CYCLE NOTES.

Captain Chapman, of the C. C. C., reports the roads in the pink of condition.

At the annual election of officers of the Chestertown Cycle Club Tuesday night the following were elected: President, Harry Rickey; vice-president, C. W. Wroth; secretary, Wm. M. Culp; treasurer, Fred. G. Usilton; captain, W. W. Chapman; first lieutenant, D. Arthur Bacchus; second lieut., Sereck Shallcross; surgeon, Colin F. Stam; bugler, A. M. Culp; color-bearer, Harry Hodgkins. A special committee has been appointed to consider the advisability of presenting an opera early this spring.

An English firm is executing an order for 150 bicycles which will be used by a company of Salvation Army soldiers. This seems an excellent way for the good people to distribute the gospel, but it certainly would make a sensation if a band of this number would ride through the streets of an American city. It is for a good cause, however, and should be encouraged.

Capt. Wm. Taylor and Sereck Shallcross took a forty mile ride a few days ago, touching Crumpton, Millington, Middletown, Warwick, Georgetown, Galena, Locust Grove and Kennedyville. Most of the distance they were able to ride side by side, and they both report the roads finer than at any time during the year just closed.

Mr. John H. Aldridge wishes us to say to the public that he will handle the Syracuse bicycle this year and claims special advantages over other wheels.

Mr. R. S. Thomas will be in the field with the new Rambler and will no doubt tell our readers of its new charms.

Mr. J. H. Sides expects to have a new modeled Majestic in a few days and claims that his wheel has no superior.

Mr. C. S. Smith will surprise the wheelmen soon. He will handle something fine.

Mr. James D. Lucas is also talking of placing a new wheel on the market—the Fowler.

Mr. F. M. Miller will present the new Columbia and no doubt other makes will be seen here this spring.

Prof. Clarke says the Eagle will eclipse everything this season.

Mr. Applegarth is looking after the interests of the wheelmen at Annapolis, for whom he has introduced several bills. One makes it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of from $5 to $50 to place tacks, nails, glass or any other substance that would injure pneumatic tires on the streets or highways. Another bill compels county commissioners to erect guide-boards, guide-posts and milestones upon highways, roads and intersections thereof.

Destruction of a Church.

Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church, on the corner of Main and Bridge sts., in Elkton, was entirely burned out at 10.30 o'clock Sunday morning, a few minutes before the hour of service to commence. The first bell had been rung, and the rector, Rev. Wm. Schouler, was in the church preparing for the services. He discovered the festoons in the rear of the church close to a stove on fire and attempted to extinguish the flames, but without success. He then ran from the building and gave an alarm. The Singerly fire company responded promptly, and in a short time had three streams playing upon the building, but the flames had gained such headway that the interior of the church was soon all in flames. The attention of the fireman was then turned to preventing the fire from spreading. Nothing remains of the handsome structure but the walls and some charred timbers. The property destroyed included a large pipe organ, which cost the congregation $1200. The church was built of Brandywine stone, one-story high and had a seating capacity of 200. The fire was caused by an overheated stove in the rear of the building setting fire to the decorations that had been placed in the church during the Christmas holidays. The building was insured for $3,500.

Chesterville Items.

Our town has been alive this week with wagons hauling ice and those having ice-houses say they never harvested a better crop.

The measles and the whooping-cough have made a fresh start in our community and it is feared that the Hibernia school will have to close.

Our town needs a doctor. If one of the doctors in Millington or Crumpton would locate here and open a drug-store he could do well.

Mr. Edwin Cooper has secured a position as clerk in a shoe store in Balto.

Miss Bessie Cooper has gone to Baltimore to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Schwataka.

Miss Bertie Miller spent Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. W. E. Jarrell.

Miss Arsula Moffett, of Lynch's, spent Sunday with her father.

Misses Bettie and Georgia Wallis, of Rock Hall, are visiting Mrs. Thomas Hurlock.

Quite a number of our people attended the Crumpton hop last Thursday night, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spry, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan King, Mr. and Mrs. Chrisfield and daughter, Miss Etta, Messrs. Enoch King and Elwood Stevenson.

