All Victory Notes Called For Redemption as of May 20, 1923

We have just received notice from the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., that all Victory Notes have been called for payment on May 20th, 1923, and interest thereon stops on that date. Holders of these notes may present them in advance of May 20th, either for immediate redemption at par and accrued interest to the date of optional redemption, or for payment on May 20th, at par and accrued interest to that date.

Holders of registered notes are urged to present them well in advance in order to avoid delay in discharge of registration.

All Victory Notes bearing distinguishing letters A. B. C. D. E. or F. prefixed to their serial number were called for redemption December 15th, 1922, and interest ceased on that date: therefore if any are holding these particular notes they should be turned in at once, as there will be no interest paid on them.

We urge all holders of Registered Victory Notes to call at the bank at their earliest opportunity in order to make the assignment on the notes that is required by the Department before these bonds will be accepted for payment, and as soon as this assignment is made we will forward them to Washington so registration may be released and prompt payment made on May 20th, 1923.
