CHILDREN'S HOME CAMPAIGN NEXT WEEK

Kent Has $5,500.00 Quota

The campaign to raise $35,000.00 for the enrollment and improvement of the Chillren's Home of Eastern Shore of Maryland, at Easton, Md., will begin next Monday, the 15th, and be concluded on the following Saturday, the 20th. As the Home is non-denominational in so far as the children it receives are concerned, the public generally will be asked to contribute, as well as all members of the Episcopal Church. Pledges will be payable in five equal semi-annual installments, beginning with January 1st next and ending on January 1st, 1926.

Kent county has been asked to contribute $5,500.00. The campaign here is under the supervision of E. Thos. Massey, of Massey, who will furnish information or subscription blanks to any person interested.

The proposed additions to the Home will increase its capacity from 28 to 39 children, and as it is the only home for friendless and orphan children on the Eastern Shore, and the only organized adjunct of the Juvenile Courts of this section, it is believed that the efforts in its behalf will meet with general and liberal response.

The parking of automobiles in Chestertown is becoming a serious problem for the authorities on Saturday nights. Every available space in the town was occupied last Saturday night by the largest crowd seen here in years and the influx of country visitors is becoming greater each week. Just what to do with the crowds to prevent accidents is causing the commissioners some concern.

Dr. Paul Emerson Titsworth, the new president of Washington College, has addressed a letter to every alumnus and former student of the institution in which he outlines a plan for the greater development of the college along financial and educational lines. He will seek not only to place the college on a sound financial basis, but he will labor to greatly increase the enrollment of students.

GOVERNOR RITCHIE FACES WHISPERING CAMPAIGN

FEW BELIEVE THAT SUCH TACTICS CAN INFLUENCE RESULT IN FACE OF DEMOCRATIC RECORD

Time solves many problems—answers many questions. As election day approaches, that riddle: What will be the basis of the Republican campaign? seems in a fair way of being answered.

And the Republican campaign to date is about this:

Some discontent here? Well, fan it.

A little prejudice there? Well, stir the coals. Who can tell how far the resulting flames may spread?

"No Honest Issue" Was Right

Certainly the campaign to date justifies the assertion made early by Governor Ritchie that the Republicans had no honest issue. As far as any voter can judge from the Republican platform, or the campaign to elect the Republican candidates, the State is perfect except that the Democrats in doing all the good things that have been done failed to do them exactly as they should have been done. Nothing is offered approaching a program that the Governor is not engaged in doing.

No voter, Democrat or Republican, but knows that each one of the many places at the disposal of the Governor was desired by many people—good, worthy people, too. Imposed on the Governor was the obligation of selecting some one candidate above all others. Necessarily feelings were hurt. No doubt the Governor writhed quite a bit himself as he wrestled with the task that the law forced upon him. But he had to face the music.

Probing Old Wounds

Now the Republican candidates are engaged mainly in probing the scars these old wounds left, hoping that a few votes here and a few more there, secured in opening up these sore spots, will determine an election. That will not prove to be the case. Sentiment in the broad sense is too strongly with the Governor. Evidence of that situation is open to all who take the trouble to look. The trifling campaign conducted by the Republicans will lead them nowhere.

Meanwhile the Governor, trying to find out what the attacks in the Republican Platform are all about, asks for something approaching a bill of particulars, something specific, that he may have a chance to explain in case any particular act of his might seem to have been prompted by improper motives. It is a safe guess that he will get no answer to his inquiries. Perhaps the Governor would do well to leave the Republican candidates to whisper away with such of their following who enjoy a whispering campaign, while he proceeds to outline the things he has in mind to further advance the interests of all the people of Maryland, Republicans as well as Democrats, confident that vague charges in the face of an unsurpassed record will have no influence with the voters of Maryland.

THE CHESAPEAKE & POTOMAC TELEPHONE CO. BELL SYSTEM WESTERN TELEPHONE & TELEGRAPH CO.

CALLED IN ERROR

Your telephone rings and on answering, the operator asks "Number, please?" Your bell rang, so you feel someone wishes to reach you and you cannot understand why the operator answers in the same way as if you were making a call.

In this case, the operator who answered you was not the one who rang your bell. It may have been rung by any one of the operators in your exchange. The operator who answered you did not know that your telephone had been rung, but was responding to the signal that appeared when you lifted your receiver.

Usually such a "call in error" occurs because the party calling abandons the call; i. e., hangs up the receiver before the called subscriber has had an opportunity to answer.

"Calls in error" cause great annoyance. Telephone users can assist in preventing them by waiting until the person being called has ample time to answer the telephone. When the called party answers, if you do not want to talk or if you have asked for a wrong number, explain it to the person answering.