A party of young people assembled at the residence of Mr. B. J. McCauley Thursday evening in honor of their guest, Miss Thressa Raymond, of Still Pond. Dancing was the chief feature of the evening. Among those present from around here was Miss Estella Jarman, Messrs. Robt. Cochran and Elmer Jarman.

Misses Annie Foxwell, Minnie Pennington, Eva Cooper, Messrs. Frank Jarrell, Merrick and David Clements have returned to their schools.

Among the removals we forgot to mention Charles Willis, from Smyrna, who has moved into the house vacated by Mr. Dodson; he taking the farm recently occupied by Abe Hudson; Mr. Hudson moving near Fairlee; Morgan Kink to the corner house vacated by Christopher Cannon, Jr.; he moving on his father's farm; John States moves his family from Spry's Gate to Crumpton, and Mr. Chrisfield to Church Hill, where he intends to carry on the livery business. We wish him success.

Mr. Geo. E. Harrison, a resident of Crumpton, and widely known, is reported critically ill.

Mr. Thomas J. Burris, a prominent farmer of the third district, has rented a farm near Smyrna. Success to you Thomas, wherever you may go.

The corner property, in Chesterville, belonging to Mrs. E. A. Crittenden, would have probably been consumed by fire on the 16th inst. but for the prompt services of Messrs. E. S. Bratton and P. Stevens. We thank them.

Mr. W. E. Jarrell has established a feed mill near his saw mill, about a mile distant from here, and is prepared to crush corn in good style.

The compassion of the Savior for fallen humanity, was the subject of an able and eloquent discourse by Rev. J. W. Mitchell last Sunday.

WEDDING IN GALENA.

One of the most beautiful social events of the season in and around Galena was the marriage in Galena M. E. Church at 7.30 o'clock last Wednesday of Arnold J. Stewart and Miss Etta S. Hicks, Rev. E. H. Nelson, assisted by Rev. Mr. Fletcher, officiating. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hicks, of Galena, and the groom is a prosperous young farmer of near Cecilton and both are extremely popular. Socially, the wedding was the event of the season. The church was appropriately and handsomely trimmed in evergreen and long before the appointed hour the spacious edifice was taxed to its utmost capacity and a large number were unable to gain entrance. Promptly at 7.30 o'clock to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march sweetly rendered by Miss Linda Jacobs, cousin of the groom, the bridal party entered the church. First came the ushers, Thos. J. Hodgson and Jesse W. Hartley, of Sassafras, W. H. Stewart, Jr., of Balt., and Whittier C. Copper, of Chestertown. Then came the pretty little ribbon girl, Hettie Hicks, cousin of the bride, wearing a beautiful cream silk crepon trimmed in ribbon, followed by the maid of honor, Miss Ada L. Hicks, sister of the bride, handsomely gowned in cream crepon with satin ribbon trimmings. The bride wore a magnificent wedding gown of cream brocade silk trimmed with lace and satin ribbon, and tulle veil gracefully caught with carnations and carried Marechal Neil roses. The groom and ushers wore white gloves and boutonniers. A reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents. The home was beautifully trimmed with flowers and evergreen, the decoration being under the immediate supervision of Miss Mary Walters, of Galena. The guests were received by Miss Walters and Mr. Copper. An elegant supper was served at ten o'clock. The couple were the recipients of a great many beautiful and useful presents.

THE President walked in! For some time past information has been coming to the ears of President Goodknight, of the West Virginia University, that a number of the students were too frequently engaged in the game of draw. At a late hour the other night he went to the room of a student and knocked. "Come in," yelled one of the crowd, who had a big stack of blues in front of him. The president walked in upon the amazed and speechless crowd! A five-handed game of poker was in progress over the table, and a game of crap going on on the bed. The President was asked to take a chair, but after a few brief and formal remarks, which fell with freezing effect upon the students he departed. Seven students will probably be expelled.

DEATH OF JUDGE ROBINSON!

Neuralgia of the Heart was the Fatal Cause—Unexpected Termination of a Brief Illness.

Chief Judge John M. Robinson, of the Court of Appeals, of Maryland, died at noon last Tuesday of neuralgia of the heart, aged sixty-eight years. He had suffered from several previous attacks. His death in Annapolis was a very great surprise to nearly everyone. Dr. H. Roland Walton was called in at night, and later Surgeon W. R. Debose, of the Naval Academy. The medical attendants called again in the morning and found him improving, but in fifteen minutes after they went away he died. His wife, Mrs. Lloyd and other members of the family were with him when he died.

