

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. It is fatal. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar stand bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail.

Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THAT ANIMAL SEEN IN KENT. Supt. G. E. Noland Shows Prints of "Devil" at Tolchester Beach—Citizens in Millington Report its Presence There.

The Jabberwock or the Hinkapoo.—Built on the plans of a kangaroo—Covered with feathers and eyes that glow—Breathes fire from its nostrils, and stalks through the snow; Has hoofs like a pony, Though it flies through the air, But no one seems able To locate its lair.

This county has been all worked up over the report of the "bird pony" being in our midst. Supt. G. E. Noland showed the footprints of the animal in the snow at Tolchester and ladies in that neighborhood pulled down the blinds and kept guard over their homes.

In Millington a number of the citizens saw the tracks of the animal in their front yard while farmers report having shot at it. At Crumpton parties fired on it and found that the bullets simply fell flattened out.

In Smyrna, Mr. Jas. Allen says, a dummy was made and let down among a crowd of negroes and caused great consternation, one negro running all the way to Clayton.

From reports from other places, it appears that the "whatever-it-is" is abroad in droves, and there is a report that one of them has been captured in New Jersey. Another report says that these creatures are of sub-terrestrial origin, and were probably chased from their native haunts by other and fiercer animals, which were stirred to wrath by the shaking of the earth in the late earthquakes. They are said to have reached the top of the earth by way of the bottomless pits of the New Jersey bogs.

Shortly after 11 o'clock three men who were returning to their homes from a meeting of their lodge, met the indescribable One. They stayed not to form any close acquaintance, but in the language of the poets "beat it while their shoes were good." They can give no detailed description of what they met, but it growled at them, and since growling in all languages is indicative of trouble, and as they were hunting their beds and not trouble, they gave immediate acquiescence and departed. So did the lollypoppers. The footprints resembled those of a small colt, and continued for a distance about equal to a city block, where they ended, as they had begun, with absolutely no indication of how it had come, or how it had gone.

SPEECH OF S. SCOTT BECK

At Laying of Corner Stone of Chestertown's New Municipal Building—J. Wm. Kirby, of Chestertown, Furnishes Beautiful Stone.

Ladies, Gentlemen and Fellow Citizens.—We have assembled together to witness the laying of the corner stone of the first municipal building to be erected in Chestertown, and I have accepted to deliver this address with more than usual pleasure.

As a member of the Volunteer Fire Company of Chestertown, through whose ceaseless efforts and constant endeavors the erection of this building has been brought about, it is but natural that I should take an active and keen interest in all of its undertakings.

Upon a grand occasion of this kind, it is but appropriate that I should allude briefly to the early history of our town, and consequently refer to the prominent steps taken, and difficulties overcome in securing the erection of this structure.

We all know that the foundation of Chestertown took place about ten years earlier than that of Baltimore; that the principal city of Maryland was originally intended to be built here; that for a great many years the vessels of foreign nations came to our port, and their cargoes were stored in the ancient custom-house, which, as a land-mark, still stands at the water's edge of High street.

The selection of Mr. Thos. D. France as the first President of the Company was indeed wise for it is due largely to his diligent and ceaseless labors, to his incessant and conscientious efforts that so much has been accomplished. Too great praise cannot be accorded to him and his "Volunteers" for the prominent part they have taken in this noble work.

The following excellent paper was read before the Kent County Grange at its recent meeting in Fairlee by Judge John P. Nicholson. It deals with the subject of raising corn, and it will no doubt prove interesting to all times. No doubt some of our farmers would like to grow more corn per acre than they have in the past and Judge Nicholson's paper may help them to do so. It is as follows:

WORTHY MASTER BROTHERS AND SISTERS:—The question under consideration that the farmers of Kent County are not raising all the corn per acre that can be raised with profit to the soil and to themselves, is one that is suggestive of much thought and consideration, and might be better presented by some of the many farmers who have succeeded in raising large crops. It is, however, admitted that many of us are raising light and inferior crops. That all can raise their yield per acre is no doubt by the selection of good seed, thorough cultivation and the preparation of the soil. To insure good results, an effort should be made to give the land all the cultivation practicable—that is, from the time the land is plowed in the spring until the corn is planted.

At no time subsequently can cultivation be given, that will be so effective in killing weeds, it would seem correct to say, that the greatest mistake in corn culture, is the limited amount of preparation given to the land, before planting. It has been admitted by many, that shallow cultivation is superior to deep, the latter breaks the roots much more than the former, and checks the growth. The deepest cultivation may be given at first, and then it should be less deep. Should the weather be so wet during the normal period for cultivation, it is very difficult to grow a clean crop, conditions vary so much, that it is in a sense impossible to give rules that will meet every phase of the question which relates to the cultivation of the crop.

When we take the average yield of our State, the whole country's average being about 26 bushels per acre, it proves we have much to learn, and it also proves the varied character of the soils upon which corn is grown, some sections producing good yields at much less cost in labor and fertilizer than others. We are aware that some of our farmers get heavy yields, others less favored with soil conditions, and making as much outlay getting light and inferior crops. But their is no doubt that an increased yield is possible from all our lands by the selection of improved seed, and a more highly fertilization of our soil and thorough cultivation.

during days of bitter darkness, was valiantly struggling along. Finding itself, from its inception, embarrassed from the lack of funds to secure the necessary and proper equipments, it has made a grand and noble fight. Fetes and festivals have been given to raise money. One liberal citizen offered to donate $100 if four more would do the same thing, or to give $50 if nine others could be found who would act likewise.

Another one of our citizens has kindly and generously donated a room for the use of the Fire Company as a meeting place, so that the good work could go on. Drills have been had, and at last the necessary equipments have been bought, so that now we have in this town one of the best formed and equipped fire companies to be found anywhere on the Eastern Shore.

But that is not all. Overcoming difficulties and surmounting obstacles of all kinds, the Fire Company has played the leading part in the erection of this building. After securing the use of this lot, which is owned by the town, and seeking donations and contributions here and yonder, it has gone ahead with its noble undertaking. What we see before us is the reward for its labors and the fulfillment of its desires.

In the building to be erected here, we will find that which Chestertown should long ago have possessed—a municipal building in which will be housed the various branches of the town's government.

It will contain ample and commodious rooms in which will be held the meetings of the town commissioners and the Water Board. The Collector of the town's taxes will have his office here, while the paraphernalia of the fire company will be given ample quarters and a large room on the second floor will be placed at its disposal for the purposes of drills, meetings and so forth.

Should we not prosper and flourish? The following excellent paper was read before the Kent County Grange at its recent meeting in Fairlee by Judge John P. Nicholson. It deals with the subject of raising corn, and it will no doubt prove interesting to all times.
