A TRIBUTE

To John J. Roeder, an Esteemed Citizen.

Midst cold and snow and icy rain,
Sudden and swift the Reaper came,
And laid him low,
From many friends, and home and life,
Children and neighbors, loving wife,
Death struck the blow.

On wings invisible, angels bore,
His spirt to that Heavenly shore,
Beyond their eyes.
Away from sorrows, cares and strife,
To enter the Immortal life,
Beyond the skies,

Where Christ is always welcoming,
The weary ones who come to Him,
For joy and peace,
"Come unto me," he says to them,
"Come unto me, ye faithful ones,"
"Come unto me, beloved ones,"
Here sorrows cease."

"Here in my Home, no storms arise,
Love reigns supreme in Paradise,
And all are blest,
For the wicked never enter here,
And the weary are at rest."

OBITUARY.

The Silent Reaper Has Come Again And With His Sickle Has Garnered the Golden Sheaves.

Mr. Josiah Lusby, one of our oldest and most beloved citizens, died at his home on High street on Monday evening at 4.40 o'clock, in the 85th year of his age. Up until three months ago the deceased had enjoyed excellent health, and his activity and strength were remarkable for one of his advanced age. About the first of December there were indications of failing health, and since that time he had lingered with wonderful vitality, though he realized that the infirmities of age were about to accomplish their work. Mr. Lusby was born in Sassafras, Kent county, in June 1820. He was educated in the public school of the neighborhood, and early in life devoted his attention to agriculture. By the most systematic habits of life and persistent attention to business he soon became one of Kent's most prominent agriculturalists, and was possessed of some of the finest farming lands in the county. Fifty-four years ago he married Miss Emily Usilton, daughter of the late Joseph and Sarah Usilton, and during all these years their home life has been remarkable for its holy influences. Shortly after his marriage, Mr. Lusby purchased Fancy farm, one of the finest tracts of land in the county, and here, surrounded by a family of a devoted wife and loving children, he lived in comfort until his retirement from agricultural life about twenty years ago, when he purchased the residence on High street, Chestertown, formerly owned by Harrison W. Vickers Esq., and removed there in December 1884. Scarcely has it been our privilege to witness a greater devotion to the interests of his home and loved ones than was displayed by Mr. Lusby. His every thought was of his home and the happiness of his family, and no task was too great, no burden to heavy for him to perform if only it would add to the joy and comfort of those he so dearly loved. He was a husband and father in the truest and most hallowed sense of the words, and his whole life was one of devotion to the home. Not alone however in the home did the splendid character of the deceased make its influence felt. In all his dealings with his fellowmen he was always more considerate of others than himself, and we have often heard him say that if he had any enemies he did not know who they were.

He never turned a deaf ear to the needs of others, and in that quiet, simple life for which he was so marked, he performed his deeds of love and charity without ostentation. He was also a man of strong religious views, and he lived the best life he knew how to live in the presence of his Maker, and he passed away leaving the sweet assurance to his loved ones that he has entered the haven of rest. Throughout his long and useful manhood he has been blessed with a most devoted family of children, and his pathway to the Great Beyond was hallowed and sweetened with the most beautiful ministrations of love that only a most devoted wife and faithful and loyal children can bestow. Almost his last words were: "Be good, and we may all meet again." His form, his bright smile, and jovial disposition will be sorely missed in the home circle that was once so happy, but as great a blessing and as kind a husband and father as he has always been, will sanctify the home with the influence of a life well spent, and will be the reason for the assurance that he has gone home to meet those loved ones who preceded him only a few years ago, and to await the coming of those who are left. He is survived by a widow and four children: Mrs. Wm. T. Nicholson, Misses Gertrude and Marian J. Lusby, and Mr. Walter U. Lusby, besides a number of grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at his late residence on High street on Thursday afternoon at three o'clock conducted by Revs. D. L. Greenfield and J. M. Sheridan. Interment was made in Chester cemetery. The pall bearers were: Messrs. Wm. A. Hyland, of Galena; Judge Thomas Hudson, of Edesville; Hon. Garrett Foxwell, of Blacks; J. Walter Skirven, George W. Hatcherson, John P. Nicholson, Milton Baker and Jas. S. Bradley. The floral tributes of friends and relatives were profuse and beautiful. Undertaker John N. Dodd had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MRS. ANN SAVINA BARTHOLOW.

Mrs. Ann Savina Bartholow, mother-in-law of Mrs. Wm. J. Vannort, of Chestertown, died on Tuesday night after a brief illness of pneumonia, in the 93rd year of her age, at the home of her daughter, Mrs Isaac Thrasher, Washington, D. C. The deceased was the widow of Presley J. Bartholow, of Baltimore. She was born in that city and with the exception of the last 15 years of her life had spent most of her time in Maryland. She was a very active woman, despite her age, and was occupied with household duties until the time of her illness. All who knew the deceased loved her for her many beautiful and womanly qualities. She is survived by a daughter, 12 grandchildren among whom are Mrs. J. J. Sheppard, and Mrs. H. S. Rayner, of Baltimore, children of Mrs. Wm. J. Vannort, and 13 great-grandchildren. Funeral services were conducted at the residence of her daughter Mrs. Thrasher, 303 D. street, Northwest Washington, on Thursday. Interment was made in Greenmount cemetery, Baltimore.