The funeral services took place at St. Anne's Episcopal Church, Annapolis, at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. A special train carried the remains, accompanied by the members of his family and others, to Centreville. Interment at "Waverly," the home of the late chief justice, on the Chester river in Queen Anne's county.

Judge Robinson leaves one son and five daughters. His son is Mr. Ralph Robinson, a member of the bar of Baltimore. His daughters are Mrs. Alice Gowen, of Philadelphia: Mrs. Sallie M. Hance, of Philadelphia; Mrs. W. F. Fullam, of Annapolis; and Mrs. Edw. M. McIlvain, of Bethelem, Pa. The husbands of Mrs. Fullam and Mrs. Lloyd are both naval officers, the one on duty on board the Raleigh, at Portsmouth, Va., and the other at Hong Kong with the Asiatic squadron. When the news came to the Court of Appeals that the chief justice had expired Mr. Semmes, of Cumberland, was addressing the court upon a case from Garrett county. The news came upon the court as a shock. The argument in progress was stopped at once and court adjourned. All the afternoon the flag on the State House was at half-mast.

The death of Judge Robinson removed from the appellate bench the last of the judges elected in 1867. Judge Alvey is now the only one of that distinguished body alive, and he is chief justice of another court. Judge Bryan is now the senior member of the court. Judge Robinson was appointed to the place of chief judge by Governor Brown to succeed Judge Alvey. It will now devolve upon Governor Lowndes to appoint one of the members of the court to the high position so unhappily made vacant. This will be the Governor's first judicial appointment, and there are already four others in sight which will have to be made during his term of office. These are a successor to Judge Robinson as chief Judge of the Circuit Court, to Judge Brooke, of Upper Marlboro', Judge Bryan, of Baltimore, if his term is not extended, and to Judge Wickes, of Chestertown, if his term is not extended.

The successor of Judge Robinson will be appointed by the Governor to serve until November 1897. The appointment may be made from e ither of the five counties — Caroline, Talbot, Queen Anne's, Kent or Cecil. For Cecil the name of L. Marshall Haines has been mentioned and for Talbot, Colonel Mullikin. It is said Mr. Westcott, of Kent would not accept. For Caroline county the name of Col. Geo. M. Russum is most prominently mentioned. Colonel Russum is in Annapolis at this time.

The Queen Anne's Railroad.

The construction company having in charge the building of the new Queen Anne's Railroad from Queenstown to Denton, thence to Lewes, has notified Contractor Merritt to increase his force in order that there may be as little delay as possible in fulfilling the agreement, which guarantees that the road shall be completed to Denton by March 1. Mr. Merritt has made a number of efforts to increase his force, but has been unable to get a sufficient supply of teams and men. He has made good progress, however, considering the disadvantages under which he has labored, and nearly one-half of the work of grading the road from Queenstown to Denton has been completed. It is said that the company is finding some difficulty in making arrangements to cross the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's property at Queen Anne Station. After repeated efforts to secure amicable adjustment the Queen Anne's Company has been given no satisfactory answer, and will probably be compelled to proceed and condemn. This the company wishes to avoid, as the manner may cause some delay.

Plans are being arranged for the railroad bridge to cross the Choptank river at Denton, and it is probable that in the course of a few weeks a contract will be given out for a section of the road beginning at Denton and extending into Delaware in order to comply with the charter, so as to avoid the risk of forfeiture.

"The Watts House" is now open to the traveling public. This is the old Hall's hotel revolutionized. It is centrally located. The buildings and yards have been so thoroughly repaired and changed as to render the place most desirable for boarders—either permanent or transient. Mrs. M. E. Watts, who has charge of the new hotel, has heretofore kept the large boarding house on Front street, and gained for herself a high reputation for splendid cooking and a well kept house. Business men and others coming to to town from the country can always get first class meals at he "Watts House."

Debate on Woman Suffrage.

