CAPT. M. K. BARROLL, though about 38 years old, cast his first vote on Tuesday. Captain Barroll has spent so much of his life in foreign countries as a member of the United States Army that he had never before acquired a residence entitling him to a vote. The young army officer, covered with honors won in the Philippines, is now stationed at North Point, on the Patapsco, near Baltimore.

DEMAND FOR GOOD NEEDLEWOMEN.

Stitchery long has been praised as the very proper occupation for women. With fashion demanding needlework, the highways and byways are scoured for women who can do it. Dressmakers are so harassed to find those who can do handsome embroidery and workmanlike ornamental stitches that under some circumstances they are willing to let fine garments be taken to private houses for embellishing. Never was there such opportunity for the woman who wanted to earn pin money. Better yet, for those who wish to make a serious work of stitchery. Of course, much better prices may be had by sewing directly with the women who will wear the dresses.

FARM LIFE FOR CITY FOLKS.

It is said that each year about 50,000 persons leave London to pick hops in Kent, remaining in the country a few weeks until the crop is harvested and then returning to their city homes. A similar custom prevails in Baltimore. Thousands of women and children who live in Baltimore go to Anne Arundel and other nearby Maryland counties to pick peas and strawberries in the spring. This is an excellent system, and it might be extended. Farm work is beculiar, in that it requires labor only at certain periods of the year. Working people cannot live all the year on the wages they earn at harvest and corn husking. At these times the the farmer needs extra labor, and in this State there is often much difficulty in getting it. In the large cities and towns there is at every season of the year much unemployed unskilled labor, and it would be a service to this labor, as well as to the farmers, to put it in the way of getting to the farms when their services are temporarily required —Sun.

The plan has been tried here with canners and works well but the colored labor which comes from Baltimore to work on farms is worthless. In many cases they have proven to be only thieves and expert gamblers giving the county much trouble. The labor problem is a serious one here.

Allie Vincent 29,374.—As announced in the NEWS Mr. Alday Clements has sold his fine stallion, Edgar Dudley, to Mr. Armstrong, of Delaware. Mr. Clements last week bought Allie Vincent 28,374, from the West View Stock Farm, Somerfield, Pa. Allie Vincent, foalded in 1895, is a handsome dark bay with black points, black mane and tail; stands 16¼ hands high and weight 1200 pounds. His blood lines are of the best —the great Wilkes-Mambrino-Patchen combination. Vincent is a magnificent specimen of the finely bred horse, and is a worthy successor of Edgar Dudley.

TAKES SIDE OF CUPID.

Cause Broken Engagement—This, The Executive Holds, Is Contrary to Best Interest of Service and South Carolinian Loses.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Pres. Roosevelt has decided that a man who jilts a girl is not entitled to an appointment in the army and that such conduct may be properly termed contrary to the best interest of the service. He has therefore, refused to appoint former Capt. William P. Crawford, of Chester, S. C., a second lieutenant in the regular army and thereby satisfies the girl's friends, who have made a determined fight against the young man receiving a commission.

There is nothing against young Crawford on file save the fact that he refused to marry the young woman to whom he was engaged, and there would have been no obstacle to his appointment had not the young woman permitted her relatives to protest against his selection. The case has caused considerable trouble at the War Department, where it was given serious attention by the officials and finally sent to the White House for action.

Crawford served during the war with Spain as a captain of volunteers and had a creditable record and was slated for appointment last summer as second lieutenant of infantry along with hundreds of other young officers serving in the Philippines. He became engaged to Miss Rebecca Douglass, of Camden, S. C. The wedding day was named, the cards were issued and presents began to be received. It was said that Crawford, who was the publisher of a small newspaper in his town told his friends that unless he was appointed he could not marry. His influence in Washington seemed to insure his selection and all plans were therefore completed for the event. Suddenly Crawford changed his mind and told the mother of the young woman that he would not marry her daughter, and, it is charged that he gave no acceptable reason.

Then it was that pressure was brought on the authorities here to prevent his being commissioned on the ground that "no true Southern gentleman" would discard a yound lady, and if he was guilty of such conduct he was not entitled to associate with officers of the army. The politicians and other influential people of South Carolina took the case up and brought it directly to the President's attention. A number of the delegations recently visiting here in regard to the Federal patronage of the State have also incidentally informed the President that they did not desire young Crawford appointed in the army.

The case is believed by the War Department officials to be the first on record where protest against the selection of an applicant for commissioned rank has been based on these grounds. Lately the wife of a school teacher sent to Manila asked that the authorities prevent her husband from leaving the country, but it was held the case was not one calling for official interference. The Navy Department is frequently appealed to by young women who protest against the unfaithful conduct of sailors in jilting them, but the authorities adhere to the well-accepted theory that a sailor man is entitled to a sweetheart in every port and that the Government cannot undertake to discipline jackies who fail to keep their engagement promises.

QUEEN ANNE'S RAILROAD.

Kent Island Route to Love Point Nearly Completed.

Officials of the Queen Anne's Railroad expect to open traffic by the way of the Kent Island route to Love Point early in the winter. The rails have already been laid from Queenstown Junction to Kent Island Narrows, and a large force is completing the line from Love Point to the narrows. The bridge and draw will soon be finished. The length of the line from Queenstown Junction to Love Point is 13-7-10 miles. After leaving Queenstown the stations will be Walsey, named for an estate there; Winchester, a town of considerable importance; Narrows, Chester, Stevensville, Palmers and Kent Island. At the terminus large buildings have been begun. There will be a freight shed 200 feet by 22 feet, a roof 100 feet by 42 feet at the boat landing and a covered way for passengers 250 feet long. Two double houses, in which officers and employes of the company will live, are being built. A number of other buildings and an oyster-packing establishment are contemplated. Land near the terminus of the railroad has rapidly increased in value.

By the new route passengers will have at least an hour more in Baltimore city than at present. The time of the trip will be reduced 30 minutes each way. The new stations on the Centreville branch, which is a fraction over five miles long, are Briston and Perlee
