exhausting all legal and honorable means to correct the errors which he believes will be found in said returns and to secure the representatives in your body, of the political party and principals which he represented at the election.

And as in duty

Attorneys for contestant.

Mr. John D. Burris, residing on Mr. Chas. T. Westcott's farm near Hopewell, shipped 8 pigs, the offspring of one sow, from which he realized $25.50. The pigs were only ten weeks old. J. H. Coulbourn, of Philadelphia, made the sale. Mr. B.'s sow also gave birth to 11 pigs, three of which he reserved. Who can beat it?