The Mt. Vernon and Philomathean societies held a joint debate in College Chapel last Saturday in the presence of an intelligent and appreciative audience. Ever since the organization of the Philo. society, which happened about five years ago, considerable society spirit has been manifested, and a friendly rivalry beneficial in the extreme to both has sprung up—a rivalry which has caused the admirers and supporters of the societies to desire a joint discussion, but, until this year, all efforts to bring about an inter-society debate have proven futile. Resolved: "That Every American Woman Should Have the Right of Suffrage" was the question selected. While old, and regarded by many as threadbare, yet the contestants were able, on account of their thorough knowledge of the subject, to hold the attention of the audience for nearly three hours. The Mt. Vernon Society had the affirmative, and was represented by Mr. T. A. Goldsborough, of Caroline county, and Mr. G. C. Graham, Jr., of Talbot; Messrs. E. R. McDorman and J. M. White, both of Somerset county, as representatives of the Philomathean, took the negative. Mr. Graham, an earnest and enthusiastic debater, made the opening speech. He contended, among other things, that inasmuch as statistics showed there were twice as many girls as boys in the graduating classes of the public schools, woman was, in consequence of this advantage, as well prepared as man, if not better, to exercise intelligently the right of suffrage. He claimed that woman had as tenable ground for entering a protest against the existing order of things as the American Colonists for rebelling against the mother country; the colonists were taxed without representation, likewise woman has to conform to certain laws, if need be, stand behind prison bars, go to the wilds of Siberia, suffer the penalty inflicted by laws enacted without her consent. He dwelt at some length on the capabilities of woman, citing the names of Elizabeth and Victoria, of England, Isabella, of Spain, and Maria Thresa, of Austria, all of whom have played important parts in the world's history.

Mr. McDorman, in a full and well modulated tone of voice which invariably captivates an audience, followed Mr. Graham. He argued that one of the greatest responsibilities placed upon woman by nature was maternity; that in the exercise of the right of suffrage (for it would be her duty to exercise this right if it were given to her) she would lose sight of this great responsibility, wherein lies the strength of any nation. He maintained that it would not be advisable to extend the privilege of voting only to the unmaried, for a premium would be placed on non marriage. Furthermore, he said, that as a voter it would be necessary for her to attend primaries, caucuses, and gatherings of like nature, and, that in doing so she would lose her womanly dignity, thus in the so called emancipation of the sex, she grasped sovereignty, but at the same time lost womanhood.

Mr. Goldsborough said that while it might be urged that woman knows very little about politics, it was equally true that very few men are thinkers; they read partisan newspapers, and vote with their party; women could do that much. He seemed to think that the right of suffrage did not carry with it the breaking up of home; it was not incumbent upon her to leave home any more than it was incumbent upon the farmer to leave his farm. In citing the opinions of men who were in a position to speak intelligently on the subject of woman's suffrage Mr. Goldsborough scored the strongest point made by the affirmative. The Governor of Colorado, in a letter to him, among other things said: "The general sentiment here is that equal suffrage is proper and beneficial." Ex-U. S. Senator Carey, of Wyoming, wrote him saying: "Woman's suffrage has worked admirably in this State. They are just as efficient and capable in office as men."

Mr. White, in a logical and carefully prepared speech produced strong argument in favor of the negative. He claimed that the high moral standard of woman would be lowered, that the American home would be injured and that there would be strife and corruption in government. With the right to vote she would descend to such a low plane morally that she would be ostracised from decent society; with the right to vote she would entrust the training of her children to hirelings, thus working detriment to the home; her strong prejudices would make strife in government.

The committee, Prof. J. R. Micou, Dr. S. R. Murray and Mr. C. C. Hopper, decided unanimously in favor of affirmative. The medal for oratory, offered by Prof. Stephens, was awarded to Mr. E. R. McDorman. Rev. Mr. Compton acted as chairman of the meeting.

Sent to the Cut.—Eddie Johnson was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction by Justice Johnson Saturday night for stealing a pair shoes from Mr. George B. McWhorter.

A Delightful Dance.