JOHN P. VANDYKE.

Mr. John P. Vandyke, for many years a prominent agriculturalist of the Third District, died at his home near Lynch's on Thursday, of pneumonia, aged 67 years. The deceased was one of the most highly respected residents of the county, and his death is mourned by a large circle of friends. He is survived by seven children, five daughters and two sons. They are Mrs. Townsend E. W. Crew, Mrs. Charles W. Crew, Mrs. Clara Reese, Misses Mollie and Lula Vandyke, and Messrs. Robert Vandyke, a prominent lawyer, of Dover, and Mr. Thos. Vandyke, of Locust Grove. Funeral services were held on Thursday morning from his late residence, Rev. T. F. Beauchamp, pastor of Still Pond M. E. Church, officiating. Interment was made in Chester cemetery. Undertaker Wm. H. Krusen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

JOHN WESLEY FALLS.

John Wesley Falls, Esq., a prominent lawyer of Elkton died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Worden Rambo, in Wilmington, on Friday of last week of a final shock of paralysis. The deceased was born May 31st, 1835. He taught school for 30 years, and was a law student under the late Hiram McCullough and later under Wm S. Evans, Esq., of Elkton. He was admitted to the bar in 1886.

NANNIE P. LARRIMORE.

Miss Nannie P. Larrimore, a popular school teacher of Queen Anne's county, died at the home of Mrs. Lizzie Carter, in Centreville on Sunday night of typhoid fever, aged 33 years. The deceased had been connected with the schools of Queen Anne's county for 14 years, and was very popular with a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

MISS BERTHA DOWNES.

Miss Bertha Downes, a popular young lady of Church Hill, died at the residence of her grandmother, Mrs. John Coppage in that town on Thursday. Funeral services will be held at the residence of her grandmother in Church Hill, tomorrow (Sunday) morning at 11 o'clock. Interment at Sudlersville.

READING ROOM FOR YOUMG MEN.

A Splendid Movement by the W. C. T. U. of Chestertown.

During the week the pentacostol wave has aroused the slumbering W. C. T. U. of Chestertown to the need of practical christian work which is characteristic of the organization. At a called meeting Wednesday a committee consisting of Mrs. C. H. Hurlock, Mrs. W. B. Copper, Mrs. H. B. Simmons, Mrs. Joel Clements and Mrs. M. A. Toulson, was appointed to formulate plans for opening a reading room and help to save the young men and boys. At a meeting the following day Mrs. H. B. Simmons was elected secretary, with Mrs. W. B. Copper treasurer. It was decided to accept gratefully the offer of Mr. W. W. Hubbard to donate a heated room for the purpose, as a memorial to his mother, the late county superintendent of evangelistic work, and a revered member of Chestertown union. The committee will issue bonds at 50 cents a share to anyone willing to give financial aid, to be liquidated annually by the good done the community.

*†*Mr. Whittier C. Copper, and mother, have rented the Stuart house on Queen street, now occupied by Mr. Raymond Jones and family, and they will remove there the first of next month. Mrs. Raymond Jones and little daughter will board with Mrs. Copper.

BURGLARY IN TOWN.

J. D. Bacchus' Coal Yard Office Broken Into But The Theif Secured Little Booty.

When Mr. J. D. Bacchus and his clerk, Mr. J. Frank Connelly, went to Mr. Bacchus' coal yard office on Cannon street Thursday morning, they found it had been visited during the night by a thief or thieves evidently in search of money. The guilty party made his entrance by breaking the keeper off the back door of the office. He proceeded to riddle the desk drawers of their contents and in his hunt secured about 15 cents in small change. He then went to the private office where Mr. Bacchus keeps his safe, and having lighted the lamp he proceeded to effect an entrance to the safe. He evidently was not provided with the necessary burglar tools, and his efforts to break the safe lock were futile. He opened a drawer in Mr. Bacchus' desk and secured a pistol. This together with the small change is all that the thief secured. Messrs. Bacchus and Connelly were very much surprised to find things scattered about the office and the lamp sitting on the floor, for they are usually very neat and keep everthing in order. The thief evidently did not want coal or wood for the yard is full. He was after money, and he failed. There is no clew whatever to the guilty parties.

P. O. S. OF A. CELEBRATION

A Patriotic Meeting in Stam's Hall in Honor of Washington's Birthday.

