DUE to the continued rainfall it has been necessary for many of our farmers to stack their wheat and to wait for dry weather for threshing. This practice of stacking wheat is followed extensively by our Cecil County neighbors on the north and by the farmers in Northern Delaware, but has never been very popular in Kent County.

THE Fordney-McCumber Tariff Bill which has been opposed throughout the session by Democratic Congressmen, is now being opposed on many points by Republican members. The Tariff Bill will impose great injustice on the majority of the American people. In fact on some points it is so unjust that members of the high tariff and protectionist party are afraid to return to their people and risk defeat for re-election by supporting this bill. The days of high tariff and protection of the moneyed minority should be over in this country. Economic conditions cannot be imporved by too much legislation and a high tariff certainly will not benefit economic conditions in tions cannot be improved by too much conditions in Europe as they are today and with the rate of exchange at its present low ebb, a high tariff is suicidal to foreign trade and foreign trade is essential to good business conditons throughout the country.

MR. JOHN W. GARRETT, of Baltimore, has been placed in the field by the anti-France forces as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate. During the past month much opposition to Senator France has appeared in the Republican party. This dissatisfaction culminated in a meeting in Baltimore on Wednesday composed of Republicans from Baltimore and from practicaly every county in the state. Mr. Garrett was the unanimous choice of the nominating committee and has anounced his intentions to file his papers at Annapolis and to make an active campaign in all parts of the state for the Republican nomination.

Kent County was represented on the nominating committee by Mr. Charles N. Satterfield, of Chestertown. From all appearances there will be a fight among the France and anti-France Republicans in Kent County for the nomination of their candidates. Just how the Republican leaders in the county will line up in this fight is not known at this time.

Getting Ready For Big Camp

The officers and enlisted men of Sanitary Detachment, First Infantry, Maryland National Guard, are busily preparing for their departure to the big summer encampment of the Maryland National Guard at Edgewood Arsenal from the 22nd of July to the 5th of August, 1922. Only two more weeks remain until they will leave for this fifteen days under canvas, therefore, every one is busy assembling his equipment and talking about the good time he is going to have at this encampment.

The schedule of instruction for this year's camp is radically changed from that of previous years, inasmuch as only the morning will be devoted to instruction in drill, while the entire afternoon will be used for athletics of every description that goes to provide recreation for the soldier. Swimming, boating, canoeing, baseball, track meets and every manner of sports will be participated in, while the evenings are left for the soldier to amuse himself as he will, although movies, radio concerts, the First Regiment Band, of forty-five pieces will give concerts each evening during this encampment, and other amusements will be provided.

There are still a few vacancies in Sanitary Detachments, but Capt. Hines expects to be recruited up to full strength before leaving, and men desirous of attending this camp should immediately see Capt. Hines, the commanding officer of the company, or any one of the company's officers or noncommissioned officers.

Did you ever stop to think that doors, though an absolute necessity are also objects of architectural beauty with which to adorn a house? Haven't you seen doors that express welcome, dignity and refinement? Have you ever noticed how the pretty, simple design of some kitchen doors dignifies the service they perform; or how some bed-room doors suggest quiet repose? And there are French doors which are interesting in design, and which throw the rooms of a small house together, giving a larger interior vista.

Are the doors in your home all you want them to be? Are they beautiful as well as useful? Have they the individuality that makes them especially suited for their purpose? In short, are you proud of them?

If not, get our catalogue. This book shows many different doors. There's a door for every purpose and many and beautiful are their designs.

We would like nothing better than to have you arrange to call and let us show you our stock of doors.
