CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP.

Extracts from an Address Delivered in Chestertown by Rev. Penfield Fikes, of Baltimore.

Mr. Fikes said in part—"As we stand in the shadow of the retreating century, our ears catch the mutterings of social discontent, and the roaring whirlwind of destructive forces that menace our institutions, filling the air with the dust of controversy, and the evils of the oppressed. The safety of America is not in the gold and silver veins of our Western mountains, not in our amazing stretch of territory, but the hope of Columbia lies in the heart of Jehovah, the God of our fathers. We must not however, close our eyes to the facts that confront us as American citizens—questions of equity, education and suffrage. Our fathers have bequeathed to us a host of unsettled problems, and we must need devote our best endeavor to their solution.

Christian citizenship stands for Pure Patriotism. All the world admires a patriot! To his honor be it said, Benjamin Franklin never allowed the laurels to be snatched from the noble brow of his beloved country. He was dining with a small party, when it was proposed that a representative of France, England and America should each offer a toast to his respective Nation. It fell to the lot of the Englishman to open the program. He arose and in the language of a Briton, said: "Here's to Great Britain, the sun that gives light to all the Nations of the world. The Frenchman was rather taken back at this, but he responded: "Here's to France, the moon whose magical rays move the tides of the world." Franklin then arose, and with an air of quaint modesty said: "Here's to George Washington, the Joshua of America who commanded the sun and the moon to stand still, and they stood still." Patriotism is love and devotion to one's country; a love that prompts to the support and defense of its institutions; to obedience to its laws, and to the promotion of its welfare. Patriotism is not a wild fanciful sentiment, but a glorious reality. It is not dead—a mummy wrapped in the bonds of by-gone days, embalmed with fragrant memories—it is a living vital fact today.

Patriotism is not partisanship. Partyism is an evil genius, the father of the boss, and the companion of fraud. Politics seems to be the science of getting rich. Politics is organized selfishness. Patriotism is magnanimous self renunciation for the common good. Politics seeks advantage for men, patriotism advantage for man. Pure patriotism is not commercialism. God pity fair Columbia when she becomes the mistress of the commercial spirit. Patriotism never seeks private gain at public expense.

Christian citizenship discriminates against no nation. Let there wave from every post a welcome to the liberty-lovers of the world. We have welcomed and will welcome all who come, but let them "remember the Sabbath day" to keep it holy: Come! But "Thou Shalt Not Steal," either our gold or our garment. Come, but roll your anarchistic sentiments and your traitorers bombs in the folds of your socialistic red flags, and throw them into the white arms of the hungry sea—the home of discontent. Come, but forget not that although Chicago has her wind, and the West its hurricanes, there is not breeze enough from Atlantic to Pacific to unfurl and keep afloat, more than one flag, and that is the red, white and blue flag, the pride of America forever. We shall not quarrel about your complexion, or your brogue or your possessions, but we do insist that you take off your hat to Uncle Sam, and swear uncompromising allegiance to the blood bought constitution of the United States. Christian citizenship also stands for education. The Republic is built upon the public. However men may differ on other matters, all agree that intelligence is essential to the perpetuity of a free nation. Let us inculcate the highest ideal of patriotism in home and church and school, until it shall be hereafter forever impossible for a Robert Ross to be mercilessly slaughtered within the sacred precincts of an American ballot box in the Empire State, or for an emblem of the Little Red School to be ignominously stoned in the streets of an intelligent New England city, or for a murderous bullet of a Czolgosz to find the target in the heart of another President of this land of the free and home of the brave."

Big Prizes. — Gamble Latrobe, Jr., superintendent of the section of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad between Wilmington and Perryville, Md., has won first prize for the best section of track on the grand division of the Pennsylvania railroad, and also first prize for the best section on the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore division. The grand division prize is $1,200, of which $500 goes to C. S. Heritage, Mr. Latrobe's assistant, and for the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore division the grand prize is $600, of which Mr. Heritage gets $300.

Washington College, 35; Dover, 0. —The football team from Wilmington Conference Academy, Dover, Delaware, was outclassed Friday by the Washington College team, and in two halves of 15 minutes each the college boys made the score 35 to 0.

