TWO OF THE LOCAL PAPERS have an "argument" on their hands concerning the total assessment of the colored population in the county. See which one gets the better of the "argument."

THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION will be held in Ford's Opera House, Baltimore, on Thursday, Sept. 28. It will probably be one of the largest and most representative gatherings in the history of the party.

GEN. VICTOR BAUGHMAN has been confined to his home in Frederick, for the past two weeks with illness. It is thought that he will be compelled to leave the State for the benefit of his health, and will not be able to take any part in the present campaign. General Baughman is a tower of strength to his party and he had been asked to lead the fight in the interest of the Poe Amendment.

KENT TAKES THE PALM.

Agricultural and Social Advantages of the County Narrated in a Letter to a Friend by a Recent Visitor to Chestertown.

Loretta, Va., Sept. 8th, 1905.

DEAR SIR:—My recent visit to your delightful little city and my stay among your hospitable people, was altogether so pleasing that I cannot forbear writing you at this date by way of expressing my appreciation and thanks for the many acts of kindness extended me, and particularly for the personal attention and courtesies of yourself and wife in your most excellent hostelry in your every effort for the comfort and entertainment of myself and wife. Coming from the far West (Colorada) and covering thoroughly the principal points of interest in some eight or ten states of the South and middle West, looking especially into the social and material growth and opportunites of each with the view of a possible permanent residence, I may be excused for indulging in a comparative impression of matters in general. It may be gratifying to your local pride when I truthfully assert, that nowhere in my travels has a locality appealed to me so favorably, as combining all the essentials of a home, as were afforded in Kent county. This conclusion has been forced upon me after a most careful and painstaking observation.

I have traveled quite frequently at times through the great agricultural belt of the Middle West embracing the corn and wheat centers, but none of them are superior, if indeed equal to the rich and fertile fields of your section of the Maryland peninsula. Nor have I ever observed anywhere greater evidences of thrift, enterprise, energy and pride in the neatness of their farm buildings and premises, or more up-to-date and modern methods of cultivation and harvesting of crops than seems to be practised by your farmers, and as is to be expected from such systematic effort your crops universally were on a par with any seen in the much-lauded and most prosperous sections of the West. Now I do not know to what extent your lands have been advertised as investments for those wanting to engage in this industry. Nor do I know that any of them are anxious to dispose of their holdings, for everyone I met wore a self-satisfied expression or smile of contentment that was very significant of happiness, but I am quite confident if the many seeking such investments could be brought to your county, they would find all the conditions of a desire able home life.

Healthfulness of climate, commercial facilities and opportunities for marketing your products by rail and water to the great centers of the East, all within easy distance, these together with wholesome moral influences, pleasant social relations, and excellent schools, all combined are within themselves sufficient to satisfy the demands of the most exacting. With me and my wife our trip will ever be remembered as among the most pleasurable of our lives, and we are not without hope that some day should fortune favor we may become one of you. With assurances of our always best wishes for you and yours, I am very sincerely,

A. H. GARNETT, M. D.

PULLED THE CAPTAIN'S LEG.

Passenger on Steamer Corsica Got no Money, But was Saved From Watery Grave.

The Baltimore Evening Herald tells the following story:

Capt. William Vandyke, master of the steamer Corsica, of the Chester river fleet of the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Railway Compay, by making a swinging ladder of himself rescued a passenger on his boat form being drowned during the trip from points on the Chester river to Baltimore city Thursday.

The man refused to give his name, saying that he did not want his friends to know that he had taken a bath with his clothes on. According to the passenger's statement, he was sitting on a chair on the upper deck while the boat was taking on grain at Chambers' wharf. In some way, the chair slipped, and he shot over the rail and into about twenty feet of water.

Captain Vandyke, who was on the lower deck, heard the splash, which was immediately followed by a cry for help. Appreciating the fact that only by prompt action could the man be saved, and without waiting to secure unwieldy hawsers or nearby life-preservers, the captian, who is more than six feet in height, swung himself over the Corsica's guard rail and as the man was about to disappear for the second time called to him to catch his (Captain Vandyke's) leg. The struggling man seized the extended limb with a tenacious grip and both men were hauled on board.

