DECLARES AUTO CHASED HIM

More Than That, Indianapolis Citizen Is Prepared to Make Affidavit That It Did.

A dweller in Washington boulevard is a witness to the truth of the proposition that the age of mysteries is not gone, remarks the Indianapolis News. He solemnly has asserted, in the presence of neighbors and friends, that an evening or two ago as he was driving toward his home he saw a small automobile of not unfamiliar make standing at the curb, deserted, and ill at ease, for it was belching not only smoke from the exhaust, but living sparks and occasional jets of flame, like a small volcano tipped over to horizontal. The good citizen slowed down to observe the wonder at closer range, and finally stopped his own car near the curb, and a rod or two ahead of the modern Moloch, which was still spitting like a demon.

But the good citizen had no more than stopped when he was persuaded to start again. The persuasion came from the empty car which—as he affirms and is willing to attest by affidavit—suddenly lurched, groaned like a live creature, and started toward him. He escaped from its path; he looked back, saw it climb the curb and scramble half way across the sidewalk. Then three men came running from across the street and seized and stopped it. The good citizen did not return to inquire into the wonder. He had made one narrow escape; he was alive and still clothed in his right mind, and he knew when he had seen enough for one short day.

BROTHERS IN COMMON CAUSE

Matter of Rank of No Consequence in Belgians' War on the Hated Invader.

When Brussels was under the yoke of the invaders a notable Belgian one day went to the convent of the Jesuits and asked secretly if it were not possible to get a letter forwarded to his son, a defender of the Yser.

"That's extremely difficult," they told him. "We are spied upon. The Germans are more vigilant than ever. Still, we'll see."

A few days later the father of the soldier saw a workingman coming to his house.

"I am sent by the Jesuits," he said to him. "I'll try to cross the lines. Give me your letter."

"Here it is. Take this for your trouble, and let's go to the cafe and drink to the success of your mission."

"With pleasure,"

A week later the workingman came again. He brought the soldier's reply. Delighted, the Belgian kissed him, and the two again went to the cafe to drink, this time to victory. After which the Belgian hastened to the Jesuit Fathers to thank them.

"I'd like to see the superior," he said.

"The superior? Why, he was in your house this morning."

"This morning?"

"Yes, this morning. He was the workingman who carried your letter to Furness.—New York Tribune.

Restoring Ypres.

The ruined city of Ypres is being completely restored at a pace astounding to the hordes of American visitors who have passed that way bound for the south of France and the Algerian and Egyptian resorts. The Cloth hall, that marvelous building of the age of guilds, is gradually assuming the light and delicate beauty which has made it rank with the loveliest of the medieval halls. But many of the Americans who have dropped by Ypres have been highly amused by the mayor's proclamation, in French and Flemish and then translated into only one foreign tongue, English, to the effect that the visitor is on holy ground, and that a stone or piece of gravel must not be removed, since all will again be gathered together in the rehabilitated structures.

New Color Scheme for Maps.

Within the last few years improvements in the stereoscopic effect of relief maps have been attained by a unique color scheme. The effect is well shown when a square is colored with the reds in the center, and the yellows, greens and blues ranged outside. Such a square appears to the eye to be raised in the center.

If the order of the colors is reversed, the central part of the square appears to be depressed. In arranging the colors the tints are varied by careful graduation.—New York Herald.

New Name for Galoshes.

Norman Karr, the five-year-old son of Prof. and Mrs. H. M. Carr of DePauw university, has heard so much about "bootleggers" because of the activity of Sheriff Sears of Putnam county, that he often thinks of them, even though he doesn't know as much about them as the officer. Recently Norman and his mother were walking through the campus, when the boy noticed these funny looking things called galoshes, worn by two co-eds. He pointed at the shoes and said to his mother: "Mother, are those the 'bootleggers' that daddy talks about?"—Indianapolis News.

Has a Sky Scraper.

In central Massachusetts, east of the Connecticut valley, is a ridge of hills, which after crossing into New Hampshire, sends up a well-known watch tower known as Mount Monadnock, 3,186 feet, says the American Forestry Magazine. This range continues northward, sending up an occasional peak like Mount Sunapee, the southern Kearsarge and Mount Cardigan.

Farmers, List Your Repair Needs

It would be hard to find a farmer who at some time or another had not lost valuable time waiting for necessary repair parts. Take this territory and total up the time lost in this way and it will astonish you. And all because repairs are not ordered as early as they should be.

There is no better time than right now—just before the busiest season on the farm—to go over your machines carefully, make a list of repairs you are likely to need and send it to us. With this list in our hands, we can order our stock so as to be prepared to meet every call promptly.

Repair part service is a necessary part of our business. We realize what it means to you in time and money to get what you need at once. Help us to help you by making up your list now and sending it in to us.

Tired

"I was weak and run-down," relates Mrs. Eula Burnett, of Dalton, Ga. "I was thin and just felt tired, all the time. I didn't rest well. I wasn't ever hungry. I knew, by this, I needed a tonic, and as there is none better than—

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

. . . I began using Cardui," continues Mrs. Burnett. "After my first bottle, I slept better and ate better. I took four bottles. Now I'm well, feel just fine, eat and sleep, my skin is clear and I have gained and sure feel that Cardui is the best tonic ever made."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui just as Mrs. Burnett did. It should help you.
