A Hook on the Wall.

If a hook on the wall will bear ten pounds without snapping, you know the result if each day another pound was hung to it.

Your eyes are in the same position as the hook. The ever-increasing strain is adding pressure each day. When you find your eyes are not quite so good, you should have them immediately attend to. Correction of the defect may then be easy.

Our methods of fitting glasses are the best known or used anywhere and prices are right. No haphazard, try or guess lens or frames fitting here. Perfect fitting lenses and frames cost you no more than you would have to pay for ill-fitting ones.

ONE X MARK IS ENOUGH. SAYS ATTY. GEN. BRYAN.

Voter Need Not Indicate His Choice Among the Individual Electors.

Attorney General William Shepard Bryan rendered an opinion yesterday, which is tantamount to a binding decision, that a mark in the square opposite the names of the candidates for President and Vice President carries with it all of the candidates for electors representing those candidates for President and Vice-President. This settles a very important question and one upon which lawyers did not agree.

The attorney general's construction of the law agrees withthat of President Charles H. Carter of the board of supervisors of elections, but differs from that of Mr. John P. Poe. The decision is timely in view of the fact that the supervisors of Prince George's county had practically agreed among themselves to count only those tickets on which the voters had mrrked for the elocters. As they are under the law bound by the instructions of the attorney general they must act in accordanch with the decision, which is as follows:

"Section 50 of article 30 of the Code of Public General Laws, title electors, is not an explict as it might be. So far as the question of the method of voting for electors for President and Vice-President is .concerned, the statute after providing for the grouping of the several sets of candidates for presidential electors prescribes: The surname of the candidates of each political party for the office of President and Vice-President shall be placed above the group of candidates for electors of such party. There shall be left at the right of the surnames of the candidates for President and Vice-President so formed as to include both names and to the right of the name of each elector a sufficient clear square in which each voter may designate by a cross (X) his choice for electors.

"Giving to this language its reasonable meaning, it must have been the intten-tion of the Legislature that the voter by making his cross mark opposite the names of the candidates for the offices of President and Vice-President of any party could show his inttention of voting for the presidential electors of that party. The voter also had the option, if he saw fit, to vote for the individual candidates for elector.

"To illustrate: It Arthur P. Gorman and John W. Daniel were the democratic candidates, respectively, for the offices of President and Vice-President, a voter by making a cross mark in the space opposite their names could evince his intention to vote for the democratic electors; or the voter, if he saw fit, could evince the same intention by making a cross mark opposite the name of individual democratic candidate for elector.

"If in voting for the individual candidates for electors a voter should mark more names than there are offices to be filled his ballot would have to be thrown out; first because it would be impossible to acertain which eight of the nine or more candidates voted for were the voter's choice, and, secondly, because section 66 of article 33 of the code, as amended bychapter 2 of the acts of 1901, provides if the voter has marked more names than there are persons to be elected to an office, or if there shall be any mark on the ballot other than the cross mark in the square opposite to the name of the candidate, other than the name or names of any candidates writen by the voter on the ballot, as provided by section, 49, his ballot shall not be counted.

"And again, if a voter should place his cross mark opposite the names of the presidential candiates of one party and then should vote for one or more of the presldential candidates of another party, his ballot for the same reasons would likewise have to be thrown out.".
