THE BOAST OF HEALTH.

It Often Precedes Serious if Not Fatal Sickness.

All doctors know that just before death the patient often experiences what is called a "rally," nature making apparently her last stand against the symptoms which we call death, and it is quite likely that the feeling which induces men to boast of health is of the same kind—an effort of nature to protect us against the coming sickness which the body has recognized, though the mind has not. The phenomenon occurs every day in the cases of consumptive patients, who brighten up and grow hopeful just when the disease is about to strike its hardest blows, and it is quite possible that it is more frequent than has yet been recognized that the approach of fever, for example, is signaled by an unusual consciousness of health. "I have never felt so well in my life," says the patient, who twenty-four hours after is lying prostrate and whose friends quote his statement as illustrating once more the ancient and depressing belief.

The boast had nothing to do with the illness, but it preceded it, and men, attracted by the violent contrast, almost instinctively link the two together as in some way and to some extent cause and effect. Next time those who heard it, if they feel that rush of health in their veins, will avoid boasting of it, and the relation of the two will escape attention. Moreover, it must not be forgotten that boasting is of itself a sign of weakness, either temporary or permanent, and that consequently failure follows boasting more frequently than it follows silence. The perfect driver says he is perfect just when he is most careless, and the resulting spill is remembered when the thousand and one escapes due to the same driver's skill and hardihood are clean forgotten.—London Spectator.

LAMPS THAT ARE CLOCKS.

They Were Commonly Used In the Seventeenth Century.

Of the various examples that have been given of early specimens of the clockmaker's art not the least interesting are the several types of lamp clocks. One of these was of a kind quite common in the seventeenth century and consisted of a lamp burner placed at the base of a glass oil receptacle mounted vertically on a suitable standard. The oil reservoir had attached to it a scale, facing the burner and showing the hours, beginning at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the lamp was to be lighted in winter, and ending at 7 o'clock in the morning. The lamp being lighted, the gradually descending level of the oil, as combustion proceeded, marked the hours.

The other device, of later origin, dating back to the beginning of the present century, utilized the same principle. It consisted of two communicating oil chambers, superposed by a clock dial. In one of the chambers was placed a night lamp to illuminate this dial, and in the other was suspended a float from a cord which passed around a small pulley. The latter was mounted on a horizontal axis ending in the center of the dial. The float of course descended as the oil was consumed and carried the index hand along with it, thus making the hours precisely as in the case already cited. At their best these timepieces could have had only an indifferent degree of accuracy, yet they probably served their purpose well and certainly are interesting at the present time as illustrating some of the expedients adopted by mechanicians of an earlier period.—Cassier's Magazine.

Glassmaking.

Much mystery has in times past attached to the art of glassmaking. It was formerly the custom for the workmen in setting pots in the glass furnace to protect themselves from the heat by dressing in the skins of wild animals from head to foot. To this queer garb were added glass goggle eyes, and thus the most hideous looking monsters were readily presented to the eye. Show was made of themselves in the neighborhood, to the infinite alarm of children, old women and others.

Bryant's Remuneration.

It is amusing to know how small were the pecuniary rewards of Bryant's literary labors. Two dollars a poem was the price that he named, and he seemed to be abundantly satisfied with the terms. A gentleman met him in New York many years after and said to him, "I have just bought the earliest edition of your poems and gave $20 for it." "More, by a long shot," replied the poet, "than I received for writing the whole work."

His Pursuit.

"May I ask," inquired the melancholy stranger, "what is your pursuit in life?"

"It depends," replied Subbubs, "upon whether I'm going or coming. It's the 7:48 train in the morning and the 8:12 at night."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Certain Cure for Croup.

When a child shows symptoms of croup there is no time to experiment with new remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended. There is one preparation that can always be depended upon. It has been in use for many years and has never been known to fail, viz: Chamberlain's Cough remedy. Mr. M. F. Compton of Market, Texas, says of it, "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in severe cases of croup with my children, and can truthfully say it always gives prompt relief." For sale by M. A. All Run Down

THIS is a common expression we hear on every side. Unless there is some organic trouble, the condition can doubtless be remedied. Your doctor is the best adviser. Do not dose yourself with all kinds of advertised remedies—get his opinion. More than likely you need a concentrated fat food to enrich your blood and tone up the system.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is just such a food in its best form. It will build up the weakened and wasted body when all other foods fail to nourish. If you are run down or emaciated, give it a trial: it cannot hurt you. It is essentially the best possible nourishment for delicate children and pale, anaemic girls. We will send you a sample free.

Samuel Hurlock, vs.
William T. Wood, Louisa Wood his wife, Hannah E. Gorman, John Gorman, her husband, Nerma D. Nickerson, Clarence O. Wood, ——— Wood, his wife, John W. Wood, Wilhelmina Wood his wife, Herman C. Wood, Katharine Wood his wife, Walter Truitt, Edith Truitt his wife.

In the Circuit Court for Kent County in Equity.

No. 1573.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree declaring that your orator is entitled to a deed in fee simple for the one-half of the tract of land belonging to Hannah Wood and for which through an error your orator took a deed for an undivided one-half part from John W. Wood in his lifetime, and also for a decree declaring that your orator is also entitled to a deed for the tract of land purchased by your orator from the said Araminta Myers, and also that a trustee may be appointed to convey the fee in certain real estate as is provided under the will of John Whittington, deceased.

The bill states that John Whittington, late of Kent county, deceased, was seized and possessed of a certain farm known by the name of "The Beck Farm," and that the said John Whittington left a last will and testament dated January 15th, 1840, which was duly admitted to probate and recorded among the Will Records for Kent county, in Wills Liber J. F. B. No. 1, folios 74, etc.

