These gentlemen were guests Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Larrimore on the Island.

Our carpenters and painters keep busy. Capt. and Mrs. J. E. Apsley have moved into their remodeled home on the farm, which they have named "Lindenhurst" in recognition of two handsome trees in the yard. This dwelling has been improved from a scarcely habitable building until it is as strong and substantial as possible, while more than a hundred feet of porches have been added, besides up-to-date kitchen, bath and pantry. Mrs. Apsley is enthusiastic over the work of the carpenters, Charles Parsons, chief and the interior and exterior painting which was done by Rich and Durding. The beautiful wall papers were selected by herself and hung by John R.Diehl. The lawn will be rapidly put in order and new fencing provided. The land is productive and tomatoes are now ready to market. Capt. Apsley is a splendid gardener and will soon have all the grounds in trim shape. The dwelling, which is commodious and equipped with electricity and water, stands end to the present road but a new one will be opened after awhile along the front.

Mrs. James B. Willson's double apartment house is nearly completed. One of the dwellings will be occupied by herself. Each side has new kitchen and room above, pantry and upper and lower porches. Large bay windows have been added to the south side and all is beautifully painted inside and out.

Joseph Downey, Jr's., new house is about ready for plastering. It is modern and has a fine number of pretty windows.

Charles Parsons and family have moved into the dwelling vacated by Capt. Edward Apsley. Mrs. Lewis has taken an apartment in the same building.

A Kent Girl Wins Laurels

Helen Boyd Marx, Dramatic Soprano Hailed In Principal Cities And Towns In Active Concert Season.

Among the younger artists of today none have enjoyed a wider popularity as a concert singer, than Helen Boyd Marx, who has just completed a tour of Florida and Georgia in which she has filled some fifteen concert engagements during the month, and in most every city and town in which she appeared has been re-engaged for the coming season, and has established herself on a firm basis since going on the concert stage and has met with noteworthy success through her many appearances. Mrs. Marx, formerly resided in Chestertown, and will be remembered as Helen Lucile Boyd, daughter of the late Harry L. Boyd, and before coming to Florida, took part in a great many entertainments which has been a great help to her since entering the concert field. Mrs. Marx expects to leave shortly to visit relatives in the north, besides filling a number of engagements which she has booked to appear as soloists in other centers. Before returning to Florida, in October where she will fill a number of re-engagements that will take her over the entire State, she will pay her childhood home a visit, which is of course to her the dearest place of them all. Mrs. Marx will continue to be under the concert management of her husband.

SCHOLARSHIP TO WASHINGTON COLLEGE AWARDED

The scholarship to Washington College was awarded by the Judges of the Orphans' Court of Dorchester county, to James N. Saunders, of Hurlock, Md. Mr. Saunders graduated from the Hurlock High School this year. An examination was held July 21st, at the Cambridge High School which was open to all who wanted to try for the scholarship to Washington College. Seven took the examination and of these all passed except one. The results of the examination were so close that it was a very difficult matter for the judges to make the decision. Register of Wills Russell P. Smith, stated that it was the closest and finest examination which has been held during his thirteen years of experience.

DODGE CAR IMPROVED UPON

Marked improvement in appearance and comfort is apparent in the new line of Dodge Brothers Motor Cars, in the production of which the factory has been gathering momentum since July 1. Hundreds of dealers are now supplied with display cars of the new type, and from every source the factory is receiving reports of enthusiastic approval by the public.

While the basic characteristics of the familiar Dodge Brothers cars of recent days are still present, there is an air of distinctiveness that surpasses all previous efforts of this concern to build a moderately priced car of commendable appearance as well as quality.

The wheelbase is a trifle longer, the body is lower and the rear springs changed to semi-elliptical type are underslung, and increased from 45 to 55 inches in length.

All the features so appear with the public today are embodied in the design of the complete line, which includes a touring car, roadster, coupe, two types of sedan, and screen side and panel side commercial cars of three-quarter ton capacity. All steel bodies—as first introduced by Dodge Brothers in their open passenger cars several years ago—are now used for all types.