The Washington boys seemed the lighter. Dover got the ball but twice. Washington's backs played well. Noble made runs of 25 and 40 yards several times. This is the first game of Washington and the students are jubilant over the showing. The line-up:

PRESIDENT GALE'S ADDRESS.

Delivered in Christ Church, Chestertown, at the C. E. Convention.

"As I look over the past year, that is since last convention, I can see that we have cause for praise and thanksgiving for the blessings we have received as Christian Endeavorers, as a Union, as Societies, as Individuals. We have often had our efforts rewarded with good results. In some quarters there has been increased interest in the work, new members have been taken, our abilities have been more fully developed and our spiritual life has been blessed.

I regret that one society that numbered with us last convention numbers with us no more in interdenominational fellowship.

I'll take advantage of this opportunity to state that our roll book is always open to enter the name of any society that cares to join us, that is organized in accordance with the model constitution, or if there be those who have existed as a purely denominational organization they can join us by including the common name Christian Endeavor with their denominational name, as many have done in this land and elsewhere, and thus enter into the fuller, the interdenominational fellowship.

Though some work has been done there have not been the efforts put forth that should have been. As I have visited and been in touch with the different societies of the Union I have been impressed with the fact that it is too often the case a part of the membership "a faithful few have to about carry the whole thing along. Now this should not be so in any branch of church work, and the Christian Endeavor society it seems to me should be one of the very last places for such a condition of affairs in an organization every one of whose active members should strive to do whatever the Lord would have them do. I believe every member, unless for some very good reason, should have some work to do and do it.

Dr. Clark, in his address at Cincinatti convention, said, speaking of the Christian Endeavor society, "Its purpose is not to amuse young people, or to tickle them with the entertainment straw, but to call upon them in the name of Jesus Christ to do hard things for their Lord and His church. We must indeed, if we would be true Endeavorers, "Love the Lord God with all our heart, with all our mind, with all our soul and with all our strength." Now we want our efforts directed when they will accomplish the best possible results; and, as in all other work, if we would do this we must abide by the principles governing that particular work; so it is in the Christian Endeavor Work.

Who better able to tell what those principles are than Dr. Clark? It was, when nearing the completion of his third round the world trip in the interest of the movement, while at the great convention in London last year that he named those as the fundamental features of Christian Endeavor. 1. Confession of Christ. 2. Service for Christ. 3. Fellowship with Christ's follows. 4. Loyalty to Christ's Church.

It was after having visited every State, Province and Territory of North America, nearly every country of Europe, and Asia' Australia, Egypt South Africa and Islands of the seas. After having a varied and rich experience in seeing the society at work under most every conceivable condition it would seem, and after nearly twenty years of experience in the work, he stated that he was convinced that "these are the essential and essential principles of the movement." Confession Service Fellowship and Fidelity or Loyalty. Confession of our love for Christ, proof of it by our service for Him, Fellowship with those who love Him, and Fidelity to our regiment, the one in which we fight for Him," our own denomination church, and bear what he says further, "Hold to these fundamentals the world around, hold to these fundamentals; exemplify them in your societies, and your own lives, and abundant as have been the blessings of God during the last twenty years, the next twenty will far surpass them." May we ever keep the truths in mind in our work here in our dear old Kent."

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN MR. TURNER AND MR. PARRAN,

The former stands for white supremacy, the latter stands for black supremacy. The following declaration of Abraham Lincoln (quoted from the Baltimore Sun) will prove conclusively that Mr. Turner should be elected:

"I will say that I am not, nor ever have been, in favor of bringing about in any way the social and political equality of the white and black races; that I am not, nor ever have been, in favor of making voters or jurors of negroes, nor of qualifying them to hold office, nor to intermarry with white people; and I will say, in addition to this, that there is a physical difference between the white and black races which will forever forbid the two races living together on terms of social and political equality. And inasmuch as they cannot so live while they do remain together, there must be the position of superior and inferior, and I, as much as any other man, am in favor of having the superior position assigned to the white race."

Concealed Weapons On Election Day.
