EX-PRESIDENT Grover Cleveland in a recent communication said:—"I am one of those who believe that there is an opportunity for Democratic success in the coming Presidential election." That's all right Mr. Cleveland; but its not what a man believes, but what he actually does to make success possible, that counts for much nowadays. If Cleveland and Bryan will stop thinking and believing and get to work in the proper spirit there will be a much better opportunity for Democratic success in the fall.

THE DEATH OF United States Senator Marcus A. Hanna removes from the country a most conspicious figure in the halls of legislation, a mighty power in the politics of his party, and a man who has risen to prominence and fame more rapidly perhaps than any other man in public life. Senator Hanna had always taken an active interest in the political affairs of his native state (Ohio), but it has only been in recent years that his activity in national affairs has brought him into such marked prominence. The death of Senator Hanna is a blow to the Republican party, because of his genius as an organizer and his power as a leader. It is likewise a blow to the country, for M. A. Hanna was a man whose mind was capable of great achievements for his country's good, and whose character was worthy of emulation on the part of all those in public life whose efforts are exerted for the best interests of all classes of men.

SENATOR A. P. GORMAN FOR PRESIDENT.

Already the political atmosphose is rife with rumors regarding the most available candidates for nomination for the presidency at the Democratic National Convention which meets in St. Louis in July. That there is an abundant supply of good timber is evidenced by the different names that have been mentioned heretofore in the press of the country. The one name that appears most favorably to Marylanders, and we may say to a large part of the country as well, is that of Hon. A. P. Gorman, the junior United States Senator from Maryland. Mr. Gorman's fitness for the responsibility of the high office is unquestioned, and the objections that have been urged against his candicacy thus far are so small as to be of practically small moment. Mr. Gorman is perhaps the one man in the United States Senate today whose knowledge of his country's needs, and whose business capacity are so large, as to entitle him to the leadership of his party on the floor of the nation's Congress. His conservatism in business is so pronounced as to inspire the confidence of all the great business interests of the country, and altogether he may be regarded as a safe man for the presidency. Mr. Gorman has not been free from mistakes in his political career.

The present incumbent of the White House has made them, and yet his party will honor him with a renomination. Nor is Mr. Gorman's shrewdness as an organizer and manager of political campaigns to be discounted as a qualification. This is a quality equally as necessary in a candidate for office as anything else. Upon every great question confronting the people of the country, Mr. Gorman has taken a conservative stand, and has shown his ability to discuss intelligently and with wisdom all the questions of international importance that have come before the nation's great body. Mr. Gorman has been in public life sufficiently long to make him known the world over, and we believe that his election would not only inspire confidence on the part of the great business interests of the country, but would add prestige and dignity to the country's interests abroad. Mr. Gorman will have no trouble to secure the delegation from Maryland to the National Convention. He is not only in close touch with all the political interests of the State, but the people respect him for his ability and acts of public benefit, and will be glad to honor him with their votes. We believe that Arthur P. Gorman will make an ideal candidate for the Presidency.

When You Have a Cold.

The first action when you have a cold should be to relieve the lungs. This is best accomplish by the free use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This Remedy liquefies the tough mucus and causes its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs, produces a free expectoration, and opens the secretions. A complete cure soon follows. This remedy will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment and it leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. It counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by M. A. Toulson, Druggist.

GOVERNOR WARFIELD'S APPOINTMENTS.

A Few of the Many Appointments to be Made by the Governor Sent to the Senate.

KENT COUNTY'S LIST.

Governor Edwin Warfield has sent to the Maryland Senate this week a few of his appointments. The entire list of appointments must be made before the 25th. Kent county's list, which appears below, will no doubt be pleasing to the people of the entire county. The following appointments have been made:

Fish Commissioner for Eastern Shore—James D. Anderson, of Somerset county.

Liquor License Commissioner—Bernard Weisenfeld.

Superintendent Bureau of Immigration—Wm. T. P. Turpin, Queen Anne's county.

State Fire Marshall—William C. McAfee, of Baltimore city.

Governor Warfield on Thursday sent the following list of appointments for Kent county to the Senate. Space will not permit of any extended account of each appointment. They are all men of prominence and each appointment will undoubtedly give general satisfaction. Most of the appointments had been predicted by some of our local politicians. The surprises however, are the appointments of Purnell Jump, as School Commissioner, and Samuel G. Lee and Jas. T. DeCourse as Election Supervisors. All three are excellent appointments. The following is the list:

Justices of the Peace.—Henry Parr, First District; William Parr, David Nickerson, Second District; Joseph Duyer, Arthur L. Harris, Third District; Police Justice, Samuel Hicks; T. Waters Russell, Robert W. Calder, Fourth District; Robert F. Jewell, Samuel Burgess, Fifth District.

