WASHINGTON COLLEGE

On Sept. 29 the student body was addressed by Mr. Chambers on the subject of student relief in Central Europe. Mr. Chambers was with the A. E. F. in France, received wounds during the war and is now engaged in student relief in central Europe. He gave a very vivid description of the conditions of the European students and then made an appeal for financial aid. The student body was unanimous with promise to raise a relief fund in the near future.

On the night of Sept. 29 the faculty held a reception for the student body in the gymnasium. This is a new custom and its purpose is to make new and old students acquainted with each other and the faculty. The meeting was opened with the college song, "Maroon and Black Forever," and cheering. Then the students scattered about the hall, chatting, laughing, joking with old friends and making new acquaintances. Refreshments were later served and then followed dancing. The "Get-Together Meeting," so called by Dr. Gould, was in every way a success and promises to become a permanent institution at the college.

"Have you bought a ticket to a chapel seat?" was the question put to every new man last week. If the questioned man did not have his ticket then he was offered one immediately for the small price of twenty-five cents. To be able to buy a season ticket for two bits is really a bargain. "Well, what's the joke?" will you, who are not initiated into the mysteries of the Hill, ask? Well, "there aint no such thing" as a ticket for a chapel seat. For chapel attendance is required of every student and made compulsory. And before the year is up some slothful student will be glad to pay more than twenty-five coppers to be excused from chapel. But in the meantime the few clever students who thought of the scheme have cleared up several dollars and offered it to the football training table. So the end justified the means, and everybody is taking it as a good joke. But like most great ideas, this one too found a number of imitators. Fellows are now offering radiators and canned sunshine for the price of a penny to any amount one can spare. But the fellows won't bite this time.

On the night of Oct. 2 the Adelphia Literary Society held its initiation meeting for new members. The affair was very formal and highly interesting. Prof. Howell delivered a very interesting speech and then formally presented the new members their certificates or membership. The crowded hall and the applause that followed the receipt of each certificate made the ceremony very impressive. Luther E. Cooper then gave a humorous reading and Morris Z. Levy read the "Moonbeam." Both presentations were well received and the audience was not slow in showing its approval.

Dr. Ramrod, Ph. D., obtained his license on Oct. 3, and disappeared the following day. No, he did not go on his honeymoon, for his license was not one for marriage. Dr. Ramrod is a brown and white bird dog who wandered up on the Hill in search of a home. He is long-bodied and lean, and also long-faced. He has all the ear marks of a true philosopher. When he first came up the fellows were indifferent to him. But he persisted in staying and in his own philosophy figured out a way of finding the affection of the students. For instance, he would report daily on the athletic field and watch with great interest the football practice. He participated in the cheering squad and followed every motion of the cheer leader with a loud bark. Now, such interest could not be overlooked by the students. They accepted him for a mascot and named him Dr. Ramrod and appended the title of Ph. D. to him. They obtained him first a good meal and then a license slip and tag. And the next day he disappeared. The students fear some foul work in the case. They tearfully beg the heartless wretch who kidnapped the "doctor" to be kind enough to return and receive the grateful thanks of a heart-broken student body.

PENINSULA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Organized At Salisbury Recently With Good Prospects

The movement started several weeks ago for the formation of a peninsula chamber of commerce has gained rapidly on the Eastern Shore. Already the organization has a president, secretary and treasurer and a board of directors pro tem, who will function until the annual meeting to be held for the election of officers on the first Monday in February.

Provisional by-laws have been drawn up and adopted. These state that the purpose of the organization is to promote the economic, civic and social welfare of the people and communities of the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula and to bring before the people in other parts of the United States facts concerning the peninsula in order to secure wider markets, more visitors to this section and more responsible and progressive property owners.

Dues are fixed at $25 a year for each member and the year begins Feb. 1. All commercial organizations, including boards of trade, chambers of commerce, rotary clubs or other civic bodies; all trade associations, such as lumber, fertilizer, marble cutter associations; all individual firms, granges and farmers' associations, banks and trust companies and villages and towns that do not have representative civic associations are entitled to membership in the centralized chamber of commerce.

Three annual meetings of the membership representatives will be held the first Monday in February, at which time the officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and the first Thursday in June and October. Special meetings may be called at any time by the president.

That this central Chamber of Commerce can be of untold benefit to the people and communities of the Eastern Shore is the belief of those who have been active in its organization. It is planned to carry on a more or less national advertising campaign setting forth the advantages of living in this section and owning property on the peninsula.

The temporary officers of the chamber are: Pres., F. P. Adkins, Salisbury; Sec. and Treas., C. M. Freeman, Salisbury; Board of Directors, H. P. Jones (chairman), Dover; R. H. Matthews, Cambridge; Albert L. Diamond, Seaford; E. O. Willis, Centreville; H. S. Valiant, Milford; and C. M. Freeman, Salisbury.

STILL POND

Miss Rachel Parrott is visiting her friend, Miss Venie Bowers, near Worton.

Msis Lucille Parr spent last week end with her aunt, Mrs. Todd, at Galena.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dittman and son, Ernest, have been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Hazel Katz, at Collingswood, N. J.

The regular monthly business and social meeting of the E. L. will meet in the S. S. room on next Friday evening, Oct. 13. Make this a good social by being present.

Dr. Frank Rines, of the Areo Council, Baltimore, gave a very interesting talk here last Sunday morning, illustrating it with some very fine drawings.

The following delegates have been elected to attend the E. L. Convention at Denton next week: Mrs. Lloyd Dill and Mrs. Stanley Matthews; alternates, Mrs. Ralph Shallcross and Mrs. Clarence Ford.

Miss Louise Toulson has returned home having spent several days with relatives in Baltimore.

Harvest Home services will be observed here on Sunday, Oct. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jarvis spent this week with his brother, Mr. Charles Jarvis, in Wilmington.

Watch for further announcements of the concert to be given soon by the Kitchen Cabinet Orchestra of the E. L.
