A CONTEMPTIBLE BUSINESS.

A Floating Bar-Room In Chester River On Sunday!

Of all the little businesses in creation it does seem the "toting" around of a whiskey flask to sell to any who will buy—to corrupt old and young, and in flagrant violation of law—is the cap sheaf. The fellow who will thus disregard law, and in his greed for money debase every manly instinct and help to send to the gutter those who are given to drink, is deserving of the severest punishment the courts can inflict.

We often hear of these "bottle toters." Some of them are said to carry around two or three jugs, and one fellow is reported recently to have been arrested on the outskirts of a colored camp with a half-dozen flasks concealed upon his person, and filled with the rottenest sort of whiskey! In Chestertown there are said to be a number of these walking bar-rooms who hesitate not to sell their poisonous stuff to tramps or their own neighbors with no more or less concern.

This is a prolific season for these low-lived scoundrels. The large number of extra hands employed by the farmers in gathering their peach crops opens the way for extensive sales to the hands brought together from other sections. One of our extensive peach growers on Chester river gives us information that clearly indicate an extensive trade in the poisoned rum business on the water courses. This gentleman informs us that a "bugeye," manned by two men, was in Chester river last Sunday, he believes for this nefarious business. During the night twenty to forty hands from neighboring farms visited this boat, which was close to shore. Next morning the farmer notified the bugeye captain, in language more plain than choice, that if he came on his shore again he'd shoot him! The bugeye promptly moved away. The farmers' neighbors would without a doubt join him in a fusilade against all such piratical craft.

A good many years ago, soon after the adoption of local option, a "floating bar-room" was one of the noted institutions of the Sassafras, and was only gotten rid of after a contest in the courts.

Farmers are on the alert now for these sailing or walking bar-rooms, and they will deal summarily with any of them caught engaged in their most contemptible business about their premises.

Young Marylander Honored.—Wm. C. Brown, of Princess Anne, Somerset county, who was recently appointed by President Cleveland as consul at New Castle, New South Wales, heretofore first mentioned in the NEWS, left Tuesday for San Francisco, from whence he will sail on Aug. 20 for his new port.

Mr. Brown has the honor of being the very youngest consul in the service of Uncle Sam, he having attained his majority in December last and having never yet cast a vote. He is a Democrat and Mr. Bryan will lose the first vote of the young Marylander on account of his new appointment. Congressman Miles, of the First district, was instrumental in securing the appointment of Mr. Brown, who has been teaching school since his graduation from Washington College.

New South Wales is one of the divisions of Australia, and has a population of 1,500,000, while New Castle, where the Marylander is to be stationed, is a town of about 50,000. It is an important coaling port.

Farms Rented.—Mr. W. K. Hudson has rented Worton Manor Beach and farm for next year. Mr. Hudson has been living on the Thomas farm, near Fairlee, for twenty years.

Mr. William Elburn, of near Rock Hall, has rented the Wickes farm at the mill, Chestertown.

Telephones In The Counties.—The Standard Telephone Company of Baltimore was incorporated last Thursday by Thos. S. Hodson, Chas. O. Cooper, Edward S. Kines, J. Tiers Reardon and Wm. F. Beiswanger. The company has a capital stock of $15,000, divided into $25 shares. J. Tiers Reardon is president and C. O. Cooper secretary. The treasurer has not been elected. The object of the company is to construct telephone lines from Crisfield to Pocomoke City, thence to Salisbury, Delmar, Laurel, Easton, Chestertown, Centreville and Belair, with connections in Baltimore. It has purchased some local lines and will consolidate them in the main line which will be constructed. In all about 250 miles of telephone lines will be controlled. A city exchange office is planned, to be established as soon as the lines are constructed. The Bell patents are used on the lines at present controlled by the company, but the promoters intend to use other patents.

An agent of the company has been in Chestertown this week looking after the affairs of the company.

Damage Suit.—Mr. Benedict, of Baltimore, has brought suit in the circuit court of Kent county, against Mr. Potts, of Tolchester, for $10,000 damages. Mr. B. was injured on the switch-back railway. This case will come up for trial this October.

Good Prices.—The sale of personal property advertised in the News by Mr. Alday Clements was well attended. Horses brought from $25 to $101; cows from $15 to $38; hogs, four cents per pound, and other things at corresponding prices.