Notary Public—Charles Estes, Chestertown.

Coroner—Robert Moffett, Chestertown.

Supervisors of Election—George H. Cannon and Samuel G. Lee, Democrats; James T. Decourse, Republican.

School Commissioner—Purnell Jump, of Fairlee.

AFTERMATH OF THE FIRE

Removing Debris—Planning For a Beautiful City—Banks Begin Operations—Insurance Companies Fail—Business Active—Gathering Souvenirs.

The work of removing the debris from the burned district was commenced as soon as the ruins had cooled. It is said that it will cost $15,000,000 to clear away the debris. Authorities are perplexed as to what disposition to make of it. The railroads want it for ballast. Others think it can be used profitably in widening Light street.

A special committee is at work devising plans for rebuilding the burned district. It is proposed to make a beautiful city by widening the streets and erecting costly and imposing structures. It has been suggested that the handsome Court House be surrounded by a beautiful park.

All of the banks that suffered by the fire have resumed business, their vaults having been found intact, and their safes having been moved to temporary locations.

Expert underwriters place the loss by fire at $125,000,000 with an insurance amounnting to $80,000,000.

Several insurance companies have been forced iuto the hands of the receivers on account of the fire. Among them are The Peabody, Old Town, Fireman's, Home and Baltimore companies.

The following concerns will rebuild at once:

The Baltimore Stock Exchange, on German street.

Continental Trust Company, Baltimore and Calvert street.

First National Bank, South street.

Hopkins Place Savings Bank, Hopkins place.

National Exchange Bank, German street and Hopkins place.

National Mechanics' Bank, German and South street.

National Bank of Commerce, on South street.

Maryland Casualty Company, Baltimore and North street.

McCormick & Co., 105 to 117 West Concord street.

Merchants' National Bank, South and Water street.

International Trust Company, Baltimore street.

Chamber of Commerce, Water and Holiday street.

National Marine Bank, on Fayette street near Charles.

Law Building Company, St. Paul and Lexington streets.

Maryland Savings Bank, Baltimore and Holiday street.

Townsend Scott & Son, 209 East Fayette street.

Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway, Bowly's wharf.

Equitable Building Company, Calvert and Fayette street.

Calvert Building and Construction Co., Fayette and St. Paul streets.

Herald Publishing Company, Fayette and St. Paul streets.

National Mechanics' Bank, South and German streets.

Hopkins Place Saving Bank, 7-11 South Sharp street.

The present cold snap has caused the State Malitia and Police force much inconvenience and several have been compelled to leave their posts of duty.

The city has been thronged since the fire with curious sightseers and many have left the ruins with valuable souvenirs.

Nearly all of the firms that were burned out have secured temporary quarters as may be seen in the columns of the daily papers, and business is being pushed with great activity.

One of the merchants who suffered by the fire was so anxious to know whether the contents of his safe were secure that he opened the door before the safe had cooled. Immediately the air struck the interior the whole thing blazed up and the poor man lost everything in his safe.

WHAT THE LEGISLATURE IS DOING.

One-half of session of Legislature is gone and not much of any importance has been accomplished save the election of a United Senator. A great part of the last week's session was consumed with matters pertaining to the Baltimore fire, but with the incoming week much important legislation will be presented. The bill amending the present election law has been presented, but no action has been taken upon it as yet. The Haman Oyster Bill has been introduced by Senator Robinson, of Harford, and the Good Roads Bill is also being considered. All these very important bills will be pushed as rapidly as possible. Interest at present centers in the Governor's appointments, a few of which have been sent to the Senate. The most important of the appointments will be sent to the Senate the early part of the coming week and Governor Warfield has been besieged all the present week with belated delegations. Those appointments that have been made thus far will be found in another column of this issue.

KENT COUNTY BILLS INTRODUCED.

So far as Kent county is concerned few bills have been introduced. Delegate Atkinson introduced this week the following:

To repeal laws reducing salary of Treasurer of Kent county.

To amend the game laws of Kent county.

To prohibit the killing of foxes in Kent county; referred to Kent delegation and Mr. Buckler.

A bill has also been introduced to exempt judgments from taxation, and one to exempt $250 in personal property from taxation.

PERSONAL MENTION.

John T. Morris, Esq., of the Baltimore bar, states that he was burned out by the recent fire, losing his office fixtures and law library. He succeeded in saving all of his valuable papers and states that there will be no loss whatever to unfinished business. He is now located at 8 E. Lexington street, Room 12. His legal card appears in our advertising columns.

A very enjoyable time was spent at St. James M. P. Parsonage on Friday evening last when the Worton Sewing Meeting was splendidly entertained by Rev. J. M. Sheridan and family at a "Valentine Party." The next meeting of the "Circle" will be held at the home of Mr. A. Crawford. It will be a "Basket Sewing Meeting."