The effect of the longer and lower body and longer wheelbase, combined with the new lines and lower seats, is very fine. According to dealers and others who have driven the new cars, the improvement in riding qualities is no less pronounced than the improvement in general design. The reduction in body height lowers the center of gravity and thereby reduces sideway, while rebound shocks are effectively dissipated by the improved front and rear springs. The car holds the road easily and gracefully and affords real riding comfort.

Another distinct new feature is the louvers or ventilator slits in the sides of the hood panels. This change increases the flow of air through the radiator and reduces the flow of hot air to the floor boards, making summer driving most comfortable.

The rear seat and all upholstery of the touring car are removable, affording a large space for loading luggage or other articles. Seats in all types are deeper and lower, adding to comfort and leg room.

The instrument board is greatly improved in appearance with instruments grouped on a raised panel and with longer lighting switch lever facilitating control of the lights while driving.

Brake pedal pads are larger and of a design which makes for greater ease and safety. The hand brake lever, like the shifting lever, is moved forward, giving more leg room and making it easier to get in and out. A Yale lock is built into the transmission, making it possible to double-lock the car when idle.

The steering wheel is materially improved in appearance and all electrical improved in appearance and all electrical connections are inside the steering column.

In the Type A sedan, the upholstery is the finest grade mohair velvet, and all interior hardware is of distinctive Dodge Brothers design. The business coupe and business sedan are finished in attractive Spanish blue leather.

The fiscal year ending July 1 was the most successful in the history of Dodge Brothers, their dealers having marketed approximately 200,000 cars. With the improvements now put into effect, obviously making the car better and more attractive in every way though still retaining the essential attributes to which the car owes its great popularity, it seems quite evident that this company has not yet reached the maximum of its potentialities, despite the tremendous record of the year just closed.

PUBLIC EDUCATION

By SENATOR WM. F. RUSSELL

There can be no doubt concerning my devotion to this great cause. I consider public instruction one of the first objects of government. I believe in free education, and in our public school system. The true American school house with its character and its learning is a great and noble force that is constantly accomplishing much good. Just here I desire to emphasize the fact that school teachers, as a rule, do not obtrude themselves upon public notice; but they materially help to make the County, help to build the State and help to form the Nation. Their influence is for good, and they are imbued with the true spirit of their profession by earnestly trying to bring out and develop all that is best in the minds of those committed to their charge. Institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge have always had my endorsement, and I am an ardent believer in an enlightened public opinion. Clear thinking and correct action are always desirable, because they indicate a safe and a sound citizenship. I have been much interested in education from the viewpoint of a father, and rejoice with many others that our schools and historic Washington College carry to the threshold of the poor as well as to the portals of the rich excellent opportunities, so that our boys and girls may obtain the elementary and likewise the higher courses in education, and thus be guided to lives of integrity and thoughtful usefulness. Young people have forged to the front wonderfully, even during my recollection. Employers seem more willing than ever to entrust them with important propositions and responsibilities; and all avenues of industry, thought and honor are open to their footsteps.

If renominated and elected to the Senate of Maryland I promise to defend and maintain our public school system to the best of my ability.

IS THIS YOU?

The Baltimore Evening News publishes daily an International Feature Service which is entitled "Once-Over." Monday of this week the following searching lines appeared:

Establish yourself where you will represent something. Are you mingling with some persons to whose set you realize you do not "belong?"

You are making an effort to please them in order to get closer to them.

You are not yourself, you are acting a part and somehow it does not seem to be winning for you. It is because they know that you are natural—not true.

When you try so hard to please you bury your own individuality, your aggressiveness and characteristics which might establish you as being outside the ordinary.

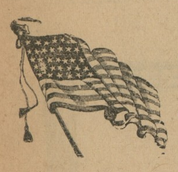

Does it pay, you ask yourself, and you know it does not.

If you cannot be yourself, opposing what you dislike and upholding what you feel to be right, you are paying too big a price for the society of those with whom you associate.

And you are not going to get close to these persons, either, so in the long run, while you may be tolerated you are not making any worthwhile place for yourself.
