BEFORE I could get relief from a most horrible blood disease, I had spent hundreds of dollars TRYING various remedies and physicians, none of which did me any good. My finger nails came off, and my hair came out, leaving me perfectly bald. I then went to

An Economical Wife.

The other day Mrs. Youngwife came in to borrow the mucilage. Mrs. Youngwife had written a letter, put her last stamp on the envelope and then addressed it wrong.

"I was so provoked," she said, "and I made up my mind I'd save that stamp if it took me all the afternoon. I've been at it an hour, but I got it off. Don't you think I'm economical?"

Some one suggested that there was a saying about a penny saved was as good as two earned, but there was another saying about "penny wise, and pound foolish."

"Ah!" said Mrs. Youngwife. "That's my husband! He is always complaining about the size of our bills. He said to me this morning: 'What do you do with all the coal? Do you eat it?' I assured him I didn't, but what do you think he does? He comes home Saturday night with $2 or $3 worth of the most expensive fruit, which spoils before we can eat it. They made him pay $1 a dozen for oranges and tell him they are from Spain. They are no more from Spain than I am! But so it goes!

"The other day he met an old acquaintance down town. They hadn't seen each other since we have been married.

"Well," said the man to my husband, "have you a good boarding place now?"

"Just fair," said my husband.

"Cheap?" asked his friend.

"How much do you pay?"

"Well, it costs me about $150 per month," said my friend.

"Great Scott! Are you crazy?" said his friend.

"No," said my husband, "I'm married."

"Oh!" was all his friend said.

The shadow of a trouble is generally blacker than the trouble itself.

"I guess country board will be cheaper this summer," said Meekins. 'Why?' I asked. "Because the price of canned goods has gone down considerably."

A man walking down a Chicago street came in front of a taxidermist's in the window of which was an owl with other animals. "Well," said he, "if I couldn't stuff an owl better than that, I would quit the business. The head isn't right, the poise of the body isn't right, the feathers are not on right, the feet are not right"—Before he could finish, the owl turned his head and winked at him. The crowd laughed and the critic moved on.

An Irish hostler was sent to the stable to bring forth a traveler's horse. Not knowing which of the two strange animals in the stalls belonged to the traveler, and wishing to avoid the appearance of ignorance in his business, he saddled both animals and brought them to the door. The traveller pointed out his own horse, saying "That's my nag." "Certainly, yer honor; I know that; but I didn't know which one of them was the other gentleman's."

Partners.

A sturdy little figure it was, trudging bravely by with a pail of water. So many times it has passed our gate that morning that curiosity prompted us to further acquaintance.

"You are a busy little girl to-day?"

"Yes'm."

The round face under the broad hat was turned toward us. It was freckled, flushed, and perspiring, but cheery withal.

"Yes'm, it takes heaps of water to do washin'."

"And do you bring it all from the brook down there?"

"Oh, we have it in the cistern mostly, only it's been such a dry time lately."

"And there is nobody else to carry the water?"

"Nobody but mother, an' she is washin'."

"Well, you are a good girl to help her."

It was not a well considered compliment, and the little water-carrier did not consider it one at all; for there was a look of surprise in her gray eyes, and an almost indignant tone in her voice, as she answered:

"Why, of course I help her. I always help her do things all the time; she hasn't anybody else. Mother'n me's partners."

Little girl, are you and mother partners? Do you help her all you can?—Little Worker.

Cholly—"I am not going to call on Miss Prettygirl again until she retracts what she said the other evening." Harry—"What did she say?" Cholly—"She told me that I needn't call any more."

Farmer Parker—"Come down out of that apple-tree and I'll give you the best licking you ever had in your life." Johnny—"Not me! I wouldn't come down for two of them."

"Your wife seems to be anxious to be up to date, Tugby." "Up to date? She's way ahead; she got a lot of trouble borrowed for year after next."

"When yer own plans goes wrong," said Uncle Eben, "it's bad luck. When anuddah man's plans goes wrong he orter done knowed better."

"What are you thinking about, little man?" asked a charming hostess of a small boy visitor.

"Mamma told me," answered the little man, "not to take two oranges, and I was thinking I'd be mighty lucky if I got one."
