Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold.

A. S. Nussbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted on Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife had some of Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success. Sold by all druggists.

IRA D. SANKEY DEAD

Famous Singing Evangelist Passes Away in Brooklyn.

MANY TOURS WITH D. L. MOODY

His Songs Are Said to Have Had a Circulation of 50,000,000—Blind and Ill For Five Years.

Ira D. Sankey, known as an evangelist throughout the Christian world, died Thursday night at his home in Brooklyn. Mr. Sankey was 68 years old. For the last five years he had been blind and had suffered from a complication of diseases brought on by overwork. But almost to the very last he worked at hymn writing.

His tours throughout this country and Europe with Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, brought him into wide prominence. Sankey, it might be said, wrote the gospel hymns of the world. In China, Egypt, India, Japan, in almost every language known to man, Sankey's hymns are sung. He received a large income from his publications and leaves considerable estate. Among Mr. Sankey's most familiar compositions are "The Ninety and Nine" and "When the Mists Have Rolled Away." His songs are said to have had a circulation of more than 50,000,000 copies. He was a rapid composer and wrote book after book of gospel hymns.

In the last five or six years of his life he was interested in preparing and publishing the story of the gospel hymns. At the same time he saved his wonderful voice for posterity by singing into phonographs. The records were sent all over the world. Sankey first met Moody at Indianapolis. Moody was so charmed with the young man's voice that he urged him to accompany him on his evangelistic tours. Sankey explained that he was married and could not give up his position. "You must come," said Moody, "I cannot get along without you." Sankey consulted his wife and they cast in their lots with Mr. Moody.

Mr. Sankey lived in Brooklyn for 27 years, and it was there that most of his songs were written. He was a singer from boyhood. At the beginning of his active life Mr. Sankey was a Methodist, but for the last seven years he was a Presbyterian. He is survived by a widow, Fanny W. Sankey, his two sons, I. Allen Sankey, and Edward Sankey and two grandchildren.

Soldier Before Evangelist.

Ira David Sankey was a Pennsylvanian born in the little town of Edinborough, August 24, 1840. His father, David Sankey, served his State at one time as a member of the Senate. When young Sankey was 17 years of age his parents moved to the nearby city of New Castle, Pa., where the young man became interested in religious work. He got to be class leader in the Methodist Episcopal Church there and later leader of the choir. The work of the Young Men's Christian Association of New Castle also attracted him, and he was for a number of years president of the association branch.

It was not until 1870 that Mr. Sankey met Dwight L. Moody. In that year Mr. Sankey went as a delegate of the Young Men's Christian Association to the international convention of the association, held in Indianapolis. There they met for the first time the two young men whose names were destined to be so famously linked. They were fast friends from the very first, and about six months afterward the two men became associated in the evangelistic work that became so successful. Their first preaching was done in Chicago. The Moody and Sankey series began with a half hour of song by those assembled, after which Mr. Moody would preach a short sermon.

He would then call upon Mr. Sankey to sing some hymns apropos of the theme upon which he had preached. The magnetic personality of the singer, his full, round voice and the simplicity of the hymns usually sung by Mr. Sankey rarely failed to make a deep impression on his hearers.

Their Revivals in Great Britain.

In 1871 the two friends went to Great Britain and started the first series of memorable Moody and Sankey evangelistic campaigns there. The songs of Phillip Phillips, the first "singing evangelist," of P. P. Bliss and Sankey's own compositions made up the greater part of the hymnal that he drew upon during those first years of evangelistic work in Chicago and Great Britain. On a little organ that Mr. Sankey carried with him wherever he went in those early days he composed his hymns and played his own accompaniments at all the meetings.

In 1873, while the evangelists were in Great Britain, Mr. Sankey completed the first edition of his "Sacred Songs and Solos" series. The songs of this series are now sung all over the world, and have been translated into many different languages.

During that same campaign through Great Britain, Mr. Sankey first sang the song that is considered his greatest. It is "The Ninety and Nine." Thousands and thousands of times has this hymn been sung by every man, woman and child in the land. The history of this hymn is interesting. In 1874 Mr. Moody and Mr. Sankey held a series of meetings in Glasgow. At the close of these services an invitation came from the ministers of Edinburgh asking the two evangelists to return to that city and hold meetings. They had but recently com-
