Make Body Building Bread For Youngsters With

BROOK'S

Rose Bud Flour

Growing young bodies call for bread with bone and muscle building value—and the foods must have flavor.

There is no better food for children than good bread, and no better bread can be made than with Rose Bud Flour. And Rose Bud Bread has a flavor.

It is the cream of the wheat—the best wheat we can get—milled under the best of conditions—a white feathery flour that works up beautifully into wonderful loaves that the children will like.

Rose Bud Flour, despite its high worth, is lower in price than you have been paying for Western flours, and it makes up just as economically.

Excellent for Pies and Pastry

While containing no corn starch or other adulterant, Rose Bud Flour proves itself a wonderfully fine pie and pastry maker—flaky and light. Try it one week on our recommendation.
