The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

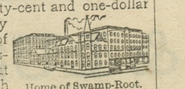

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

THE LAST DAYS OF SCHOOL.

Oh! what is so long as a day in June
When the last term of school is closing?
Then the boy's big heart is all atune
With the summer sounds of the afternoon,
And the swirl of his thoughts nigh makes him swoon,
As he dreams at his desk, half dozing.

The woodpeckers dance their rigadoon
Up the side of the new-leaved oak,
And the bluejay—gaudily dressed buffoon—
With his harsh laugh screams his joke,
Oh! the school term's closing days are slow,
And the lessons a boy is saying
Mean naught to him. He can only know,
While impris'd there and depressed with woe,
That waiting for him in the brooklet's flow
The slim, speckled trout are a-playing.

You'll ne'er keep a boy's wild thoughts, I trow,
Within the bounds of a book,
When under the bank where the alders grow
There's a place for his line and hook.
Oh! what is so long as a day in June,
When the school's last term is ending,
When the great summer choir is all in tune,
From the birds' high notes to the insects' croon,
While the boy yearns all thro' the afternoon
To follow his thoughts far wending?

CONSTABLE KILLS PRISONER

Horace M. Easton Now Locked up in the Cecil County Jail at Elkton.—Story of the Tragedy.

Elkton, Md., June 15.—Horace M. Eaton, a constable of the First district, Cecil county, is a prisoner confined in the Elkton jail, charged with causing the death of Marion C. Brown, colored, aged about 25 years, who formerly resided in this town.

The scene of the trouble was at Warwick, a small village in the First district. A merry-go-round had arrived in the town, and last evening Magistrate Johns had Constable Eaton go to the grounds where the merry-go-round was to settle some difficulty that occured between a white boy, Isaac Lightcap, and Brown. When the officer appeared upon the scene the negro was in the act of assaulting the lad.

The negro was placed under arrest, and on his way to the magistrate's office the officer was held up by a number of Brown's companions. During the scuffle the officer drew his revolver, when one of the gang caught the officer's arm. At that moment the weapon was discharged. The ball, a 22-caliber, entered Brown's cheek near the left eye. The prisoner was taken before the justice of the peace, who committed him to the Elkton jail.

At that time it was approaching midnight, and as the distance to Elkton was about 20 miles, a local physician was summoned, but refused to come, it is alleged. The injured man was brought to Elkton Sunday morning, where Dr. Jamar was called in, but the man was beyond all surgical skill, and died about 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Coroner Nelson was summoned and placed the officer under arrest to await the action of the inquest. The constable is about 45 years of age, and has been an officer in his district for 11 years. He claims that the shooting was accidental. It is said that there are two sides to the shooting, which will be brought out at the inquest.
