OPPORTUNITY AWAITS THE MAN WITH A FEW DOLLARS AND SOME PEP.

Possibly my first adv. created the impression that it was a bankrupt sale I had advertised; that is not the case, but a live going business and on both feet. I have goods arriving daily on anticipated orders, that were in transit before conditions arose making it imperative that I close out.

This is a concrete business proposition worthy of investigation.

If you are a live wire show me and you haven't sufficient kale I'll help finance.

Don't hesitate, its dangerous.

FOXES KILLING RABBITS

Foxes are rapidly increasing in Kent and are playing havoc with rabbits, according to E. Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden. While the increase is most marked in Kent the nuisance extends largely over the whole State.

Some years ago almost every other farmer in Kent kept hounds, and after his crops were in he would join in fox hunts. Barbed-wire fences have stopped that. Foxes are multiplying fast and they acknowledge no closed season. We can't have foxes and rabbits both.

Mr. LeCompte said he had received no report of rabbit blight this season. Last year there were general complaints of some disease among rabbits and it was investigated by Federal Government conservation authorities.

NEW FIRE APPARATUS IS IN CHESTERTOWN.

After years of talk, complaint and what-not the ambition of some of our progressive citizens and the desire of most of our property owners has been realized, viz., the purchase of some kind of fire-fighting apparatus to supplement the excellent water facilities. This practical movement first began when the Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Kent County, which had been donating $200 each year for fire apparatus by resolution of the Board declined to contribute further until some effort was made for additional fire apparatus as this was the real purpose of the donation each year. After considerable agitation and various meetings a committee was appointed to raise funds and purchase apparatus. This committee comprised Fred. G. Usilton, chairman; Wm. P. Newnam, treasurer; J. Hydie Thomvson, secretary; John C. Davis and Wm. G. Smyth. After consulting with M. W. Thomas, President of the Fire Co., Walter Wright, Chief, C. N. Satterfield, President of Commissioners, J. H. Sides, President of Water Board, and others a contract was awarded to the United States Fire Apparatus Co., of Wilmington, for an outfit to be mounted on an International truck, the whole to cost about $4,000. Exact figures will be given later.

This outfit arrived in Chestertown Saturday and was given a try-out at various sections of the town under the direction of Chief Walter Wright with C. Arthur Bacon, chief engineer at the throttle. The demonstration was highly satisfactory to everyone. A 3-hour test is to be given before settlement is made. A full description of the machine will be given later.

Washington Plays Fine But Loses to Navy.

Basket ball at the Naval Academy opened its season Wednesday afternoon with a real thriller when the Midshipmen won from the fast and experienced team of Washington College by 22 to 20, after having been lead as badly as 11 to 1 during the first half. The winning shot was made by Day, who had taken Ekstrom's place at center, and who played brilliantly just one minute before final time was called. Less than a minute before, the same player had tossed the basket which made the score a tie. At every other period of the game Washington was in the lead.

Three players left the game by the four-foul route, Ostertag, Navy, five minutes before final time, and Dumschott and Fiore of the visitors just before the contest ended.

The public will understand that there are various ways of winning a game. Navy could not afford to be beaten by Washington so the withdrawal of three men toward the close helped to win. Under all the conditions Washington put up a fine game and Navy will not soon forget it.

NIGHT POACHERS CAUGHT

Pinkerton detectives have a rival in Harry Stavely who caught several hunters on his farm one night recently. Mr. Stavely lives on Fairlee Creek and values his hunting privileges highly. For sometime he has been hearing shooting at night as if in the direction of his pond where wild geese feed. He and one of his colored farm hands sat up nearly all of one night watching from their bedroom windows for the violators of the law. Their vigils were rewarded when the colored man spied an automobile approaching a gate leading from the farm to the main road. Mr. Stavely saddled one of his horses and went in pursuit of the car. He stopped the men at the gate and held them prisoners for the remainder of the night and had the deputy game warden notified, who came to the scene and secured the names of the violators of the law.

One of the men had a white handkerchief over a part of his face to conceal his identity, while another of the five men in the car endeavored to conceal his identity. Mr. Stavely snatched the handkerchief from the face of one man whom he declared he already knew, and made certain as to the identity of the others. Having secured the names of all the gunners, and the evidence in the shape of two dead geese and two crippledones, he notified State's Attorney S. Scott Beck, who, will shortly issue a warrant for the arrest of all the men implicated in the affair. The killing of wild fowl at night is both a state and Federal offence punishable by a heavy penalty.

Bay Oyster Season May Be Reduced 2 Months

A bill will likely be introduced at the next meeting of the State Legislature, same has the backing of the State Conservation Commission and will shorten the oyster season by two months.

The aim of the bill will be to preserve the Chesapeake oyster beds by giving the bivalves a longer time in which to breed and grow. The season is now too long, as it allows time to take too many of the oysters out each year, it is alleged.

October instead of September, would be the opening of the season, and it would close on April 1st instead of April 25th, if the bill should be enacted into a law. Mr. Vickers explained, he did not believe this would work a hardship on anyone, as there is little demand for oysters in September, as with warm weather,
