GOLD DOLLARS FOR 90c.!

THIS is a Great Age, one of Wonderful Progress, some looking for the North Pole, others their neighbor's Chicken Roost and a large percentage who are strikingly susceptible to the fascinating idea securing a bargain. Yet not one of us have learned where to buy GOLD DOLLARS FOR NINETY CENTS, and let us tell you right here, you never will. We are fully aware of the importance of economy, striving to stretch our limited means to their utmost capacity, get all we can for every dollar spent. This is commendable. Yet you must stop and think. Every article of merchandise has a commercial value, and when such is offered you for less than it cost to produce it, rest assured it is to catch the uninitiated on such merchandise as they are not posted on the market value of.

immense precipices perfectly bare and presenting a dark forbidding front. Innumerable wild fowl rose to the right and left and the waters are alive with porpoises. Many of the passengers wasted a good deal of ammunition in shooting at these "sea pigs" without inflicting injury. As we approached Juneau we sighted our first glacier—a scene never to be forgotten—from the apex of a mountain top so far distant that it seemed a dream, stretched this immense, unmeasurable river of ice until its frontage of mile was lapped by the salt sea. Here this monument of a past age ever moving, slowly, but irresistibly towards its final destruction and end, throwing off immense icebergs when overcome by the warm waters of the Japan current, steadily washing away, so that some hundreds of years hence they will be but a legend and pass into history, upon which scientists will figure and give statistics, as they now do upon the formation of coal and the minerals of the earth and the time when all nature was convulsed. Now and then we would catch a glimpse between the islands of a towering mountain peak, miles away, on whose summit rested snow of such a depth that only conjecture could fathom it, standing there like some sentinel of a dead world wrapped in its shroud, cold and glistening, filling one with awe and a feeling of the sublime beyond words. Occasionally we would see some mountain of inferior height, but snow covered, and the thought would arise, that is such an ascent as we must soon undertake, and a feeling of insignificance would encompass me, yet we have come here to conquer the Chilkoot pass or be buried in the snow as several have been before.

We arrived at Juneau Saturday noon and found the wharf black with people awaiting the arrival of the steamer. We also discovered that the fame of the Johnson party had preceded us, and Capt. Johnson and myself were invited by two of the editors to visit their sanctums. We found excellent quarters at a price so reasonable for a town so far away from civilization that we were astonished. We secured rooms (that is our own special camp) in a new building, called the Fair View, built on piles in the bay. The terms are but 50c. per day. Every thing being newly purchased our accommodations are excellent. Meals can be had from 25 to 50 cents, and are very satisfactory. Indeed, the prices generally are reasonable, being only about 10 per cent higher than in San Francisco or Seattle. The merchants seem to realize that the future success of the town is to be established and maintained by legitimate profits, thus drawing the trade here for all per-