Mr. J. Frank Wheatley has been housed for a week or more with a severe cold. He is improving, we are glad to state.

Delegate Cecil R. Atkinson spent Sunday at home with his family. Senator Foxwell, M. Jacob T. Shallcross and Mr. John M. Comegys were also at home over Sunday.

Misses Julia and Daisy Nicholson entertained Misses Maddox and Griffin, of the College, on Saturday and Sunday last at their home near town.

Miss Elizabeth Connelly entertained a few of her little friends very pleasantly on Saturday evening.

Miss Helen Hynson gave a pleasant "Company" to a few of her little friends on Tuesday evening.

Miss Ida Moore is the guest of friends in Marydel.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Russell, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday with relatives in Chestertown and Church Hill.

Rev. C. T. Denroche, rector of St. Paul's Church, has been quite sick for some days.

It is said that Mr. W. J. Leaaverton has purchased of Capt. Wm. Taylor his farm near Fairlee.

Mrs. Messick, of Georgetown, Del., has been visiting her son, Dr. W. R. Messick, of Still Pond.

Mrs. Wm. Medders and daughter, Dorothy, are visiting Mrs. Medders' parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Harper, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. R. F. Parks has been confined to his room during the week with a severe cold.

Mr. Wylie Hudson, of Baltimore, has been the guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Money, of Still Pond.

Mr. and Mrs. George Oetinger, of Camden, N. J., are the guests of Prof. and Mrs. J. A. Greenwood, of Rock Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Mench, of Galena, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Kelley, of Rock Hall.

Miss Fannie Anthony entertained a number of her friends very pleasantly at a "heart party" on Monday evening at her home in Queen Anne's. Quite a number of Miss Anthony's Chestertown friends were among the invited guests.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Comegys of Millington, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding on Friday evening. Their presents were beautiful and costly. About fifty guests were present, and a most enjoyable evening spent, a musical program being rendered. A most elegant supper was served, with all the delicacies of the season.

Deputy Register of Wills Ford slipped and fell on the icy pavements as he was leaving Christ M. P. Church last Sunday evening, sustaining a painful sprain of the left wrist. He fell with his weight on his left arm and came near sustaining a fracture of the bones.

Mr. William Valliant, of Delmar, is the guest of friends in town.

Mrs. Emory Wroth sustained a severe cut on the hand while opening a glass jar the other day. The wound has been causing her a great deal of pain, but her physician, Dr. C. W. Whaland, does not fear any serious results.

Messrs. Samuel Hicks, George Lofland, R. H. Collins, W. B. Copper, Dr. G. Allen Jarman and Hope H. Barroll, Esq., were in Baltimore this week viewing the ruins of the burned city.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beck gave a card party in honor of their son Reese's 21st birthday on Saturday evening. Among those present from town were: Misses Sallye and Isabel Beck, the Misses Harvey, Hallie Westcott, Wheeler Peterson, Maude Ringgold, Ambrose Carroll, John Toulson, Thomas Massey.

Miss Sue Ford has returned from a pleasant visit with friends in Kirkwood, Del.

Mrs. J. Lane Finley who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Collins, left on Thursday for Elkton and Port Deposit.

Miss Carter, of Morristown, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram M. Brown.

Miss Rebecca Wickes left on Monday for a trip to Southern California via Mexico.

Miss Alice Wilmer entertained the Dorcas Society on Tuesday evening of last week.

Mr. Godfrey Westcott, who has been threatened with appendicitis, is so much improved that he is able to be down stairs.

Mr. Rudolf Stam spent Sunday with his mother. Mr. Stam has finished his work at Wilmington and has been assigned to work in the car shops in Philadelphia.

Robert Lusby, of Wilmington, formerly a resident of near Chesterville, entertained a number of friends at No. 419 Washington street one evening this week. All the new games of the season and music were indulged in and refreshments were served. Those present, included Mrs. Devalinger, Mrs. McCaulley Misses Lucretia Reed, Emma Albert, Blanche Reese, Mary O'Donnell, Mamie Syeres, Florence Vandyke, Millie Atwell, Clara Albert, Bertha McCaulley, Nellie Vandyke, Catherine Ralph, Clara Jones, Alfred Finkernagel, Robert Jarrell, William Bowers, Bradford Johnson, John Battis, Harry Downey, Walter Ficker, Spencer Foulke, Peter Brickner, Samuel Ralph, Baynard Eliason, Harry Crainer and others.

HORRIBLE MURDER IN DELAWARE.

Mrs. Mary Powell, of Near Bowers' Beach, Charged with the Murder of Her Ward, Estelle Albin.

ONE OF THE MOST ATROCIOUS CRIMES IN THE HISTORY OF DELAWARE.