Further than a slight nervous shock and the wetting of a new suit of clothes, the passenger suffered no inconvenience from his unexpected bath. He was transferred to the steamer B. S. Ford at Love Point a few hours later and carried to Baltimore city where he lives.

REFUSED TO ACCEPT CONGRATULATION.

Captain Vandye refused to acknowledge Friday morning that he had performed anything worthy of comment, or to accept the congratulations that were lavishly bestowed upon him by his friends along Light street. As a matter of fact, but for his promptness in going to the rescue the man would have been swept under the steamer by the swift current and drowned. The rescued man said, it is alleged, that the accident was entirely due to his own carelessness.

OBITUARY.

MRS. JAMES W. SKIRVEN.

Mrs. James W. Skirven died suddenly at the home of her husband in Baltimore this morning, aged about 55 years. Mrs. Skirven was the daughter of the late Wm. W. Stephens of this county.

THREE JURORS CURED

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler, of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Slebourne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some sousemeat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." For sale by M. A. Toulson, Druggist.

Typhoid Fever.

How to Prevent Its Spread

—ISSUED BY THE—

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

OF MARYLAND.

When TYPHOID FEVER appears in a family the source of the infection must be looked for in drinking water or food taken within the preceding twenty days. The patient may not have been infected at home, but if a second case occurs this second infection will in all probability be traceable in some way to the first patient. In a majority of instances the drinking water has become infected. Your first business therefore is to find out the quality of your drinking water.

You can do this by asking the local health officer for instruction about shipping us samples of your drinking water. In about a week we will be able to report on the drinking water, but in the meantime the members of the family must not use the raw water. The daily supply of drinking water must be boiled.

The infectious material of typhoid fever is produced in but one way. It grows always in the bowels and sometimes in the bladder. It therefore escapes from the sick person in the stools and urine. If we kill the germs in the stools and urine as soon as they are passed there can be no spread of thyphoid fever. These discharges should therefore be disinfected as soon as possible. You will need a large quantity of a good disinfecting solution.

RECEIPT FOR A GOOD DISINFECTANT.

To four gallons of water add enough salt to make a strong brine. Put this in a five gallon demijohn or jug and add a quart of crude carbolic acid. Shake it up well and you will have a good disinfectant for stools and urine.

The crude carbolic acid known as U. S. P. 90 per cent. is very good and a quart will cost about 50 cents. There is a cheaper grade known as a 30 per cent. acid, which is nearly as effective.

About a pint of this solution should be put in the chamber or bed pan before it is used, so that the discharges will begin to be disinfected as soon as they leave the body. There must always be at least as much of the disinfecting solution as there is of the discharges, so that more of the disinfecting solution may need to be added after the discharges are passed. If the stools are thin and watery their disinfection will be accomplished in half an hour or so, but if the stools are thick or formed very much more time will be required. On that account it is best to have a covered jar or bucket into which the bed pan can be emptied, and to empty this jar only once in 24 hours. If the discharged cannot be finally thrown into a sewer, they should be buried in the soil at a convenient spot where there is no chance of their fouling a water supply. The discharges should never be thrown upon the surface of the ground, for you will hardly be successful in killing all the typhoid bacilli, and you must not place them where those not killed by the acid may be blown about in the dust or carried away by flies to infect other people.

In spite of every precaution those who wait on the sick person will get their hands infected, and it is therefore necessary to wash the hands every time one does any service about the patient's bed or body. Whoever waits on the patient must not prepare food or drink for other persons in the house, or if it is impossible to mind this rule, one must most carefully and thoroughly cleanse the hands before performing any household duty outside the sick room. Good scrubbing with soap, water and a brush, and then rinsing well in a fresh water will suffice for cleansing the hands.

If any one else in the house falls sick within two weeks after the first patient the probability is that the infection was lodged before the precautions were taken in regard to drinking water and the disposal of discharges. But if the second case occurs more than 20 days after the first case, that will signify that we have made a mistake somewhere in our precautions.