About fifty-eight persons participated in a large dance given at the residence of Mr. Peter Donohoe, near Masseys, on last Monday evening. Dancing commenced at 8 o'clock and continued until the wee small hours of morning. Every one present enjoyed themselves, and the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Donohoe and daughters could not be surpassed. At midnight the guests were invited to supper. The music was furnished by Messrs. Primrose, Mullen ard Quinn. Among those present were: Misses McClusky, Moran, Katie Gardy and James Conner, of Wilmington; Lizzie O'Neill, Mary O'Neill and Lizzie Grady, of Smyrna; Christine, Katie, Maggie, Mary, Agnes and Cecelia Donohoe, Mr. A. H. Malsberger and wife, Mr. J. Quinn and wife, Mr. Thos. Donohoe and wife, Annie Holt, Mary Dunn, Elsie Malsberger, Mary Conner, Ellen McGugen, Mary McGugen, James Donohoe, Thos. Grady, John, James, Thomas, Michael and Anthony Quinn, John, Daniel and Chas. Mullin, Harry Holt, T. J. Dunn, B. J. McGugan, Jas. Donohoe, Patrick, Samuel, Michael, Joe. and Paul Dunn, John Rowen, John Conners and others.

Editors KENT NEWS:

Doubtless you have thought of calling attention to the efforts now making to induce the Legislature to raise the legal age of consent for young girls. Maryland is behind a number of States in the matter of sexual purity, and it is still possible for a girl to give her consent to her own ruin at the early age of 14 years. This horrible state of affairs, the remainder of most unlawful and wicked desire on the part of men, still continues to menace every unprotected girl in our State, and nothing now stands between its death but the indifference of fathers, brothers and sons throughout our boundaries. Will not the men of Kent declare in favor of a pure life for girls, unmolested and certainly unspoiled by those wiles of deceiving but rotten-souled men, who connive at and secure their downfall? Let every good citizen sign the petition now abroad, to raise the age at which a girl may consent to her downfall. Let us save the young by law as well as by influence. Fourteen years is far too young to allow a girl to fall under the evil persuasion of her companion, and eighteen not as advanced a period as it should be made. But let us at least endeavor to gain this, and so furnish additional safeguards for our daughters and sisters.

THE DEMOCRATIC CHOICE.

A Conference Not Entirely Harmonious on the Senatorship.

It is difficult to see any reason for a wrangle over the empty honor of a Democratic caucus nomination for U. S. Senator. But it seems that all was not harmonious at the conference which was held in Annapolis to consider the matter, as will be seen by the following report:

Almost as soon as the conference was called to order Senator Bruce said that he thought that all questions of party faction should disappear, and to assist to this result that no person should be a candidate who had recently been prominent in the party politics of the state. For that reason he would suggest that neither he, nor Senator Jackson, nor Senator J. Walter Smith should be the nominee.

Mr. Smith intimated that Mr. Bruce was rather presumptuous in assuming to tell those present that they ought not to vote for this or that one.

Senator Tilghman, speaking directly to Mr. Bruce, said that he had not been the choice of the majority of the Democratic senators for president of the Senate, but that they had all united in voting for him. Senator Smith had very gracefully withdrawn after receiving the nomination of the caucus, and the speaker thought that if Mr. Bruce desired harmony and the disappearance of faction he should be gracious enough to vote for Senator Smith, of Worcester. He was of the opinion that Mr. Bruce's course was extremely selfish.

Senator Tilghman then nominated Senator Smith in a ringing speech, and Delegate Henry R. Lewis, of Caroline, seconded the nomination.

Senator Talbott, of Montgomery, urged that the members should act in harmony, and, although the gathering was not a caucus, in that no formal call for it had been signed, those present should vote with the same set purpose as if their candidate had the chance to be elected. Others spoke in the same strain, and there were but few dissenting voices when the nomination of Mr. Smith was made.

When the vote for Senator was taken it was discovered that Senator Hering, one of the absentees from the conference was for Senator Smith, while the other two, Senators Jackson and Michael were for Mr. Henry, whose name was the first to be nominated. President Bruce leading in the roll call.

President Bruce, in discussing the matter afterward, said that his sole purpose in making the suggestion was to bring about a cessation of factional disagreement, for if the Democratic party was to be reorganized factions would have to cease and all would have to be regulars. He said that he had previously considered the subject amicably with Senators Jackson and Smith, and that the former had withdrawn in the interest of harmony.