And the said John Whittington by his last will and testament devised his said farm to his son, John Whittington and his heirs and assigns upon certain trusts and uses, in trust to collect the rent, and pay the rents and profits to his daughter, Hannah Wood, wife of Wm. Wood, subject to certain provisions, and in case she should leave a child or children living at her death in trust to convey the said land to her child or children in fee simple by a good and sufficient deed, and in case she left no children then in trust for the use and benefit of the said John Whittington's sons, viz: John and William Whittington as tenants in common and their heirs and assigns forever; and your orator shows that the said John Whittington never deeded said farm as divided in said will, and that the said Hannah Wood after coming into possession of the said farm under the said devise, died and left surviving her two children, viz: a son, John W. Wood, and a daughter, Araminta Wood, who under the terms of said will were entitled to the said form as tenants in common in fee simple.

And your orator further shows that the said John W. Wood and Araminta Myers in their lifetime divided the said farm into two equal parts, and although they executed no deeds for the division of the said farm yet each of them, up to the time of their death, held their seperate shares of the said farm, so as aforesaid divided by mutual consent in severalty, and not in common, each of them holding a moiety thereof, which said division was a public matter and was well-known in their respective families.

And your orator further shows that after the farm was so divided by the said John W. Wood and Araminta Myers, your orator, Sam'l Hurlock, purchased of John W. Wood and Hester Wood his wife, one-half of said farm so as aforesaid allotted to John W. Wood and Hester Wood his wife, by a deed duly executed and recorded.

And your orator further shows that by reason of an error in the description in the deed of the said farm, it appears that said deed attempts to convey to your orator all of the said John W. Wood's undivided one-half interest in and to the farm of Hannah Wood, the mother of the said John W. Wood.

While in point of fact it was the intent of the said John W. Wood to convey to your orator, and it was the intent of your orator to purchase that portion of the said farm which had been allotted to the said John W. Wood in the devision made as aforesaid between him and and his sister, Araminta Myers, and the said deed should have recited said division and the fact that it was the said John W. Wood's portion of the said farm which it was intended to convey by the said deed.

And your orator further shows that the said Araminta Myers, held in severalty her one-half portion of the said farm mentioned in the said will of John Whittington, except a tract of nine acres which your orator purchased of the said Araminta Myers in her lifetime, which said tract of nine acres adjoins the farm purchased by your orator of John W. Wood, the brother of the said Araminta Myers, and which said nine acres lies adjoining the remaining lands of Araminta Myers which nine acres of land were purchased by the said Samuel Hurlock of the said Araminta Myers, but no deed was ever given to your orator, although your orator continued in the possession of the same and used the same and occupied it as his own until the death of the said Araminta Myers, and up to the present time.

And your orator is advised that in view of the facts as above set forth it is necessary for him to make all the heirs of John W. Wood parties to this suit and the devisees of Araminta Myers likewise parties to this suit so that a decree may be obtained and a trustee appointed for the purpose of conveying to your orator under the will of John Whittington and as purchaser from John W. Wood the legal title to the said one-half of said farm of the late John Whittington, purchased by your orator of John W. Wood, and intended to be conveyed by the deed hereinbefore referred to, and that also a good and valid deed shall be made by the trustee, so as aforesaid to be appointed for the nine acres of land purchased by your orator of Araminta Myers in her liftime, and your orator is advised in order for this to be done, it is right and proper that all parties who might as heirs at law and devisees of the said John W. Wood or the devisees of Araminta Myers have claim, or claim to have any interest in the said tract of land, should be made parties to this proceeding and should be given notice of the claim of your orator, so that if they have any legal or equitable objections, they may come in and make the same known and show why the relief asked by your orator shall not be granted.

And your orator shows that the following are the heirs at law of John W. Wood and the devisees of Araminta Myers under and by virtue of the terms of her last will and testament, viz.; Wm. T. Wood and Louisa Wood his wife, Hannah E. Gorman, a daughter whose husbands name is John Gorman, Nerma D. Nickerson, a daughter who is a widow, all of Kent county, Maryland; Clarence O. Wood, whose wife's name is unknown, a non-resident, who lives in the state of Connecticut. John W. Wood and Wilhelmina Wood his wife who are non-residents who reside in the state of Delaware, Herman C. Wood and Katherine Wood his wife who reside in Cecil County, Md.

And it appears from her will that the devisees of Araminta Myers are the said Wm. T. Wood and Walter Truitt whose wife's name is Edith Truitt, all of Kent county, Maryland.

To the end therefore, that a decree may be passed for the purpose of declaring that your orator is entitled to a deed in fee for the one-half of the tract of land belonging to Hannah Wood and directing that your orator is also entitled to a deed for the tract of land purchased by your orator from Araminta Myers, and also that a trustee be appointed to convey the fee under the will of John Whittington and to also convey unto your orator a title in fee simple to the farm purchased by him from John W. Wood and the lot purchased by orator from Arminta Myers.

It is thereupon ordered by the Circuit Court for Kent county, as a court of Equity, this 1st day of December 1905, that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Kent county, Maryland, once a week in each of four successive weeks before the 2nd day January next; giving notice to Clarence O. Wood and ——— Wood his wife, John W. Wood and Wilhelmina Wood his wife, who are non-residents of the state of Maryland, of the object and substance of this bill and warning them to appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 20th day of January, 1906, to answer these premises and show cause if any they have why a decree ought not to pass as prayed.