One of the most horrible and astrocious crimes in the history of the State of Delaware occurred near Bowers' Beach the latter part of last week. The sudden disappearance of Estelle Albin from the home of Albert Powell, in whose family the young lady had lived since childhood, gave rise to suspicions of foul play, and a search was immediately begun for the lost girl. After a thorough search of the entire neighborhood had been made, the body of the girl was found in the attic of the Powell home, horribly mangled and cut. The face of the dead girl was beaten in such a manner as to make it completely unrecognizable, and her entire body bore the marks of the most dastardly crime in the history of the State. Sheriff Melvin, of Kent county, Del., and Detectives Francis and Ratledge were put to work in order to find the murderer and after four days of arduous investigation, they arrested Mrs. Mary Powell, wife of Albert Powell, with whom the dead girl lived, on Monday, on the charge of murder. The prisoner was taken to Dover and arraigned before a magistrate, who committed her to jail until Tuesday next, when she will be given a hearing. The arrest of Mrs. Powell was based on information obtained from Edgar Cooper, aged 5 years, who was with Miss Albin on the morning of the tragedy, and also on statements from Mr. Powell after his return from the funeral, which took place on Sunday. An immense crowd attended the funeral from all parts of Delaware. The casket containing the remains of the murdered girl was carried by six young men from the vicinity of the Powell home. The body rested in a handsome casket and was dressed in a white shroud. The face and hands still showed evidences of the horrible crime. After the services an invitation was given to view the body and almost the first to leave their seats were Mr. and Mrs. Powell. Mr. Powell wept and patted the cheek of the dead girl. He exclaimed, "I have lost a good hand." Mrs. Powell raised her veil and bent over to kiss the girl's forehead, but was restrained by the undertaker.

The information secured from Edgar Cooper was obtained after the family and friends had left the house for the fuueral. He was taken into the kitchen and there asked about Essie, as she was called by all the family. He was unshaken in his statements, many times repeating that auntie, meaning Mrs. Powell, struck Essie over the head with a piece of wood, that Essie ran out into the yard and then upstairs. He had been posted as to the events following the murder, as he would often quote statements made by other members of the family.

After the conversation with the State detectives, Powell, who was in the back yard, walked toward the house and was heard to exclaim: "I don't go behind the prison bars if the truth will keep me out."

That jealousy was the motive which prompted the murder is accepted by all. Mr. Powell has practically admitted that he thought a great deal of Miss Albin. He stated that more than once has he had to secure his wife to prevent her doing bodily injury to the girl.

The dress worn by Mrs. Powell on the day of the tragedy has been secured by the officers, and a microscopic examination will be made of it.

DETECTIVE FRANCIS' CHARGES.

After the arrest of Mrs. Powell, State Detective Francis, in an interview with a newspaper reporter said:

"We have woven together what we believe is the correct story of the circumstances attending the killing of the girl. We have learned that Mrs. Powell on several occasions locked up her adopted children in the garret where Essie's body was found. The slain girl was also treated to doses of the same kind of punishment. On Tuesday last, some time between 9 and 12 o'clock in the forenoon (we have not been able as yet to fix the exact hour), there was a quarrel brought on by some remark made by Essie. The assailant struck the girl and knocked her down. Essie jumped up as quickly as she could and ran out the kitchen into the pump shed and reentered the house through a back door. The pursuer ran after the girl, and in her chase she picked up the Jack-knife, still retaining the handle of an ax, with which the first blows were struck.

"On seeing that she was followed, Essie ran upstairs, intending, as we believe, to go into the garret, where she thought she would be safe. The girl may have imagined that her pursuer would remain satisfied with locking her in the small room and keeping her there for some time. But the poor girl reckoned wrongly. When she reached the upper landing the pursuer was close behind her, and with the big Jack-knife struck her a blow in the back of the head splitting the comband piercing the skull. The brave girl then turned around and faced her assailant at the same time raising her arms to protect herself.

"Slowly she was forced into the garret and there hacked and butchered to death, as we found her. The assailant then brought into use a rope in an effort to make it appear that the girl committed suicide. The slayer fastened the rope about the neck and, lifting the body from the floor, tied the other end of the rope to a rafter. As the corpse swung about the blood from the gash in the throat drippedto the floor. The hands and arms of the victim being exposed and showing numerous cuts and scratches it quickly appealed to the murderer that the theory of suicide by hanging would not be a good one. So the body was cut down and the knife placed in the right hand of the victim, leaving her almost doubled up in a pool of blood. Then the assailant removed the rope and ax handle and, going downstairs, removed what ever bloodstains may have been on hands and clothing. We have found the bloody ax handle and are now after the rope and the clothing worn by Mrs. Powell on last Tuesday."
