MILLINGTON MATTERS.

One of the saddest deaths that has occurred for some time, was that of Mrs. A. M. Hart, wife of Mr. Charles R. Hart, near Sudlersville. Mrs. Hart was born near Millington March 31st, 1864, and was a daughter of the late Rev. David A. and Martha A. Price. She was married to Mr. Hart, June 10th, 1886. Before marrige she was Miss Addie Margaret Price, and lived near Millington until three years ago. Mrs. Harthas a wide circle of friends in this vicinity and was a general favorite with every one as she was always bright and cheerful, always having a pleasant word for every one. Her home was a pleasant place to visit, as every one was sure of a hearty welcome. Nearly two years ago Mrs. Hart contracted a heavy cold which developed into that dread disease, consumption of the throat and lungs. Her husband spared no expense in trying to save her life, he consulted many eniment physicians, but the grim monster death crept in on Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 30th, and snatched her away from her family. She was a good, loving, devoted wife and mother. Sunday evening she bade her family good bye, telling them she had to leave them, and she wanted to see the minister. Rev. Edwin Gardner, pastor of Asbury M. E. Church, Millington, was sent for, and when he reached her bedside, she told him she wanted him to administer the sacrament to her, which he did. She was desirous of getting up but she was too weak. Tuesday afternoon, she asked her husband to take her up in his arms, he lifted her up, and held her for a few minutes, until she became unconscious; he laid her in bed and in a few minutes she stopped breathing to awaken beyond the pearly gates. Mrs. Hart is survived by her husband and four children, Misses Emma and Lillian, Masters Lambert and John, also by her mother, Mrs. Martha A. Price, who resides on Cypress street of our town, and two brothers and three sisters, Rev. Thomas L. Price, of New Haven, Conn., and Mr. Wm. H. Price, of Philadelphia, Mrs. B. F. Vansant, of this town, Miss Ollie F. Price, of Philadelphia, and Miss Nema Price who resides with her. Many friends mourn her loss with her family and relatives, as every one loved her, and the community sympathizes with the husband and children. Rev. Edwin Gardner conducted the funeral services which were held at her husband's residence, near Sudlersville on Thursday afternoon. The interment was made in Millington cemetery. Floral designs from her family and friends as a token of their love for her were numerous and beautiful. Her pall bearers were her old friends whom she has known from childhood: Messrs. L. Pennington, S. Baxter, S. Goodhand, R. W. Moffett, Wm. Joslyn and Howard Barwick.

The peach season is nearly over (the shippers have stopped sending out refrigerator cars) a few late ones are coming in. The peach crop has been very heavy, and the quality of fruit exceptionally fine this year. Other fruits are also in abundance.

Quite a number of young people from this town and vicinity attended the Annual Tournament at "Dewey Park" Wedneseay afternoon and evening.

The carpenters and workmen of every trade are very busy rebuilding and several of the dwellings and store rooms are being completed, and will be ready for occupancy in a short time. Mr. Radjeskey has his bricks hauled, and will begin at once. He anticipates building a very nice brick house on the lot he purchased from Mr. Lewis Fallowfield.

"If"—"But"—"Can't"

These are the three great trouble-words—hold-back words—of the English language; and they're small words, at that.

"If" is the word of the doubter; "But" is the word of the waverer; "Can't" is the word of the weak or the sluggish.

So most of us identify and recognize the three words—yet there's a way to use them by which they may become comfort-words, profit-words.

We're going to deal with "If"—"But"—"Can't" in the next three issues of this paper. You will be interested, we are sure, in learning how these words may be used—properly used—in a way that cannot fail to benefit the users.

Our Fall Opening on the 12th

IT WILL BE A WONDERFUL EVENT.
