DEATH IN AN "AUTO."

Millionaire Fair and His Young Wife Meet a Horrible Death While Automobiling in France.

ANOTHER CONTEST FOR THE FAIR MILLIONS HAS BEGUN.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fair, Americans, who were related to Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr. (Miss Virginia Fair), were returning to Paris from Trouville Friday when their automobile swerved and crashed into a tree 15 miles from Paris. Both were killed. Mr. and Mrs. Fair had been staying at Trouville during racing week. They had a very fast 45-horsepower automobile, which attracted considerable attention and with which they were highly pleased Mr. Fair had been from Trouville to Paris and back again in one day on the machine.

The accident occurred at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon and almost in front of the Chateau Buisson du Mal. The Fairs intended to dine and spend the night in Paris and return to Trouville in time for luncheon.

Dashed Into a Tree.

The wife of the gatekeeper of the Chateau was the only witness of the disaster. She says she noticed a big red automobile coming along the road at a tremendous pace. Suddenly something happened, and the heavy machine slid sideways from the right to the left side of the road for about 60 yards. It then dashed up an embankment, turned a complete somersault and crashed into a big elm tree in front of the gate of the Chateau. The automobile was wrecked, the front axle being broken and other parts of the machine smashed, including the steering gear. When the automobile turned over, the wife of the gatekeeper says, she saw Mr. and Mrs. Fair thrown high in the air and fall with a heavy thud to the ground. The chauffeur, who was sitting behind the Fairs, was precipitated into a ditch. He staggered to his feet, calling for help. The gatekeeper's wife rushed to his assistance and aided him in extricating Mr. and Mrs. Fair, who were buried beneath the wrecked machine, and in the last throes of death.

Both had sustained ghastly injuries, and were almost unrecognizable. Mr. Fair's head had been crushed in, while Mrs. Fair's skull was split. The chauffeur was terribly affected at the calamity and seemed bereft of his senses. He threw himself into a ditch on the opposite side of the road and rolled about, crying "My poor masters."

M. Borson, owner of the Chateau Buisson du Mal, was summoned, and after advising the local authorities of the accident, he ordered the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Fair to be carried to the gatekeeper's lodge. Here they lay on mattresses, and flowers were strewn over them. In the room were three wax tapers burning dimly. Later the bodies were taken to the Chateau Buisson du Mal.

Due to Bursting Tire.

The accident was evidently due to the bursting of a tire. At the time it occurred the automobile, which was capable of running 74 miles an hour, was going at the rate of 62 miles an hour.

The local police authorities hold in their possession and have sealed up a valise belonging to the Fairs, which contains jewelry, two letters of credit, a French bank note worth $200 and some gold coins.

Mrs. Wm. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., who was Mr. Fair's sister, returned from Trouville Sunday and sailed for New York on the North German Lloyd steamship Kronprinz Wilhelm.

How It Happened.

M. Brotey, the chauffeur of the automobile in which Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair were killed, returned to Paris. In an interview he threw further light on the cause of the accident, saying:

"When we left Trouville Mr. Fair was suffering from bronchial catarrh. He coughed frequently on the road, and during the fits of coughing his face was much congested, evidently producing slight dizziness.

"He had just been coughing when I noticed that the tire of one of the hind wheels was deflated. I realized the danger, and jumping to my feet and leaning forward I shouted in Mr. Fair's ear in English:

"'Stop quick! Tire no good!'

"Mr. Fair glanced back, but he did not reply. Apparently he tried to stop, but in doing so he must have made the wrong steering movement, as the machine swerved across the road and went in a straight line for a tree. Mrs. Fair, when she saw the direction the automobile was taking, clasped her husband's shoulders with her arm and turned her face back toward me with a look that said plainly: 'We are lost.'

"The next moment came the crash and I was thrown into the field beside the road and stunned. When I recovered—which I did quickly—I limped to the side of my master and mistress and with the help of the chateau gatekeeper's wife, extricated the bodies from the wreck."

Asked if either then showed signs of life, Brotey replied:

"They both seemed to be dead, but I was in such a dazed condition from shock and so affected at the ghastly spectacle presented by the wounds on the head of both victims that I did not notice whether either moved or not."

Contest For Fair Millions.

It cost almost $2,000,000 to probate the estate of Senator James G. Fair.

Of that sum $1,670,000 was expended in lawyer's fees. The remainder was used to meet incidental court expenses. When Mr. Fair died his estate was estimated to be worth $15,000,000. It was on that basis the attorneys for the heirs fixed their fees. Charles L. Fair selected George A. Knight and Charles J. Heggerty as his attorneys and fixed their compensation at 6 per cent. of his inheritance. As the estate was divided into three parts, his share was $5,000,000 and the fee of Knight and Heggerty was $300,000.