Camp No. 34, P. O. S. of A., one of the most flourishing orders in Kent county, gave a patriotic celebration in Stam's Hall on Wednesday in honor of Washington's birthday. The stage was beautifully decorated for the occasion by members of the order with handsome American flags, bunting, a large portrait of Washington and the American eagle. Seated upon the stage with the speakers were Rev. W. L. White, pastor of the Chestertown M. E. Church; past-president, John C. Davis; president of the order, Wm. J. Hudson; vice-president, Frank Elburn; District president, Wm. B. Coleman; treasurer, W. H. Lambert, and State trustee, W. E. Ringgold. Past president J. C. Davis presided and introduced the speakers. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. W. L. White, after which W. H. Lambert, treasurer of the order, read the principles of the P. O. S. of A. The first speaker of the evening was Rev. F. S. Cain, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church at Sassafras, who delivered a splendid address upon the principles of the order. The theme of Mr. Cain's address was patriotism, which is the keynote to the work of the order, and in a very appropriate and pleasing manner he discussed the work of the order as it relates to the various institutions of government.

Rev. C. E. Redeker, State Master of Forms, was the next speaker introduced, and he simply charmed his audience with the masterly way in which he discussed the general principles of the order. Mr. Redeker is a fluent speaker, and he never fails to impress his hearers with the noble work of the order of which he is an enthusiastic member.

The object of the celebration was twofold, first in honor of the birthday of the Father of our Country, and second, to bring before the public the principles of the order. Both objects were accomplished, and the celebration was successful in every particular. The hall was filled with interested listeners, and already there are quite a number of applications for membership.

Splendid music for the occasion was furnished by the Centreville band under the able direction of Prof. Cookman Orrell. It was the first public celebration of the order and of Washington's birthday given in the town for some years, and we hope that it will be repeated each recurring year. All success to the noble order of the P. O. S. of A.

REV. J. M. GILL.

How Appreciated in Washington.

The Washington Times, published in Washington, D. C., contains the following interesting editorial reference to the labors and character of Rev. J. M. Gill, pastor of Rhode Island Avenue M. P. Church, formerly pastor of Christ M. P. Church, Chestertown.

"In the early part of January the Rev. Mr. Gill, pastor of the Rhode Island M. P. Church, received a call from the First Methodist Protestant Church of Pittsburg. After a long consideration and although this church pays the largest salary of any of the Methodist Protestant Churches, Mr. Gill, who is so much interested in his work here, declined the call.

This item of news filled a modest position near the foot of a column in yesterday's Times. It was probably not seen by a thousand persons, save those who live in the neighborhood to which that column was assigned. Yet, it is worth much more than this passing notice.

In the first place it evidences a fine and reassuring regard for duty. It was a call from the largest congregation in the denomination. It carried with it the largest salary paid by the denomination. It represented the greatest distinction which this clergyman can obtain from the people of his faith. But this temptation was not so strong as this man's devotion to what he thought his duty.

Had this preacher of earnestness and service accepted this call there would have been a tidal wave of nodding heads and "I told you so's." Among the thoughtless it is a common arraignment of usefulness wherever they can get the largest salaries. Here is one exception to their rule; and there is hardly a congregation in Washington which could not cite another from its own records.

It is significant, also, that this decision was not exploited in the newspapers. If this man had decided to leave Washington, his determination would have been heralded in headlines. But as he decided to stay here his decision became an item in "Neighborhood News." In general terms, the value of news depends upon two things—the number of persons it affects personally and its unusualness. This decision to stay at home affected fully as many Washingtonians as a decision to go to Pittsburg. What it lacked in the news sense was unusualness.

And as decisions of this sort are not unusual among the clergy, this congregation and the city of Washington ought to be thankful for the leadership of such men. In every community reached by The Times they are serving their people with this same high consecration. Everywhere they are fighting the battle of the faith, manfully, sturdily, faithfully. The few who fall by the way are hardly missed from the company that goes marching proudly by. The country is blessed in the character of its clergymen. It ought not let them lack for the encouragement which lies in grateful acknowledgement of their devotion.

STEAMERS NOT INCLUDED

Were Not Sold With The Queen Anne's Railroad.

The recent foreclosure sale of the Queen Anne's Railroad, which was bought and consolidated with the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Railroad, did not carry with it the steamers which operated in connection with the Queen Anne's system. These were, and are still, owned by the Queen Anne's Ferry and Equipment Company, an entirely distinct organization from the railroad company. The ferry company owns three boats—the Queen Anne, the Queen Caroline and the Endeavor. The first two the company built and the last was purchased. The boats were leased to the Queen Anne's Railroad Company and were operated in connection with the railroad property at a fixed rental.

In discussing the matter Capt. Willard Thompson, vice-president and general manager of the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Company, which now operates the Queen Anne's Railroad, said that the new company has no need for these boats. He did not think the corporation he represented will enter the market as purchasers, as it has now all the floating equipment needed to take care of its business. He said that two of the four Chester river boats will be used for ferry purposes in connection with the Queen Anne's Railroad, as he thought that two boats can take care of the Chester river business. However, he added, the corporation has abundant boats to provide for the bay service.

He said in conclusion that the boats are very salable, and with transportation facilities constantly needed, both in Baltimore and elsewhere, he did not think there would be much difficulty in disposing of these boats.

Mr. Edward Stabler, who is closely connected with the Queen Anne's Ferry and Equipment Company, said that the boats are in the market, but no great effort has as yet been made to dispose of them.