A New Storehouse. — Miller Bros., of Rock Hall, have contracted with Mr. Wm. K. Pippin for the erection of one of the handsomest storehouses in Rock Hall. It will be located on a lot in the rear of the M. E. Church. It will be two and a-half stories high, the main floor 80x26 feet, and the front of fine plate glass. The inside will be fitted with portable shelving, ceiled inside and used exclusively for a storehouse. The cost will be about $3,000. Mr. Jas. E. Blackiston, of Edesville will take the room to be vacated by Miller Bros.

Boat Race. — The arrangements for the boat races to be held at Rock Hall, Saturday, Aug. 22nd are about completed. The races will start and finish at Wind Mill Point, at the mouth of Rock Hall creek. The first class will be for all canoes 32ft and over; the second class race will be for all canoes under 32 feet in length. The prizes to be given and the course of the race are yet to be arranged by the committee. The judges are expected to be Captains Chas. E. Davis, P. W. Middleton and W. Mariner. Owing to the fact that a good number of ladies are expected to be present no intoxicated person will be allowed on the grounds.

A SUDDEN DEATH!

Dr. Ferrey's Wife While Visiting Friends in Chestertown Hears of Her Husband's Illness—Sick Four Days.

Mrs. Ferrey, wife of Dr. Conrad S. Ferrey, of Baltimore, accompanied by her invalid son and brother, came to Chestertown Thursday of last week to visit Mrs. Wm. E. Moody. She brought a surrey, handsome pair of horses and a coachman with her and expected to spend quite a while here. Dr. Ferrey was expected to join the party on Saturday but a telegram was received on that day stating that he was ill. Mrs. Ferrey went to his bedside at once and was with him when he died.

A report was in circulation to the effect that Dr. Ferrey had attempted to commit suicide by poisoning himself, but Dr. H. H. Biedler, who attended Dr. Ferrey, said positively that such was not the case and that, on the contrary, Dr. Ferrey had begged him and Dr. J. G. Jeffers, the resident physician at the infirmary, to save his life.

Dr. Biedler was called to Dr. Ferrey's home, 207 North Liberty street, on Friday morning and found him ill and very much excited. He complained of pains in his heart and told Dr. Biedler that he was afraid he had taken too much of a medicine which he had been using in the hope that it would break him of the morphine habit, which he had acquired while trying to get relief from neuralgic pains. Dr. Biedler gave him something to quiet him.

Toward night he began to get restless and Dr. Biedler advised that he go to a hospital, where he could have constant attention. Dr. Ferrey objected to this and said his wife had gone to Chestertown to spend a month with an invalid son. He was too sick to be allowed to go to Chestertown and on Saturday morning he was removed to the infirmary. His wife was telegraphed for and returned to Baltimore Saturday night, and was with him almost constantly until he death.

Sunday night his temperature was at 99, but yesterday it went up to 105 and then to 108, his death occuring a short time before 11 o'clock at night.

He was born in Canton, N. Y., forty-six years ago, and was graduated from a college in the northern part of New York State. Twenty-five years ago he came to Baltimore, and some years ago opened a Turkish bath establishment at 409 West Fayette street. He was successful, and after a few years gave up the Turkish bath business and devoted his whole attention to chiropody, moving from 409 Fayette street to a house a few doors nearer Paca street. A short time ago he moved to 207 North Liberty street. Besides Mrs. Ferrey, the Doctor leaves a sixteen-year-old son.

Hard to Beat. — one of our local chicken fanciers is surely hard to beat. He is said to have fed his fowls on crushed ice during the very hot weather to prevent them from laying hard boiled eggs. Next!

Lightning's Shafts.

Mr. J. V. Kilbourne's store at Lankford was the object of the lightnings attack Thursday. About ten feet of weatherbording on the northwest side of the house was torn away, but the children sleeping in the adjoining room were unhurt.

Mr. Williams, the blacksmith, was sitting on the porch of the store near the side that was struck. When the bolt struck, he jumped from his seat and cried "fire" and acted very queerly. He was very sick for a short while and says his side felt as though pins were sticking in him.

Mr. Bedwell's horse was hitched in front of the store and the bolt caused him to break away.

Wm. Money's stack-yard in Shrewsbury Neck was destroyed.

Temperance Convention.

The county convention of the W. C. T. U. will be held in Chestertown on September 9, 1896. Interesting exercises will be held all day, dinner and supper being served from baskets. A Baltimore soloist will be present to aid in the singing besides home talent. One of the greatest temperance lecturers of the day, Hon. John G. Woolley, will be present in the evening, also preminent State officers are expected. Mrs. L. M. Corey, county president and Miss Anna R. Stewart, State organizer, are perfecting arrangements to make this the most successful meeting ever held. All unions, churches and christian associations are requested to send delegates.

REMARKABLE WEATHER!

Yes, it is hot enough for us. The last eight days have been scorchers, the thermometer ranging from 90° to 105° according to location. The NEWS thermometer hangs in a doorway and exposed to a draught. The highest point recorded by it was on Friday when the mercury reached 93°. Sunday, both doors were shut, and it climbed up to 96°. Showers have fallen in various parts of the county but Chestertown has been missed.

Henry Hutchins, a colored man aged about 76, died Wednesday, the extreme heat hastening his death. He was a good servant, having been Mr. H. L. Boyd's hostler for eight years.

Mr. Charles Miller, of near Edesville, lost a valuable heavy draft stallion on the road Monday, overcome by heat.

Mr. George B. McWhorter lost a valuable driving horse last Friday from the extreme heat. His son, Harry, was driving him. It was near Lynch's station where the horse fell dead in the road.

In New York the death list amounts to 250; in Baltimore 99, and in other cities the deaths have been enormous. In Chicago there were 800 dead horses on the streets, the city being unable to cart them away as they hourly succumb.

Mr. Henry Deaver to Assist.

Mr. Henry Deaver, the affable bookkeeper in the Second National Bank, Chestertown, went to his home in Frederick county on Saturday to assist his sisters in the prosecution of McBride and Thomas. These are the parties mentioned in the NEWS last week who gave the ladies so much trouble. Miss Lottie Wickes, of Chestertown, and Miss Busteed, of Centreville, will remain to appear at the hearing next Monday.

Last Saturday Mr. McBride and his son-in-law, A. M. Thomas, appeared before Justice Barnard and swore out warrants for the arrest of Misses Nannie and Mary Deaver, charging them with assault. The men testified before the magistrate, denying striking either of the ladies or upsetting their buggy by driving into it, and accuse Miss Nannie Deaver of striking Martin McBride twice with a buggy whip and cutting their horses a number of times with it. The cause of the trouble grew out of the refusal of the Misses Deaver to allow McBride and Thomas the use of a road that runs through the two farms. The men are tenants on the farm adjoining the Misses Deaver, and claim the road in dispute is a lawful right of way and their only outlet from their farm, and, therefore, they were not trespassing upon the lands of the Misses Deaver, and deny the right of the Misses Deaver to close the road or to assault them when passing through. The magistrate held his decision.

First Outing.—About fifty jewelers, traveling salesman, and others, of Baltimore, will take their first outing this week. They will make "Ingram Hall," Mr. Wm. B. Stephens, proprietor, the objective point. The company will bring a brass band along with them and remain three days. No doubt they will have a jolly time; if they don't it will not be Mr. S.'s fault.

Died.—Mr. W. R. Apsley, formerly of Kent county, died at his home in Harmony village, Middlesex county, Va., after a twelve days illness of typhoid fever, July 29, in the 45th year of his age. The deceased was a member of the Baptist church. His life as a christian was a bright and shining one, and his testimony in death tells us he is now safe in the arms of his Savior.

He leaves a wife and two boys to mourn his loss.

Before the Magistrates.—The case of John R. Howell for resisting an officer was tried before Justice Lambert Wednesday. W. M. Slay, Esq., represented Mr. Howell and J. D. Urie, Esq., the State. The prisoner was fined in all about $30.

Constable Rose carried Eddie Ringgold to the House of Correction last week. Justice Wilkins sentenced him to 3 month for stealing money from Mr. C. S. Smith.

Lou Brown, colored, was before Justice Lambert Tuesday charged with striking Kate Gibson. It seems that these two colored women got into a fight over a stove. Lou was fined $1 and costs. After this trial Lou Brown went before Justice Wright and had Kate Gibson arrested for striking her and Mr. Wright imposed a fine of $1 and costs on Kate. Bill Johnson, colored, also became involved in the "Stove trouble" and was fined by Justice Lambert for cursing.

Good Catch. — Henry Gilbert, colored, caught forty large pan rock Tuesday off Northwest point in a very short time. He also caught a fine lot of perch.
